EXCLUSIVE

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has abandoned hopes of winning Senate confirmation of L. Patrick Gray as permanent director of the FBI and has offered the job to the Justice Departments top crusader against organized crime, it was learned Friday.

Sources in the Justice Department and the Senate Judiciary Committee confirmed that Henry E. Petersen, acting assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division, will be nominated as Gray's replacement.

The sources said that Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst offered the post to the 52-year-old Petersen last week after it became clear that Gray's nomination will not be confirmed by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Gray, named acting FBI director after the death of J. Edgar Hoover last May, has been damaged by disclosures of partisan political activity on behalf of President Nixon and by charges that he allowed the White House to thwart the FBI's investigation of the Watergate bugging scandal and other illegal activities allegedly involving White House aides.

The growing opposition to Gray's nomination was summed up Wednesday by Senate majority whip Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., who flatly predicted that Gray's nomination is "beyond salvage" and that nothing can be done to save it.

Justice Department and Senate sources said Friday that Petersen told Kleindienst he will accept the President's offer only if it is clear the nomination will be approved by the Senate.

Consequently, the Justice Department has been sounding out key Senators in recent days in what one source described as an effort to "to get all their ducks in a row." The initial response to Petersen's name has been "encouraging," according to the sources.

A judiciary committee source said Friday that the administration has discussed Petersen's nomination with Chairman James Eastland, D-Miss., as well as Byrd and Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., both key figures in the fight to block Gray's nomination.

The committee source disclosed that the administration has also discussed the name of John E. Ingersoll, director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, as a possible successor to Gray.

However, the source added, "The one they're serious about is Petersen and if I had to bet money on it, I'd put it on Petersen."

Also, the announcement by the White House Friday that President Nixon has ordered all his staff members to testify before the grand jury investigating the Watergate incident is seen as an effort to ease Petersen's confirmation.

Petersen's own background is expected to further

More POW terrors told

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

More former U.S. prisoners of war discussed on Friday the torture and brutality they underwent at the hands of their Communist captors. "After about an hour or two," said one man, "I actually hoped they would kill me."

The men had kept silent until the last of the POWs originally scheduled for release in Indochina landed Thursday at Clark Air Base in the Philippines.

AT NEWS CONFERENCES and in interviews on Friday, the men provided fresh details. They did not discuss reports of servicemen who cooperated with the enemy or possible retribution. Military sources said earlier they had been told by the Pentagon to maintain their silence on this issue.

Air Force Lt. Col. Kenneth North of Welfleet, Mass., who spent more than six years as a prisoner, said he was tied with wire, kicked and slapped around, then was trussed up and hit with rifle butts until he wished for death.

During his interrogation, North said at a news conference in Chicopee, Mass., "I showed them (the North Vietnamese) my Geneva convention card" with the rules on treatment of prisoners. "They tore it up."

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Paul E. Galanti of Richmond, Va., who was shot down June 17, 1966, said he was surrounded by about 50 North Vietnamese peasants when he reached the ground.

"I WASN'T prepared to become a prisoner," he said, "and had decided I would never get captured. I was going to fire five bullets into the Vietnamese and use the sixth on myself, but then I decided being dead lasts a long time."

Galanti said he surrendered and later was inter-

Nixon bends on 'bug' probe

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Responding to mounting criticism, the White House indicated Friday its readiness to compromise with the Senate's investigation of the Watergate case on the issue of furnishing witnesses and information from President Nixon's personal staff.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, announced at the same time that the President had issued an affirmative order to all members of his staff to testify, if called before a federal grand jury that is continuing to look into the Watergate raid.

With respect to both the court and congressional inquiries into political espionage, Ziegler said the President was willing to cooperate in any way that did not do "violence to the separation of powers." In either investigation, however, appearances by members of the White House staff would be limited to sessions closed to the public.

H.R. Haldeman, the President's chief of staff, and John W. Dean III, the White House counsel, recently connected by hearsay to the advance planning of the Watergate raid, are believed never to have appeared before the grand jury investigating the case.

But last summer and fall the grand jury called, and heard from, other senior advisers to the President, including John Mitchell, the former attorney general; Jeb Stuart Magruder, a onetime White House aide and later deputy manager of the Nixon re-election campaign, and Charles Colson, a former special counsel to the President.

Nixon has invoked the doctrine of executive privilege to prevent his staff from testifying before the Senate's Watergate investigation, but he has never applied the doctrine to judicial proceedings. The President himself is legally immune from being required to appear in a judicial proceeding, but whether his aides could be required to appear is legally unclear.

Ziegler presented his statements Friday as reaffirmation of old policy to clear up certain "misunderstandings" about the White House position.

But for the first time the White House appeared to be showing concern about the bipartisan attacks on the administration's conduct in the case. Also for the first time, Ziegler's remarks, made after lengthy White House meetings, had a conciliatory tone.

The change was believed to be due in part to the concern expressed by a number of Republicans in Congress and elsewhere that the White House might be covering up involvement of aides and others close to the Presi-

Farmers, housewives rap freeze on meat

United Press International

Farm and meat industry leaders expressed anger Friday over President Nixon's ceiling on meat prices. Spokeswomen for a housewives' revolt said they would boycott meat anyway.

Elton Berck, president of the Farmers Union in the beef-producing state of Nebraska, epitomized farm belt disgruntlement.

HE CHARGED the President acted "under the advice of Wall Street cowboys and legal fact benders . . . labor czars whose anguished bleatings conveniently overlook the fact that skyrocketing labor costs are at the very heart of the alleged problem."

Housewives who have been in the forefront of organizing an "April Fool's Week" meat boycott appeared unimpressed by Nixon's declaration.

"We haven't asked for a meat ceiling, we're asking for lower prices," said Virginia Lewis, Southern California chairman of "fight inflation together," the organization that launched the boycott movement here.

June Forway Donovan, national chairman of FIT, predicted the boycott, scheduled for next week, would grow until prices start to drop.

"If the prices don't come down, we'll extend the boycott two, three, four weeks or maybe completely," she said. "The powers that be have underestimated the power of the American woman."

GERTRUD Rebele of Tewksbury, Mass. head of Women Against Skyrocketing Prices, said of the ceiling "I think it stinks — our position is to get meat down where it was February, 1972.

Mrs. Rose West, who plans to lead a supermarket boycott in Denver, called the ceiling "a grandstand play." Mrs. Ethel Rosen, top figure in a similar drive in Chicago, said, "Nixon is freezing prices at the highest level they've ever been in the history of the country; we are still advocating a national boycott."

However, a Billings, Mont., organization called BEEF (Better to Eat Economic Foods) said it had canceled a planned boycott as a result of the President's announcement.

Nixons crackdown did not appear to have an immediate effect on Midwest livestock markets.

Beef prices held steady while pork continued to climb — going from $3 to $4 per hundredweight — at several key markets.

Herrell Degraff, president of the American Meat Institute, said in Chicago, "The new controls will bring more problems but not more meat to the American consumer.

Raw farm prices up 7% in month

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spurred by record prices for cattle, hogs and lambs, the average price of raw agricultural products soared by 7 per cent in the month ended March 15 to an all-time high, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

But Don Paarlberg, the department's chief economist, said farm prices had dropped about 3.5 per cent since the midmonth figures were gathered. He gave no reasons, but it was apparent that consumer resistance to higher retail prices was a factor.

The March 15 average, announced one day after President Nixon imposed a wholesale and retail ceiling on beef, pork and lamb prices, was 33 per cent higher than that of the same month a year ago.

The index of prices received by farmers for meat animals rose 9 per cent for the month to a record nearly double the 1967 average and 43 per cent above a year ago.

Beef cattle hit a record $43.60 per hundredweight, $3.10 above a month earlier. Hogs rose $4.10 to a record $38.30 per hundredweight, and lambs rose $4.60 to $39.50, breaking a 22-year-old record.

Paarlberg said a study of daily market reports indicated that recent breaks in farm meat prices have slashed average livestock prices about 5 per cent since March 15, while crop prices generally have edged downward by about 1.5 per cent. Over-all, he estimated that all farm products are off about 3.5 per cent since March 15.

POWs 'lying,' Hayden charges

United Press International

Antiwar activist Tom Hayden Friday labeled returning American prisoners of war "liars, hypocrites and pawns."

Hayden, husband of actress Jane Fonda, said neither he nor his wife felt hurt by statements from the returnees that the antiwar movement prolonged the war or worsened conditions for the prisoners. "They were the best-treated prisoners in any war in history," he said.

Both Hayden and Miss Fonda visited Hanoi during the war.

"If they think the peace movement prolonged the war, they ought to ask themselves what the Pentagon does," Hayden said.

"I think on the whole, these guys are liars, hypocrites and above all, pawns of President Nixon," he said.

"They are liars if they suggest that they were abused by the Vietnamese. By all accounts, they were the best-treated prisoners in any war in history.

"They are hypocrites because they are trying to pose as heroes when they killed many more people than they would care to mention," Hayden went on.

"They are pawns because they are being used by the President to make evil good and black white. They are being used to make professional killers look like heroes. Nixon is turning them into heroes to cover up the fact that he really lost the war," Hayden said.

Hayden said statements being made by the returnees were "part of an orchestrated propaganda drive planned for several years for the POWs coming out to be used to discredit the antiwar movement."

Residency restrictions for candidates 'voided'

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — California appears to have lost its residency restrictions on candidates for state and local office.

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. said Friday he had been advised that he does not have authority to enforce the California constitution's residency requirement for state legislators.

Brown said he had been informed in a verbal opinion from Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger's office that "we do not have the legal authority to remove a candidate's name from the ballot even when questions have been raised about the candidate's residence."

As a result, Brown said, he was approving the inclusion of Long Beach

Teen-agers smoking more

Cancer foe urges anticigarette ad drive

NOGALES, Ariz. (UPI) — The president of the American Cancer Society urged broadcasters Friday to "help save several hundred thousand lives" by returning anticigarette commercials to the air to counteract the "seduction" of the young by tobacco firms.

Dr. Arthur G. James, a Columbus, Ohio, surgeon, said that the heavy anticigarette ad campaign on radio and television had produced a marked decrease in the number of teen-agers taking up smoking between 1968 and 1971.

But when the ban on broadcast cigarette advertising took effect two years ago, the number of antismoking spots — which had been required under the fairness doctrine — dropped by three-fourths. That wasn't enough to counteract "the glamorous appeals of the cigarette and advertising industries," he said.

The result has been an upward trend in cigarette smoking, especially among teen-agers," James told the society's 15th annual science writers seminar.

James, who said 70,000 to 80,000 cancer deaths each year are related to cigarette smoking, called upon the broadcasting industry to again "take into the homes of America the messages about cigarette smoking that effectively changed the smoking habits of millions of adults and prevented the addiction of millions of teen-agers."

He said if the spots were run at the same frequency they were two years ago, they "could help save several hundred thousand lives from cancer in the decade of the 70s and perhaps countless millions among our youth who will otherwise face this risk two decades from now."

James said cigarette consumption in the U.S. apparently set another record last year.

"The facts about the lethal qualities of cigarettes have been disseminated widely enough but there has been a counterwave of inducement and almost seduction to keep the cigarette smoker shackled to his addiction and to entrap new converts among the young of both sexes."

'Words my own,' says girl who rejected Oscar

Sacheen Littlefeather said Friday in San Francisco the words she spoke in reporting Marlon Brando's Oscar rejection to the Academy Award audience were her own.

"I spoke from my heart," said Miss Littlefeather, 26, part-Apache Indian model and actress.

She returned to San Francisco after two days of seclusion in Los Angeles where she had delivered to newsmen Brando's lengthy prepared statement saying he rejected the Oscar because of Hollywood's treatment of American Indians.

She said it was her own decision not to read Brando's long statement on the televised show. The short speech she made was her own.

"I spoke from my heart," Miss Littlefeather said.

"Those words were written in blood, perhaps my own blood.

"I felt about like Christ carrying the weight of the cross on my shoulder," she said.

Asked about criticism of Brando for not having appeared himself at the awards show, Miss Littlefeather said, "It took a heck of a lot more guts to do what he did."

She said Brando had called her last Sunday and asked her to fly to Los Angeles for "something to do with the Academy awards." She said they had met through their mutual interest in the Indian rights movement.

But, she said, she did not learn until Tuesday what exactly she was to do.

Miss Littlefeather said she regarded her appearance on behalf of Brando and the Indian movement as more a responsibility than an opportunity.

"I hope it will focus attention on the American Indians, their problems, and to the Indian image in films," she said.

"It's very important and I have a lot of work to do."

Critical

California GOV. REAGAN Friday criticized MARLON BRANDO'S refusal of an Academy Award, saying the annual presentation of Oscars was "not the forum . . . to have his views presented."

Brando, chosen for his portrayal of "The Godfather," sent an Indian woman to reject the award for him because of what she said was the film industry's treatment of Indians.

Reagan, a former actor, said in New Orleans, "If he feels that strongly, he should have had the guts to come in person and face his colleagues."

Reagan said the recent trend is to present the Indian in a better view than in the past.

Breakdown

Austin, Tex., television cameraman George Brown received a notice from General Motors Friday recalling his 1972 Chevrolet Vega because of a defect which "might cause the rear axle to disengage."

Brown got in his car and headed for a local GM dealer. Four blocks from the garage his rear axle fell off.

Dismissed

U.S. District Judge L. Clure Morton dismissed Ray's petition for a writ of habeas corpus and said "no evidentiary hearing" was justified.

Ray is currently serving 99 years for the assassination. He had asked federal court to grant him a new trial because he claimed he was "coerced" into pleading guilty by his two attorneys and an author to make a book more salable.

Pollution protest has him up tree

Bill Cruse has taken his one-man protest against pollution up a 40-foot oak tree, where he is camping out with a sleeping bag, transistor radio and a red touchtone telephone.

"I'm very concerned, and I don't care if people think I'm nuts," Cruse said from his perch at the top of the aged oak tree in his mother's backyard in Sarasota, Calif.

Cruse, 28, climbed the tree Wednesday vowing to stay there for 15 days to protest water pollution.

Cruse's protest became known when the telephone company got an order to install a phone with a very long extension cord in the tree.

Cruse also has a green sleeping bag, a goatskin water bag, transistor radio, lantern, two paperback Westerns and one magazine with him on a small triangular platform lashed to the treetop.

At night the 6-foot, 200-pound Cruse ties himself to the platform so he won't fall out in his sleep.

Stepping down

President Nixon Friday announced the resignation of Ellsworth Bunker, who has served as ambassador in Saigon for the past six years.

He will now be taking on "other duties" for the President, the White House said.

Simultaneously, the White House announced that Nixon will name career diplomat Graham Martin, former ambassador to Italy and Thailand, to replace the 78-year-old Bunker in South Vietnam.

Bunker is returning to the U.S. and will take part in the forthcoming Nixon summit talks with South Vietnamese President Thieu at the Western White House in San Clemente.

Plea

ARTHUR HERMAN BREMER, both through his lawyer and in a rare handprinted plea, asked a Maryland appeals court in Annapolis Friday to reverse his conviction last year for the attempted assassination of Gov. GEORGE C. WALLACE of Alabama.

Echoing the contentions of attorney BENJAMIN LIPSITZ, Bremer wrote the three-judge panel that media coverage of his case prejudiced the five-day trial that resulted in a 53-year sentence.

"I submit it was unfair to literally broadcast state's evidence with my name attached," the 22-year-old Milwaukee native wrote in what observers at the Maryland Court of Special Appeals said was an unusual presentation at an appeals hearing normally confined to statements only by lawyers.

Bad fall

The accident Thursday did not prevent her from riding again Friday, however, even though her arm was bandaged. The princess, 22-year-old daughter of QUEEN ELIZABETH II, broke no bones in the fall.

Birthday

His wife, JULIE, is giving him a unique birthday present — a coffee table made with a glass display center filled with a collection of World War II medals received by his grandfather, PRESIDENT DWIGHT EISENHOWER.

David's grandfather gave him the collection of 30 medals and now that the young Eisenhowers are about to move into their first home, Julie thought this special piece of furniture was appropriate.

Balloonist

Hot air balloonist JOE CASSERLY said Friday he would make an attempt at a world record 40,000 feet from a park in the middle of Memphis, Tenn., today if the weather permits.

"The weather has been so bad lately," said Casserly. "But I hope I can go up this time."

Gift

YEKATERINA FURTSEVA, Soviet minister of culture, Friday presented a painting of a winter scene near Moscow to PRESIDENT NIXON in Washington.

Nixon thanked her for the 1972 work by artist BORIS SHERBAKOV and told her he would take it to California with him later in the day and hang it in the Western White House at San Clemente.

Mrs. Furtseva was in Washington to open a month-long exhibition of 41 impressionist and post-impressionist Russian paintings at the National Gallery of Art starting April 1.

Insolvent

The estate of the late financier BART LYTTON, who once was estimated to be worth $15 million, is "insolvent," according to a final accounting approved in Los Angeles probate court Friday.

Judge EARL REILY approved the accounting made by Lytton's widow, BETH, executrix of the estate.

Lytton, who pyramided his businesses into the Lytton Savings & Loan Association and Lytton Financial Corp., died in 1969 at the age of 56 of a coronary condition. He lost control of the two firms in 1968.

The sole remaining creditor is Lytton's daughter, Mrs. TIMI BETH STEWART, who has an approved claim against the estate of $522,823.

Forgetful

Not the feathery kind she pranced across the stage with in the musical "Applause," but the real thing—a six-foot boa constrictor named GEORGIANNA.

A maid cleaning Miss Munsel's room discovered Georgianna in a box and it turned it over to the director of Michigan State University's lecture-concert series which sponsored "Applause."

No problem

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY III, eldest son of the late Sen. ROBERT F. KENNEDY, has been released a second time from a Berkeley hospital where he was treated for auto-accident injuries.

Kennedy, 20, was released from Herrick Memorial Hospital Thursday after spending what doctors termed "a very good night."

He first was admitted to the hospital for a slight concussion after the Saturday accident, but released Monday. Kennedy was readmitted Wednesday after he complained of headaches, dizziness, nausea and blurred vision.

Splitup

Television personality Dick Clark, 42, was sued for divorce in Santa Monica Superior Court Friday by his wife of nearly 11 years on grounds of irreconcilable differences.

Loretta Clark, 37, asked for "reasonable" support and custody of the couple's two children, Duane, 9, and Cindy Lee, 8. The couple, married in Philadelphia in April 1962, have been separated since Feb. 1, 1972, the petition said.

Mississippi valley flood threat

A new storm threatened Friday to dump more water into the flood-bloated Mississippi River, which has already covered a half-million acres of farmland from Illinois to the gulf and routed hundreds from their homes. The river threatened weakened levees in Louisiana and Tennessee and forced at least 30 families to abandon their homes for good in the little town of Montz, La. The National Weather Serive orded a flash-flood watch for the entire state of Mississippi as a new storm swept up to two inches of rain toward the area from the southern Rocky Mountains. "If we do get more rain, it will be catastophic," said a district engineer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Greenwood, Miss.

Inflation restraints

WASHINGTON — President Nixon sent legislation to Congress Friday that would give him immediate authority to reduce or suspend tariffs and import quotas on high-priced commodities. Nixon announced in a television speech Thursday night that he would seek the new authority to reduce or suspend import barriers to restrain inflation. Under the draft bill, Nixon would not exercise the authority if it would cause injury to homes or workers including mining, industry, fishing or commerce, or be contrary to the national interest.

Response to Nixon

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edmund Muskie was designated Friday by Democratic congressional leaders to respond next Monday night to President Nixon's Friday night national televised and broadcast speech. Aides said the national television and radio networks are being asked to carry the Maine Democrat's speech live to be delivered from the Capitol as a "news event." Muskie will deal with the same subjects as Nixon did — Vietnam and the economy — and will reply to Nixon's attack on congressional moves to force more domestic spending. The speech comes on the eve of a move in the Senate Tuesday to override Nixon's veto of a $2.6 billion vocational rehabilitation bill.

Cal Expo change

SACRAMENTO — Cal Expo's executive committee gave its approval Friday to Gov. Reagan's plan to place the state fair facility under the state park system's administration. The committee voted unanimously to turn administration of the facility, located on the American River northeast of downtown Sacramento, over to William Penn Mott, director of the state park system.

'Deep Throat' seized

BEVERLY HILLS — Authorities were authorized Friday to seize a copy of the secually explicit film "Deep Throat" for use in preparing their case against two men accused of violating obscenity laws by showing the movie. Municipal Court Judge Leonard Wolf signed the necessary search warrant and set a trial date of June 18 for theater owner Vincent Miranda and manager Steven M. Hagan. Miranda's theater can continue showing "Deep Throat" by using another print of the film but a spokesman for the district attorney's office said the defendants can be charged with another obscenity count each time it is shown.

U.S. denies Viet role

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Defense Secretary Elliott Richardson Friday denied charges by the Viet Cong that the U.S. is violating the Vietnam cease-fire agreement by leaving military advisers behind disguised as civilians. "There are no U.S. military advisors being left behind in the guise of civilians," Richardson said. He said there are civilian personnel but none is involved in a military capacity.

Special budget plea

WASHINGTON — President Nixon sought support for his federal budget Friday from 140 state legislators who went to the White House for briefings on domestic policy. Terrorists won't escape law

LONDON — Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry said Friday his country's laws will be fully enforced against the Arab "Black September" guerrillas who murdered two U.S. diplomats and the Belgian ambassador in Khartoum early this month. He denounced the assassinations as "senseless." The Sudanese leader, ending an official visit to Britain, was asked at a news conference whether he intended to follow the example of some other countries which pretended to act against terrorists or hickjackers but then quietly freed them. Numeiry replied: "We do not follow any pattern in dealing with terrorists. We follow our laws and see to it that these laws are enforced. We want to live in a state of law. Meantime in Israel, a time bomb exploded Friday under a bench in the Hadera, Israel, bus station, wounding four persons in the first such suspected Arab guerrilla attack inside Israel in five months. A grenade went off later inside a trash can near Jerusalem's city hall but caused no casualties.

BUENOS AIRES — The military government Friday night officially declared Peronist candidate Hector Campora the president-elect of Argentina The announcement came hours after the runnerup party in the March 11 election, the Radical Civic Union, announced it would not demand a second round of voting. The ruling military junta, which had made no secret of its distaste for Peronism, said Friday night that it "considered final" the results of the March 11 election in which Campora, the handpicked candidate of former President Juan Peron, polled 49 per cent of the electorate in a field of nine presidential candidates.

Cuba-Chile trade

SANTIAGO, Chile — Chile and Cuba have tentatively agreed to boost their trade to around $40 million a year, an official announcement said Friday. This represents an increase of about $27 million over last year. Chile plans to sell Cuba copper wire and piping, nitrate, books, garlic, onions, beans, bottled wine, lumber, cellulose and raw material to make plastics. It plans to buy Cuban sugar at around 6.5 cents a pound as compared to the international price of 9 cents and a number of products including rum and cigars.

Soviets curb smoking

MOSCOW — Smoking has been banned on Soviet airline flights of less than three hours because of numerous requests of nonsmokers, the magazine Health reported Friday. In its March issue, the magazine concluded a series of articles urging restrictions on smoking in public places, including airliners.

Slippery problem

BRUSSELS — A proposal to get rid of some of Western Europe's huge butter surplus by selling it to the Soviet Union at cut-rate prices provoked anger among Common Market officials Friday. Spokesmen for the Common Market, which has a current surplus of at least 400,000 tons of butter, said it was more economical to sell the butter to the Russians at giveaway prices than to stockpile it. The Soviets have offered to buy 200,000 tons at $420 per ton. European housewives pay about six times as much for butter in their local supermarkets.

Ecologists at deep-water hearing

Supertanker spill vision

By KRIS DULANEY
Staff Writer

A stream of environmentalists, appearing before an Army Corps of Engineers hearing, Friday night expressed concern about the possibility of bringing oil-bearing supertankers into West Coast ports as a solution to the energy crisis.

The Corps has been charged — by the U.S. House of Representatives' Public Works Committee — with the responsibility of compiling a study of the feasibility and advisibility of constructing either deep-water ports or offshore supertanker terminals on the West Coast.

An audience of about 75 persons in the Long Beach Harbor Department building listened as Friends of the Earth representative Don May told the Corps:

"Standard oil is very competent in taking care of a 55-gallon oil drum spill. But nothing has ever been dreamed up to clean up an oil spill from a 250,000 deadweight ton tanker."

May also said that he is "extremely concerned about bringing these huge ships into Hueneme Canyon, because it harbors a number of endangered marine species." Port Hueneme has already been designated by the Corps as a possible site for a supertanker terminal.

Richard Ball, speaking on behalf of the Sierra Club's Angeles Chapter, urged that the construction of any deep-water port facility "be undertaken cautiously and under the guidance of state and federal regulatory agencies."

"We're concerned that any deep-water facility not compromise the overall coastline plans already being drawn up under Proposition 20," added Ball.

His comments were echoed by several other speakers, most of whom expressed concern over the increased possibility of major oil spills stemming from collisions involving the huge ships.

Retired Coast Guard Adm. F. D. Higbee said that it would be "sheer nautical nonsense to bring tankers of 250,000 or more deadweight tons into Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors. He said the hazards that would be created far outweigh the advantages of using such ships to supply the West Coast's oil needs.

Several other speakers agreed that an alternative fuel — rather than petroleum — must be found to meet escalating energy requirements here.

However, Lawrence Anderson, speaking for the Port of Los Angeles, took a different view. Painting a portrait of increasing petroleum usage in Southern California, he said, "We must assure that port facilities will be able to receive supertankers."

A spokesman for the Port of Long Beach said merely that his employers would "cooperate with the Corps in any way necessary to help you complete your study."

Medicare

For several years my mother received a pension from Old Age Security as well as a small firemen's pension. In 1971 she received a substantial increase in her firemen's pension and canceled her OAS benefits on Oct. 1, 1971. They dropped her OAS payments immediately, but they still have not done whatever is necessary for her to receive individual Medicare coverage. While on OAS her monthly premium was paid by the state. Now she wants to pay the premium herself, as she needs the Medicare benefits. No one seems to be able to help us. R. P., Long Beach.

The state failed to notify the Social Security Office, which administers the Medicare program, that your mother had been terminated from OAS. As a result, no one has been paying the small monthly Medicare premium, a Social Security spokesman explained. She said if your mother wants to make up those missed monthly payments from October, 1971, she then will be able to submit all medical expenses incurred in the last year and a half for reimbursement by Medicare. Otherwise, she can reinstitute her benefits by starting her payments again.

Interested party

In November, 1967, I prepaid $714 for burial at Sunnyside Mortuary. I had this put in trust and was told I would receive interest on it once a year. They don't send me the interest unless I write for it. I called the office two times and they say they'll send the check but it hasn't come. I'd like this money and also would like to know what month the check is due as I've gotten it at different times in the past. E.S. Long Beach.

You now have your interest check of $35.70 for 1972, and hereafter your annual check will be sent out automatically about Nov. 22, the anniversary date of your trust. Mary Miller, office manager at Sunnyside Mausoleum and Memorial Gardens, said the interest checks are not routinely sent out because most people prefer to let them accumulate in their accounts.

Battle bars

I was aboard the USS Helena from Sept. 21, 1939, through Pearl Harbor and numerous battles, until she was sunk July 6, 1943. After that, I served on the USS Houston until the end of the war. I've misplaced the ribbons and battle stars I was awarded while in the Navy and I don't remember which ones they were. I'd like to replace them and mount them on a plaque for my grandson so they will remain in the family for generations to come. Can you find out what ribbons and stars I got? E. N., Cerritos.

Your service record shows you were awarded five medals and nine battle stars, according to Judy VanBenthuysen of the Navy Department, Research and Public Inquiries Branch in Washington, D.C. You received the Navy Unit Commendation Medal, the American Defense Medal with one star, the American Theater Medal, the Asiatic-Pacific Theater Medal with eight stars and the Philippine Liberation Medal.

Life Style

When will people get refunds for the unfulfilled portions of their Life magazine subscriptions? J.B., Norwalk.

A subscriber to the defunct magazine will get either a cash refund or another publication shortly after he answers a recent query asking him which he wants, said a spokesman for Time Inc. in New York City. Letters were mailed to the millions of Life subscribers "a couple of weeks ago" giving them options of selecting cash refunds, subscriptions to magazines published by Time Inc. and other companies or Time-Life Books, he said. "We're fulfilling their requests as they come in. We want to dispose of this matter as fast as our former readers do." Subscribers who haven't heard from Time Inc. can write to Circulation Director, Life Magazine, Time & Life Building, New York, N.Y. 10020.

General pension

Can you find out if I am entitled to a pension from General Motors Corp.? I worked at their Framingham, Mass. plant from 1953 to 1959. I got a letter advising me of my pension rights before I left the plant but I lost it when I moved to California. I plan to retire this summer so any help you can give me would be appreciated. M.D.Y., Long Beach.

You aren't entitled to a pension from General Motors, according to Eugene Sullivan, personnel director of the Framingham plant. "Our 1958 pension agreement with the United Auto Workers Union specified an employe must be at least 40 years old and have 10 years service with General Motors," Sullivan said. He checked your records and found you had worked for GM only six years and two months. He said money for pensions comes entirely from GM, not from employe deductions.

Guitarist very vocal about Easter Seals

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

ED DOWNEY
Different Gift

When the annual Easter Seals campaign rolls around each year, most people contribute by buying a block of stamps.

Ed Downey's a little different. The contribution of the 21-year-old Huntington Beach guitarist-singer will be a record-setting 50-hour solo, planned to draw donations to the charity from everyone who walks past his makeshift stage.

By this morning, supporters said Friday night, Ed should be on the backstretch in quest of the world record for marathon singing, now held by a New Yorker whose vocal chords gave out after 48 hours.

By about 5 p.m., they added, he probably will be a hoarse record-holder who also filled a barrel with cash earmarked for the Easter Seal Society.

Downey, of 6200 Edinger Ave., was doing a Simon and Garfunkle number in a strong, clear voice about 7:30 p.m. Friday before a crowd of passersby on the mall of Huntington Center Shopping Plaza, 7777 Edinger.

Shirley Arconti, operator of a charm school on the mall which has become headquarters for the unusual charity event, reported then that "the big trash can where we're putting all the money is starting to fill up.

"His voice doesn't sound much different from what it did 26 hours ago," she said, "and he's been singing hard rock all night—not humming."

Supporters of the "sing-a-thon," timed to coincide with the National Easter Seal Telethon, said Downey began crooning at 2 p.m. Thursday, alternately playing his guitar and using local bands for accompaniment.

Every three or four hours, they added, Downey takes a break of about four minutes—rarely long enough to lose his audience and never long enough to jeopardize his chance for the record.

Supporters, who included 18-year-old Vicki Tallman, Miss Huntington Beach, said that in addition to money dropped in the barrel on the mall, other donations were expected from pledges collected before and during the sing-a-thon.

Governor's wife visits vet hospital

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Mrs. Ronald Reagan, who twice this months has hosted dinners for former American prisoners of war, will visit 195 wounded Vietnam veterans Monday at the Long Beach Veterans' Administration Hospital, the governor's office announced Friday.

Mrs. Reagan will have lunch with the wounded veterans and then tour the hospital's facilities.

"I am particularly happy to have this opportunity to visit with these wounded Vietnam veterans," Mrs. Reagan said, "because I want them to know that we are interested in their well-being and that they have not been forgotten.

2 lawyers convicted in swindle

Two attorneys were convicted Friday on charges they conspired with a Bank of America official to issue $5 million of improper letters of credit.

A federal court jury in Los Angeles found Kenneth N. Dellamater, 60, Canoga Park, and Robert D. Pollock, 45, Long Beach, guilty of what authorities called one of the largest bank swindles in the Western United States.

Bank official Edward Snead, who approved the credit for the two men, previously pleaded guilty to charges arising from the swindle and was the chief government witness at the pair's trial.

The scheme involved a 1971 business venture off the coast of Panama in which the two men projected a $250 million profit from salvaging sunken copper cable.

No cable was ever sold, however, and the junk cable that was salvaged was thrown back into the ocean.

The two attorneys gave the bank phony international commercial invoices that indicated they were selling tons of cable.

Sentencing was set for April 16.

CAB OKs TWA lower fare plan

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) approved a controversial "demand scheduling" proposal for Trans World Airlines Friday that will greatly lower air fares between the East and West coasts for people who plan ahead.

The 3-1 CAB decision will allow TWA to fill planes three months in advance of departure in virtual competition with travel group plans.

Passengers will make a $20 deposit for a flight three months in advance, and within two months they will receive a confirmed flight number and the departure and arrival times for that date.

Under the program, one-way air fares would be $89.50 for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday passengers during winter months and $94.50 during the summer. Monday and Friday one-way tickets would cost $104.50 and $114.50 during those seasons, and Saturday and Sunday travel would vary from $114.50 to $119.50.

The board's majority said in its decision the TWA proposal was "sufficiently innovative and potentially beneficial."

FAA impedes noise rules, says Tunney

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — Sen. John V. Tunney accused the Federal Aviation Administration Friday of impeding the formation of regulations and standards for aircraft noise.

Tunney chaired hearings by a Senate subcommittee in this city bordering Los Angeles International Airport on the implementation of the Noise Control Act of 1972.

The California Democrat asserted there was a lack of cooperation between the FAA and the Environmental Protection Agency which was hindering putting the law into effect.

"There seems to be a pattern in the FAA of impeding the development of standards and rules for aircraft noise," Tunney said at the opening of the session. "And if it does not stop, you will have a long drawing out of procedures with each agency filing notices and then the other filing objections."

During a recess, Tunney told newsmen he was referring specifically to noise-control exceptions granted by the FAA to foreign carriers whose planes land at U.S. airports.

He said the FAA did not notify the EPA of these developments which "undermined the whole purpose of the act."

Witnesses at the hearing included Inglewood Mayor Merle Mergell, airport department General Manager Clifton A. Moore, a representative for state Attny. Gen. Evelle Younger and Los Angeles City councilwoman Pat Russell.

Mergell told the subcommittee that nothing could be done about noise the local level.

"The deep frustration comes ... when we on the local level have to face the horfible fact that our hands are completely tied. We can do absolutely nothing to protect ourselves."

Confident Bradley at LBSU tells poll margin

Los Angeles mayoral candidate Tom Bradley, venturing from his main arena for a campaign appearance in Long Beach, Friday told a student audience he was making the "informal announcement" of his victory in next Tuesday's election.

Addressing a noon-hour audience of about 1,000 persons at Long Beach State University—where officials estimate several hundred Los Angeles residents attend classes—Bradley also pledged to "provide some concrete opportunities" for young persons in his administration.

"I'm not cocky," Bradley said, "but I'm quite confident" of winning a clear victory in the election.

He pointed to a Field Research Corp. poll, released Friday, as the source of his confidence. It contends Bradley has opened leads of 10 percentage points over incumbent Sam Yorty and at least 20 points over rivals Tom Reddin, Jess Unruh and Joel Wachs.

Saying he believed the confidence of youth in government needed bolstering, Bradley proposed the creation of "a domestic corps...a volunteer bureau" in Los Angeles to work with other segments of the community.

Members of such a volunteer group, he said could help the community by tutoring school children, providing transportation to senior citizens or watch-dogging shopping centers "to expose any unscrupulous practices."

After his brief address, Bradley answered questions from the audience.

— He called easing penalties for marijuana law violations "a step in the right direction" to allow "our number one priorities (to be) the crimes of violence, robbery, murder and rape";

— He said Los Angeles officials should have complied with a Justice Department order to seek minority recruits for the city's fire department;

— He agreed with a questioner that policemen should undergo psychological testing more than once "at the start, then not again for 25 years" because of the job's constant stress.

Bradley also told one questioner that there was no truth to charges he had failed to politically support local black office-seekers who previously had supported him.

The charges, both said, were contained in a report entitled "Black Paper," produced by Walter Bremond.

Quake's center by Loma Linda

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — The third minor earthquake to hit the San Bernardino area this week registered 3.3 on the Richter scale Friday but caused no damage or injuries, authorities said.

The temblor was centered near Loma Linda, a spokesman for the Caltech Seismology Laboratory said. Other quakes, measuring 3..0 and 3.5, were recorded in the area Monday and Wednesday.

Rep. Nedzi ties White House to CIA, ITT, Chile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., who heads a House defense intelligence subcommittee, said Friday he believed the CIA had permission from the White House to contact an executive of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. about a possible move to create economic chaos in Chile.

Nedzi said he was speaking on his own and did not base his assumption on a testimony at closed meeting of his panel Friday morning by James B. Schlesinger, the new director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

"I have not as yet detected any unilateral agency involvement in any sensitive matter without White House sanctions," Nedzi said. "Everything was cleared by the White House."

Asked if the CIA had White House approval for its contacts with ITT, Nedzi said, "They did. That's my understanding."

William V. Broe, the CIA's former undercover chief for Latin America, testified this week that, with the approval of then CIA Director Richard Helms, he met in New York Sept. 29, 1970, with ITT vice president Edward Gerrity to discuss a plan to block Marxist Salvador Allende's election as president of Chile.

The plan, according to Broe, involved using ITT and other American corporations with holdings in Chile to create an economic crisis aimed at undermining the Allende regime about to be installed by the Chilean congress.

Nedzi said the ITT matter did not come up "as part of the hearing" with Schlesinger.

"My concern is that the agency not act autonomously or independently in sensitive matters," Nedzi said. He added he did not believe the CIA had done this in the ITT case.

A former State Department official, however, testified Thursday, that U.S. policy at the time of Broe's meeting with Gerrity was of strict noninterference in Chilean affairs.

The official, Charles A. Meyer, the department's top Latin American official at the time Alllende was elected, said U.S. policy was not breached by the CIA because the plan for economic sabotage never went into effect.

Russ won't tell space lab site

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — The leader of a group of Soviet space experts declined Friday to give the location of the Russian space flight control center, but promised newsmen "full satisfaction" on that question later.

Professor Konstantine Busheyev, head of the Soviet space engineers here to discuss a joint Russian-American space mission, said at a news conference there are several control centers in the Soviet Union.

Busheyev announced at a news conference last week that American specialists would be able to visit and work in the Soviet flight control center during the planned Apollo-Soyuz test project (ASTP), a joint mission scheduled for 1975.

FRIDAY, however, Busheyev firmly refused, despite persistent questioning, to reveal the location of that center. "We are choosing one of two centers which we believe to be the most appropriate," said Busheyev.

Asked the geographical location of these two candidate centers, he said through an interpreter: "In our work we have to be armed with patience. I promise you on our next visit, which will be in July, we will be able to give you full satisfaction on this question."

No American has ever visited the Soviet mission control center and the Russians have kept its location a secret.

Busheyev and about 40 other Soviets, including two cosmonauts, have been here for two weeks discussing details of the ASTP space mission.

GLYNN S. LUNNEY, the U.S. technical director for the mission, said the discussions centered on details of general decisions made in earlier meetings. He said preliminary discussions were started on the types of experiments which will be carried into space during the joint mission.

Lunney said the discussions also resulted in firm plans for the transfer between the Russian and American spacecraft of the two countries' spacement.

He said two American astronauts would first visit the Soviet spacecraft and that the next day the two Soviet crewmen would visit the American spacecraft.

Plans for the mission, he said, call for the Soviet craft, called Soyuz, to be launched from Russia with two men aboard. About seven hours later, an Apollo craft, with three men aboard, will be launched from Cape Kennedy. The second day after launch, he said, the Apollo will rendezvous and dock with the Soyuz, using a new docking system developed by the two countries.

Alch said ready to quit as McCord's attorney

WASHINGTON (AP) — James W. McCord's lawyer, Gerald Alch, is reported ready to quit because he thinks a new attorney in the case is making McCord into a political patsy to embarrass President Nixon.

One of McCord's lawyers already has resigned because of the sudden appearance of Bernard Fensterwald, an independently wealthy Washington lawyer who once headed a celebrated wiretapping investigation. Fensterwad, a Democrat, reportedly put up $40,000 toward McCord's $100,000 bond.

One source said he believes Fensterwald's motive "is to see the White House scream," and that McCord is going along because he is eager "to tell of his own limited involvement in the planning of the Democratic headquarters bugging."

FENSTERWALD called the reports "sheer nonsense."

Alch, a member of attorney F. Lee Bailey's firm, represented McCord through the four-week Watergate trial and was at the defense table as a co-counsel when McCord's sentencing was postponed Friday.

Yet Alch was taken by surprise a week earlier when Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica revealed McCord had written him a letter saying there had been political pressure and perjury in the trial, and that others had been involved in the case.

"I'm sorry to have told this on Jerry," McCord was heard to say.

BERNARD Shankman, McCord's local counsel, learned that McCord had talked with Senate investigators only when he read the following days' newspapers. He resigned from the case Friday and introduced Fensterwald to Sirica as McCord's new local counsel.

In denying the reports, Fensterwald said Friday: "I talked with Jerry about our collaboration a number of times — and several times today. I think we are in complete accord."

Fensterwald said he talked with Alch when McCord was committed to jail in January and "I helped to get a bunch of people together to get the bond money."

He declined to name the contributors.

THE ATTORNEY said Alch would be at McCord's side during McCord's appearance before a Senate committee unless he is tied up with an upcoming murder case in Chicago.

Fensterwald has been active on Capitol Hill before — coming suddenly, as he did in McCord's case.

Fensterwald, who comes from a wealthy Nashville family, had been counsel for crusading Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., later the late Sen. Thomas Hennings, D-Mo., and finally for the late Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo.

HE GAINED fame in the investigation into illegal wiretapping by government agencies that was headed by Long's subcommittee. Among other things the panel investigated government surveillance of former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa.

Before Alch left town Friday he refused to comment on reports of a split between him and Fensterwald saying, "Mr. McCord is entitled to representation by anyone he chooses."

But a source close to the matter said Alch and Fensterwald were at odds. "Look at it this way," he said. "You know Alch's reputation. When he's on a case, he's the man in charge. If there's any doubt — and there is now — he'll get out."

When McCord wrote Sirica, he noted that he had not told Alch about the letter. Judge Sirica granted a 20-minute recess after the letter was read in court so that the surprised Alch could confer with his client.

THERE ARE reports the letter was drafted by Fensterwald, who was in the spectators' seats when the sensational development was made public.

Alch reportedly feels Fensterwald failed to represent McCord adequately when he didn't get the former CIA man immunity from prosecution before testifying at the Senate Watergate panel.

Fensterwald says immunity doesn't matter until McCord testifies on criminal issues outside the Watergate affair. He noted McCord invoked his right against self-incrimination a number of times when he testified at a secret committee hearing.

Leary case to go to jury next week

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI) — The defense Friday rested in the Timothy Leary escape trial and the case was expected to go to the jury next week following closing arguments.

The proceedings became bogged down Friday afternoon in arguments over the judge's instructions to the jury and the trial was recessed until Tuesday morning.

SUPERIOR Court Judge Richard F. Harris was expected to instruct the jury to ignore the defense argument that Leary was a victim of "involuntary intoxication" because of an LSD "flashback" ha-lucination when he escaped from the state prison near here in September, 1970.

Three psychologists and one psychiatrist called by the defense said that Leary was afraid for his life because he received a death threat and the stress brought on a sudden recurrence of the effects of LSD although Leary had not recently taken any of the hallucinogenic drug.

Judge Harris ruled the testimony was admissible but the jury would have to consider it as a "diminished capacity" defense. Under California law, diminished capacity means the defendant knew right from wrong at the time of the crime but was mentally incapable of premeditation or realizing the consequences of his action.

"THERE was no involuntary intoxication," the judge said. "It was purely voluntary because Dr. Leary voluntarily ingested the drug."

"It would be impossible to convict anyone who ever used LSD if this was a defense. This is strictly diminished capacity."

Liddy again silent; will face 'contempt'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Watergate trial judge Friday ordered bugging conspirator G. Gordon Liddy to testify before a grand jury, but the former Nixon campaign counsel refused and will face contempt of court proceedings on Monday.

Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica also deferred sentencing of another of the seven conspirators, James W. McCord Jr., in an obvious move to give McCord more time to testify before the special Senate committee investigating the Watergate affair.

SIRICA, at a brief court session, brushed aside Liddy's objections and granted him immunity from further prosecution is he would cooperate with the grand jury. Liddy cited the 5th Amendment in previous appearances in refusing to answer any questions about the Watergate.

Liddy, whom the prosecution has called the mastermind of the Watergate bugging, appeared before the grand jury again for nearly two hours Friday and again refused to reply to questions. His attorney, Peter J. Maroulis, said that as a result, his client will appear before Sirica for a hearing on civil contempt.

The contempt action would put even more pressure on Liddy to cooperate in the continuing Watergate investigation. He already has been fined $40,000 and sentenced to up to 20 years in jail for his part in the break-in and bugging at Democratic national headquarters last June 17.

As for McCord, who already has appeared in private before Sen. Sam Ervin's special Senate Watergate panel, Sirica put off his sentencing until June 15, allowing him more time to appear before Senate investigators and the grand jury.

LIDDY and McCord — the finance counsel and security chief respectively for President Nixon's reelection campaign — were convicted Jan. 30 of conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping for the raid on Democratic national committee headquarters at the Watergate building last June 17.

Five other men pleaded guilty to the crimes and one of them — former White House consultant E. Howard Hunt Jr. — has already been granted immunity by Sirica to force his testimony before the grand jury. The other four, all from the Miami area, are expected to be called later.

It was learned from Senate sources that McCord testified to the seven-member committee that he had been told high-level administration officials — including former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell — had prior knowledge of the Watergate bugging.

"He's going to tell them everything he knows, corroborated by as many documents as he has," McCord's lawyer, Gerald Alch, told reporters after the court session.

Liddy, who has been sentenced to a maximum of 20 years in prison for his part in the Watergate plot, complained through his lawyer to Sirica that he was both "a defendant and a target" before the grand jury and should not be compelled to testify.

"Mr. Liddy has nothing more to fear from the prosecution, providing he testifies fully and truthfully," responded Seymour Glanzer, one of the three prosecutors in the case. "We are not seeking evidence to indict Mr. Liddy any further... we are seeking answers; we are seeking his cooperation."

McCord, who faces up to 60 years in prison and fines of up to $60,000, has told Senate investigators he can tell them about acts of political espionage "other than the Watergate" if granted immunity first.

Sirica's action delaying sentencing for nearly three months came as a surprise even for his lawyers, who asked just for a 30-day postponement.

"I'm not sure that in 30 days we'll know the full extent of this," Sirica replied.

Throughout the Watergate trial, Sirica complained that the "full story" was not being developed by the prosecution and said he hoped it would be later, perhaps through the Senate probe.

Delay asked on Dean testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys for the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President asked a federal judge Friday to delay pretrial testimony of White House counsel John Dean III in a civil suit involving campaign financing.

Dean was subpoenaed to testify April 9 in a suit, filed by Common Cause, seeking the names of early contributors to President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign.

KENNETH W. PARKINSON, attorney for the committee, asked Judge Joseph C. Waddy to delay Dean's testimony at least until July 1. He also sought a delay for six other former Nixon campaign aides.

Parkinson noted the seven men were "all potential witnesses" in another civil suit involving the bugging and break-in last June at the Watergate offices of the Democratic National Committee.

One of the convicted conspirators in the Watergate case has said that Dean had prior knowledge of the plot. Nixon refused to allow Dean to testify before congressional committees investigating the Watergate case.

Parkinson said the present court schedule will "result in manifest injustice.

Betty Furness gets Bess Myerson's job

NEW YORK (UPI) — Betty Furness, former White House consumer specialist, Friday was named to succeed Bess Myerson as the guardian of consumers in the nation's largest city.

Miss Myerson, saying she supported the nationwide meat boycott set for April 1, left office Friday with these parting words: "The President's freeze on wholesale prices of beef, pork and lamb is just a partial answer to a growing national problem."

Miss Myerson, 47, who was appointed consumer affairs commissioner by Mayor John V. Lindsay in 1969, said she had no definite future plans other than a short vacation.

She did not rule out running for political office in the future, however.

First full standards for Cal. jails adopted

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Board of Corrections adopted the first comprehensive standards for county and city jails in the state's history Friday.

Effective almost immediately, the standards are intended to assure uniform conditions in jails throughout the state. They deal with such matters as staff, personnel training, cell size, medical, exercise, recreational and food facilities, classification of prisoners, inmate discipline, rights of correspondence, visitation rights and work programs, said Edward A. Veit, executive secretary of the board.

The state has had standards governing food, clothing and bedding since 1963, Veit said, but a law enacted by the Legislature in 1971 gave the board new powers.

Reruns turn off President

Hollywood fete to hear views

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is heading toward California's entertainment colony armed with a White House report critizing television reruns that plague America's summertime TV viewers.

Tonight, from the Western White House at San Clemente, the President will venture into Beverly Hills where Hollywood celebrities plan to gather for a dinner honoring director John Ford.

The dinner could provide Nixon a forum to plug for two steps his aides say would boost the sagging television-program production industry and please American television viewers.

— An effort to halt the networks' trend toward repeating prime-time television programs earlier each season.

— Elimination of the so-called "prime-time access rule" that took the 7:30-8 p.m. EST time slot away from the networks and gave it to local stations.

The director of Nixon's Office of Telecommunications Policy, Clay T. Whitehead, recently forwarded to Nixon a report prepared by Whitehead's staff.

The report said that a decade ago the typical network prime-time series ran for 32 episodes before reruns began. Last season, it said, the number of originals in a series declined to 24 episodes.

The practice of starting reruns earlier, combined with the government requirement that local stations rather than networks fill the 7:30-8 p.m. time slot on weekdays, has "reduced the amount of original prime-time programming on the three networks . . . by 25 per cent over the last 10 years," the report said.

Whitehead wrote Federal Communications Commission Chairman Dean Burch last week urging the FCC to make a full study of the re-run issue and "consider whatever regulatory remedies may be appropriate in protecting the public interest."

The presidential aide said his office had explored with network officials "the possibility of voluntary reduction" in the percentage of prime-time reruns, seeking "ways to reverse the trend toward fewer and fewer original programs" in network series.

"The networks refused to consider adopting voluntary restraints," Whitehead said, "although one network indicated that it would be willing to do so if the cost of producing programs could be reduced."

He said his office's study found that the main reason for the increasing cost of television programming "is the rivalry of the networks for ratings, which causes them to bid up the fees of the highly popular talent and also increases other costs that the studios incur."

Nixon first involved himself in the re-run issue last September when, responding to a plea from Screen Actors Guild President John Gavin, he wrote:

". . .I agree with your view that the increasing number of reruns on the networks in prime time constitutes an economic threat to the talented men and women of the American film industry.

"I am convinced that, in cutting the amount of original programming, the television networks are failing to serve their own best interests, as well as those of the public."

Oil companies rationing gas amid growing fuel shortage

By D. M. RANKIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — Several large oil companies have started allocating gasoline or trimming deliveries because of crude oil shortages.

And a number of independent service stations around the country are closing or cutting back because demand for auto fuel is outstripping the supply.

"We're in the worst shape that we've ever been in," said the manager of an Arizona chain that is running out of gas.

MOBIL OIL Corp., one of the nation's Big Three oil producers, announced Friday it was adopting an allocation plan that will limit distributors to the same amount of gasoline they purchased in 1972 although overall demand has risen 7 per cent.

Texaco Inc., the country's biggest gasoline marketer, has been establishing a similar quota with distributors as their contracts come up for renewal. Lion Oil Co. has also established quotas for Arkansas distributors.

Cities Service Co., among the top 15 oil suppliers, has found the situation so tight it is advising distributors they will be getting only 90 per cent of their estimated 1973 gas requirements.

Mobil took the step "reluctantly" in the face of increasingly heavy demand for all petroleum products, it said, and could not forecast when the quotas might end.

THE INDUSTRY'S supply problem is essentially the result of a limited amount of crude oil and limited number of refineries, industry sources say. Heavy strains were put on oil supplies over the winter and the record number of new cars on the road — all equipped with gas-devouring antipollution devices — has aggravated the situation.

With the motoring season approaching its traditional summer peak, some officials fear the situation will get worse before it gets better.

But the acting head of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, Darrell M. Trent, said Friday he doesn't believe gasoline rationing will be needed this year despite the possibility of shortages.

And the American Automobile Association assured motorists they shouldn't shelve their summer vacation plans because of fear about lack of gas. "They might just have to make a few extra stops before they find a service station that's open," said an AAA official.

INDEPENDENT stations have been hardest hit by the shortage. They generally buy on a spot basis rather than on contract, the way dealers selling major brands do, and are the first customers to be dropped when oil companies run into a supply crunch.

Gibbs Oil Co., the largest independent fuel supplier in the Northeast, has closed its East Providence, R.I., terminal because of the gas shortage. The terminal, which supplied gas to about 100 service stations in the state, had been without fresh supplies for a week.

In other developments in the East, New Hampshire officials reported state and local government authorities were having trouble buying gasoline for the coming year. The state purchasing officer said the deadline for bids passed a week ago without any offers being made by oil companies for state contracts. The same thing happened in West Virginia.

Bus service in New Orleans may be curtailed soon because of the fuel crisis, according to transportation executives. The city's but fuel reserves have dwindled from the normal one-week supply to a two-day reserve.

SEARS, Roebuck & Co. started rationing gasoline sales at 11 south Florida outlets this week and is limiting customers to maximum purchases of 10 gallons each. Sears said it had asked its supplier, the Marathon Oil Co. of Findlay, Ohio, for additional gasoline but was told no more was available.

"We've considered rationing but aren't doing it yet," said Herb Timms, co-owner of a Tucson service station chain, Gas-a-Tron, that has had its supply but by 15 per cent since the start of the year. "But it may get to that eventually."

Another Tucson chain, Circle K. Food Corp., reported many of its stores with self-service pumps had run out of regular and premium gasoline because of supplier shortages.

Joe Moneskey, owner of the Fair Price Oil chain in Akron, Ohio, said he had to shut down one of his nine stations for three days in late February because he ran out of gas "and couldn't get any more until the first of the month."

THREE independent stations in the Morris, Ill., area, 75 miles southwest of Chicago, have cut back their hours because their supplies were halved to 20,000 gallons a month. One station pumps only 750 gallons a day and then closes, while the other two close at 6 p.m. now instead of 10 p.m.

Opposition from conservationists has limited the number of new refineries to one in the last 10 years, industry sources say. Tougher pollution controls have led to increased industrial consumption of oil as an alternative to high-sulphur coal, putting added pressure on refineries.

The 7 per cent hike in gasoline demand means added output of 1 million barrels per day, "the equivalent of six or seven new refineries," said an official of Atlantic Richfield Co.

"And there are none on the drawing boards because of opposition from environmentalists."

Japan sales blamed as builders hit wood cost

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Small builders might as well stop constructing homes and "go fishing" instead if the price of lumber continues to rise, a construction industry spokesman said Friday.

John H. Russell, executive vice president of the California Building Association, told the Assembly Natural Resources Committee the cost of lumber is forcing sharp increases in the price of houses, driving many low and middle income persons out of the market.

He said that could result in a decrease in the demand for new homes.

One member of the committee, Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-Granada Hills, criticized the testimony of Russell and a lumber industry spokesman as "heavily slanted" in favor of their industries.

Keysor said statements that the export of logs to Japan was forcing a rise in lumber prices were "out of proportion."

He said the amount of logs exported to Japan constituted only about one or two per cent of the state's total timber production.

The assemblyman referred to a statement by John Davenport of the Western Forest Industries Association, a group of sawmill operators, that "outrageous prices" by Japan "have had the effect of driving up the American log, lumber and plywood prices."

Davenport said he favored an immediate embargo on the exportation of logs to Japan.

Gary M. Cook, acting deputy assistant secretary of the U.S. Department of Commerce, presented a statement to the committee declaring that his agency is reviewing the log export situation.

But he said the housing boom is the "principal cause" of the "imbalance" between supply and demand for lumber.

In a related matter, Sen. George Mocone, D-San Francisco, called for formation of an informal "action committee" of interested groups to investigate what steps the state can take to alleviate the problem of exportation of logs.

Price of Opel

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Buick Motor Division announced Friday it has raised prices on its German import, the Opel, 8.7 per cent.

The 8.7 per cent hike means Opel prices will jump an average of $247.

Firms sign geothermal development contract

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and Signal Oil & Gas Co. Friday announced they have signed a contract for development of steam resources in the Castle Rock Springs area of Lake County for the Geysers Geothermal power plant.

The contract provided for PG&E to install an initial 135,000-kilowatt unit scheduled for operation in 1976. It als provided for additional generation from a portion of its holdings on which there are seven steam wells.

Signal, because of the pact, will have an assured market for its steam from the Castle Rock holdings and PG&E approved firm supply on which to base the investment in the power plant.

PG&E's eight geothermal units at the geysers plus three under construction are in Sonoma County

N.Y. electrical workers OK pact

NEW YORK (UPI) — Electrical utility workers agreed to a tentative new contract Friday, but hopes remained dark for keeping open the New Jersey-Manhattan subways beyond a Saturday night strike deadline.

Get tough on trade:

Aim to brace U.S. products Nixon tack

By CHARLES FLINNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Buffeted by complaints of trade unionists, a weakened dollar, and growing disenchantment abroad for the once-respected label, "Made in the United States," the Nixon administration is embarking on a new trade policy.

Get tough with our trading partners now, the strategy goes, and they will be persuaded to negotiate longer-term commitments to freer trade.

There is lots of sentiment on Capitol Hill for this double-edged approach. Since the opening of the 93rd Congress early in January, more than 100 trade-related bills have been introduced — most of them protectionist.

SOME OF them advocate the direct approach, raising tariffs. This boosts the effective price of less expensive foreign products, keeping them from underselling their U.S.-made counterparts.

Others want more nontariff barriers, such as import quotas and "Buy American" campaigns.

The administration bill, which will be sent to Congress soon, utilizes both these approaches. But an important feature would give President Nixon authority to raise tariffs as well as lower them.

The President wants this power as a bargaining tool in trade negotiations later this year. As the White House sees the situation, the United States has been leading a free trade parade but few other countries have joined the march.

A MANDATE from Congress, in the form of a tough trade bill, would strengthen the President's negotiators and perhaps persuade Japan and the European nations that the U.S. is ready to fight for its share of the international marketplace.

The new policy was triggered by the nation's dismal trade performance in the past few years. As recently as 1964, the U.S. was exporting $7 billion more in merchandise than it imported.

That figure dwindled to a mere $800 million in 1968 and after a mild recovery in 1969 and 1970, crossed into the red. The $2.6 billion trade imbalance in 1971 was the first deficit in this century.

The December, 1971, devaluation of the dollar was supposed to arrest the slide. But matters got worse. The U.S. trade deficit last year plummeted to $6.8 billion.

THE U.S. is far less dependent on trade than most nations, but a steady flow of petroleum and certain metals and other raw materials is critical to maintaining the present standard of living.

By making imported goods more expensive (and exports cheaper abroad), devaluation may dampen consumer enthusiasm for such foreign-made luxuries as high-fidelity equipment, furs and automobiles. But workaday items such as oil, copper, nickel, chrome and bauxite are essential to keep the nation's factories humming. They will be purchased no matter what the price.

The shock of two devaluations of the dollar within 15 months has forced government officials and Congress to re-examine the role of the U.S. in the world economy. It also has improved the climate for passage of trade legislation.

THE BILL that does emerge from Congress, however, likely will be far less protectionist than the measure put forth by organized labor. Known officially as the Foreign Trade and Investment Act of 1973, but better known as the Burke-Hartke bill (for its two sponsors, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., and Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass.), the measure would, among its provisions, place a ceiling on virtually all imports and establish tougher taxes for the overseas branches of U.S.-headquartered companies.

TRADE

In Hartke's words: ". . . This bill would discourage American business investment abroad and limit the flow of imports into this country. We can no longer afford to export American jobs and technology at the expense of our own industry, all in the name of 'free trade' . . ."

NIXON struck the same theme in his 1968 presidential campaign. Wooing the traditional Democratic vote in the South, he equated imports with lost jobs in the U.S. and promised, if elected, to seek relief for the depressed textile industry.

Sensitive to the tax provisions of Burke-Hartke, American business has counterattacked. The "multinationals," corporations with foreign subsidiaries, have argued that their overseas activities actually create jobs in the U.S. by opening new markets abroad for U.S. goods and technology.

Fearful of bigger barriers to their own exports, Japan and other major trading nationals quietly have lobbied against restrictive trade legislation.

Nixon now is treading his way between the conflicting interests of business and labor.

PERSONAL diplomacy by Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz with AFL-CIO President George Meany probably accounts in part for labor's softer approach on Burke-Hartke in recent months. The AFL-CIO's executive committee lowered the bill's priority ranking last year.

The recent flurry over trade is a departure for the U.S. Blessed with abundant natural resources and an educated and mobile work force, the U.S. has been self-sufficient to a degree unmatched by most other nations.

The contrast is striking between the U.S. and Japan, an industrialized giant whose economy would collapse overnight without imports of raw materials and the profits from exported goods.

BUT JUST as a grocery needs consumers to stay in business, an exporting nation needs customers overseas. And 210 million Americans, with a common currency and language and the world's highest standard of living, is the ideal market for every exporter and the lifeblood for some.

This leads to problems. For example, a French tire company built a plant in Nova Scotia with the express intent of exporting about 80 per cent of its products into the U.S.

Domestic tire manufacturers took the offense, arguing that the Canadian provincial government effectively had subsidized the French factory. The U.S. Tariff Commission agreed, and slapped higher import duties on the French tires.

While U.S. officials moan about the growing trade deficit and restrictive trade barriers to U.S. exports, foreign governments have a counterargument. American manufacturers have tended to focus on the rich, domestic market and have not been aggressive overseas, they say. Japanese officials, for example, complaint that American businessmen don't even try to sell goods that Japanese would buy and therefore, the U.S. trade performance is bound to suffer relations leading to broader problems between the two countries.

All of these issues will come to a head in September when the major trading nations sit down for a round of tariff-cutting discussions under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariff and Trade (GATT).

Ellsberg judge bars query on newsman source

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

A newsman testifying at the Pentagon Papers trial in Los Angeles refused Friday to reveal secret sources of a book he wrote on Vietnam negotiations, and the judge ordered the government to cease questioning about the sources.

The prosecutor also was barred from asking Stuart Loory to disclose the sources of two articles he wrote about the Pentagon Papers for the Los Angeles Times in June 1971.

Asst. U.S. Atty. David Nissen said he wanted to ask Lorry whether he had had access to two volumes of the Pentagon Papers when he wrote the stories and "where he got them."

IN COMMENTS outside the jury's presence, the prosecutor added, "We think we know where he got them," implying that Daniel Ellsberg supplied them.

The Papers were released to news media in June 1971, but Ellsberg and Anthony Russo are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft only for copying them in 1969. The judge has repeatedly ruled out questioning on events in 1971.

The dispute over sources arose when Nissen asked Loory to disclose whether a portion of the book he co-authored was based on information from officials involved in peace negotiations.

"Mr. Nissen," said Loory, "I'm sorry, but I cannot get into a discussion of sources."

THE JUDGE intervened and ruled the question immaterial. But Nissen objected, insisting that the defense had tried to show that "the same people" were the sources for both Loory's book and similar accounts of negotiations in the Pentagon Papers.

"How can the government counter this assertion that the sources are the same people?" asked Nissen.

Byrne said the defense had not tried to show this, but he ordered all references to sources stricken from the record of Loory's testimony anyway. He told jurors the issue being covered in Loory's testimony anyway is whether information in the Pentagon Papers was already "in the public domain" by the time that Ellsberg and Russo copied the Pentagon study of the Vietnam War in 1969.

LORRY HAS said the 1968 book, "The Secret Search for Peace in Vietnam," authored by himself and David Kraslow in 1968, contained even more inside details of secret efforts to start peace negotiations than the Pentagon Papers told.

Another dispute arose later when the prosecutor tried to question Loory about phone conversations with Ellsberg's chief attorney, Leonard Boudin.

The defense complained, in a private conference at the judge's bench, that the prosecutor's knowledge of the phone conversation apparently came from illegal surveillance of Boudin's office. Attorneys reported after the conference that Nissen refused to say whether any such surveillance had taken place or not, and the judge barred him from asking any more questions about such phone conversations.

LOORY, now executive editor of WNBC-TV news in New York and former Los Angeles Times reporter, said outside court that had he been ordered to answer questions about sources he would have continued to refuse.

"I would not have answered questions about sources," he said. Loory said he came to testify in defense of Ellsberg and Russo because he felt much of the data they had copied in four volumes of the Papers had been published openly in his book in 1968 and publicly known even earlier.

EARLIER, at the prosecutor's request, Loory read numerous lengthy passages to jurors from "The Secret Search for Peace in Vietnam." The book tells of behind-the-scenes efforts to start Hanoi-U.S. peace talks in the mid 1960s — the topic which is covered in four top-secret volumes of the Pentagon Papers.

Loory's book, though not identical to the Papers duplicated much of the same information and extended into sometimes humorous details of the personalities involved.

He drew titters from jurors as he read of how presidential adviser William Bundy decided on names of flowers, including marigold and sunflower as code names for secret peace efforts. Loory told of other officials asking Bundy to "get off the flower kick" and of Bundy, in a move of "exquisite irony," naming the last flower mission "Poppycock."

Calif. geologists find 'glacier tracks' in N.C.

LINVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Two geologists announced Friday they had found evidence of Ice Age glaciers in North Carolina, a development that would force the revision of all geology text books.

Scientists heretofore had believed the glaciers reached no farther south than what is now the New York-Pennsylvania area.

The two Appalachian State University geologists, Dr. Jim Burkland and Dr. Loren Raymond, held a news conference to announce the development and said their discovery "make it a whole new ball game for scientists."

They said evidence of the glaciers was found on the northeast slope of Grandfather Mountain after a five-months-long search. They later led newsmen to the site.

Burkland and Raymond, said they spotted a U-shape valley about 4,600 feet up the side of Grandfather Mountain and recognized it as a formation similar to that left by the glaciers.

When they made their way up the mountain, they found a trail of polished rock and parallel grooves carved into the side of a rock outcropping.

"The grooving phenomenon is a proof which geologists recognize as absolute evidence that glacier passed over the rock," said Burkland, 42, like Raymond a native of Sonoma County, Calif.

The two said they did not believe the glacier that moved across the mountain was an extension of the great ice sheet that once covered portions of North America, but they said it occurred simultaneously with the gigantic glacier activity in the northern United States during the Ice Age.

The discovery, said Raymond, suggests that mountainous areas higher than 3,000 feet in the Southeast also experienced the effect of glaciation.

The site of the discovery is about an hour's walk from the nearest road on Grandfather Mountain, which is a tourist attraction and the highest in the North Carolina's Blue Ridge Mountains.

The two said the discovery solves the mystery of the discovery of fosselized wooly mastodons and other Arctic creatures in the mountain areas. They said scientists had not believed the area cold enough for such animals, and some had believed they wandered south and died.

Sure of big quake someday, East monitoring temblors

By ROBERTA HORNIG
Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — Concerned that eastern states are potentially vulnerable to a damaging earth tremor, geologists have begun measuring earthquake activity at sites scattered between Vermont and Georgia.

While stressing that the area is a minor quake zone compared to the West, the seismologists involved in the monitoring programs seem to agree unanimously that a big earthquake is likely to hit in the East someday.

"I have no doubt there will be a large earthquake on the East Coast," says Dr. Mark Sbar, of the Lamont-Doherty geological laboratory in Palisades, N.Y. "The question is when and where."

With monitoring and historical evidence confirming eastern seismic activity, these recent developments have taken place:

— New York last week became the second state to officially hire a seismologist. The other is California, the most earthquake-active state in the country.

— The Delaware Geological Survey is preparing a formal recommendation to Gov. Sherman W. Tribbitt calling for "at least a preliminary look" to determine if major structures in the Delaware area are earthquake safe. "Structures" would include smokestacks, schools, hospitals and bridges such as the Delaware Memorial Bridge.

Systematic earthquake monitoring in the East is relatively new, dating since the big Alaska quake in 1964. In Delaware, for example, a seismograph — an earthquake magnitude measuring instrument — was purchased last year, only after citizens in the Wilmington area began reporting small tremors.

The concern among geologists is that unlike quake-conscious California, eastern citizens have not been alerted to precautionary measures that can be taken to avoid injury. Also, structures are not quake-proof.

Much of the monitoring activity is being conducted by Lamont, a laboratory connected with Columbia University; the Delaware Geological Survey, which works out of the state university at Newark; Pennsylvania State University and Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The East is also being studied by the United States Geological Survey.

Lamont, which gets federal funding from the USGS, has set up about 25 seismograph stations.

Pacemaker firm blasts critic's claim of defect

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The major American producer of electronic heart Pacemakers accused a Ralph Nader-backed research group Friday of misleading the public by claiming that its product has a defect which may endanger the lives of up to 900 heart patients.

Medtronic Inc., of Minneapolis, issued a statement in response to the charges made Thursday by Dr. Sidney Wolfe, director of the Health Research Group. Wolfe said an estimated 3 per cent of 30,000 Medtronic pacemakers made before last April and implanted in the chests of heart patients across the country could cease functioning without warning.

"To suggest, as the report does, that 30,000 people in the United States are in danger of having their Pacemakers stop working is a misleading statement, perhaps designed to gain press attention, at the cost of causing anxiety by all Pacemaker patients," said Medtronic President Earl Bakken. "They must be reassured that they are not in danger."

Court restores vote to ex-cons

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court Friday gave ex-convicts the right to vote, ruling that their disenfranchisement is no longer needed to prevent election fraud.

The high court's unanimous ruling held that refusal to register former convicts who have completed their prison and parole periods violated the equal protection clause of the U.S. Consitution.

The court struck down provisions of the state constitution which prohibited voting by persons convicted at any time in the past of "infamous crimes." The election code listed 150 felonies and misdemeanors which fell into that category.

Acting in a case brought by the League of Women Voters, three other organizations and three ex-convicts, the court said that the historic reasons for denying ex-cons the franchise were no longer valid. They originally were forbidden to vote to deter election fraud by "immoral and dishonest voters." When the state consitution was adopted in 1850, the court said, free liquor, premarked ballots and transportation to the polls could influence election results.

"To do so in 1973, if possible at all, would require the coordinated skills of a vast squadron of computer technicians," the decision said. Abran Ramirez, 43, a farm worker, was listed as plaintiff in the suit.

FCC deaf to antidrug song author

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission Friday stuck by its 1971 position on drug lyrics which a Connecticut mother said prevented radio stations from playing her son's antidrug song.

The 1971 FCC statement put radio and television stations on notice they would be responsible for the content of song lyrics.

Madeline S. Large of West Hartford, Conn., told the FCC that, as a result, radio stations would not play "No Thank You, Mr. Pusher," written by her son when he was 11 and produced and recorded by her

Bloody retaking of Wounded Knee 'out'

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — The government will not try to end the Indian occupation of Wounded Knee with gunfire or bloodshed, the top federal negotiator with the rebels said Friday.

Oglala Sioux Tribal Chairman Dick Wilson protested that "if they'd just let me and my people go in there we'd end this tomorrow." He said the Indians in Wounded Knee are "afraid of other Indians coming in shooting."

The government's policy was spelled out by Asst. Atty. Gen. Ken Frizzell.

Frizzell indicated at a news conference that, after 31 days, the occupation of the historic settlement on the Pine Ridge Oglala Sioux Reservation amounted to a stalemate. But he said the government is willing to wait the Indians out.

The government forces do not feel they would be justified to go into Wounded Knee shooting and have no desire to "spill blood," Frizzell said.

"A short term solution which might lead to bloodshed is not as desirable to the government as a long term solution based on negotiations," he said.

"The loss of life and killing is not the purpose of the United States Government. The alternative is negotiation."

However, federal negotiators announced late Friday a meeting will be held 10 a.m. today with AIM leaders in a teepee inside Wounded Knee, near federal roadblock No. 1.

Wilson, arch foe among the Pine Ridge Indians of the Wounded Knee occupiers, said "I am becoming increasingly irritated at the inaction of the federal government."

Wilson has previously called the Wounded Knee militants "chicken." He said he did not desire bloodshed, but that if he were allowed to lead armed Oglalas into the village he believed the Indians there would surrender.

Indians led by firebrands of the American Indian Movement (AIM) have been in control of Wounded Knee since Feb. 27, occupying the ground where from 200 to 300 Sioux and Cheyenne died in 1890 in the last stand of the Plains Indians against the U.S. Cavalry.

Their demands have ranged from ouster of Wilson's Pine Ridge Oglala tribal government to recognition of the existence of an independent Oglala nation at Wounded Knee.

Both federal forces and followers of the tribal government have established blockades about the tiny village, primarily to keep supporters and food supplies out. The government is challenging a federal court order permitting food shipments into Wounded Knee.

A representative of the Justice Department's civil rights division, Dennis Ickes, was in Wounded Knee for five hours Thursday. But Frizzell said Ickes did not talk about negotiations with AIM leaders Dennis Banks and Russell Means and no dates for future meetings were set.

Most of Indian rebels indicted

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Most of the leaders of the Indian takeover of Wounded Knee, S.D., have been indicted by a federal grand jury, it was learned Friday.

It had already been officially reported that a total of 54 persons had been indicted for the occupation of Wounded Knee which began Feb. 27 and still continues.

The list displayed by Wilson showed most of the charges in the indictments concerned breaking, entering and larceny. It had already been charged that the Indians looted and deechroyed the contents of a trading post at Wounded Knee, with losses estimated as high as $150,000.

Wilson's list showed names and the number of counts in the indictments returned. It did not spell out the specific charges against each person.

The most prominent names on the list were those of leaders of the American Indian Movement (AIM), who planned and directed the Wounded Knee operation and have been its spokesmen since. They included:

—Dennis Banks, now regarded as the dominant figure at Wounded Knee, charged on nine counts.

—Russell Means, originally regarded as the leader in Wounded Knee and still one of the most powerful forces inside the settlement, charged on nine counts.

—Clyde Bellecourt, one of the original founds of AIM, charged on nine counts.

—Carter Camp, another longtime AIM figure, charged on nine counts.

The list also showed nine counts listed against Pedro Bissonnette. Bissonnette was reported by federal authorities earlier this week to have led an abortive mutiny of Oglalas inside Wounded Knee against Banks, Means and other AIM leaders.

Stanley Holder, described as "security chief" at Wounded Knee, was accused of obstructing a federal officer, it was learned.

Not on the list was Leonard Crow Dog, the "medicine man" and "spiritual leader" of the Indians in Wounded Knee. Crow Foot, who used to summon the AIM leaders to Indian religious services, is believed to have been one of those who backed the Bissonnette rebellion.

Wilson did not reveal how he obtained the list, but it was believed it had been obtained from one of those indicted who was arrested after he left Wounded Knee. Federal law would require that such a person be shown a list of the indictments.

The Wounded Knee Indians took 11 hostages on the night of their occupation, but released them two days later.

What's the matter with schools today?
(CIRCLE ONE)

A. So permissive they leave children with no sense of responsibility and no guidance to form adult ideals.
B. So rigid in conformity to established societal norms that a child's natural curiosity and learning talents are stifled.
C. Nothing. The problem lies elsewhere — with the kids, parents, money, etc.

Lambasted on one side, damned on another and a great letharigic sense of apathy in the middle. Yet for all that's wrong with the idea of public school systems, it's the best thing going.

Acting on that, Fergeson Elementary School in Hawaiian Gardens decided to improve on the good points, remove some of the sore spots and upgrade itself to one of the top ten in the country.

Area clerics are divided on amnesty; most against an unconditional pardon

By LES RODNEY
Religion Editor

Since the question of amnesty will be one of continuing interest and concern in and out of the churches, we will be happy to publish the brief thoughts of any area ministers who were not contacted for this sampling.

Much as people in the secular world, Long Beach clerics are divided on the controversial question of amnesty for Vietnam war draft evaders, a sampling of opinion by the Independent, Press-Telegram revealed this week.

They run the gamut from a Southern Baptist's flat "no" to any of them, to a Unitarian's call for unconditional amnesty for all.

Some ministers begged off, saying they had not thought through the question, or that it was too complex an issue to address in a brief statement. Some went to the Bible for guidance. Several held the problem to be a matter of "politics" in which a churchman should not enter.

The note struck most often was that amnesty should be considered, but in conjunction with some kind of national service by those returning to the fold. Within this framework, however, there were sharply different points of emphasis.

REV. NATHAN O. LOESCH of Bethany Lutheran, a Missouri Synod affiliate, who spent a year as chaplain with a river boat squadron in the Mekong Delta, said he doesn't believe the church "should be in the business of pushing the government — although the church as such operates on the basis of God's amnesty, full and free forgiveness.

"Personally," Loesch added, "I believe that those who apply for reentry should be considered. They should be given the task of serving two or three years in some way. I don't believe in unconditional amnesty. They have broken the law, and the law of the land must be obeyed, even in the face of an unpopular war."

Pondering the issue, Rev. Richard G. Irving, pastor at North Long Beach's Community United Presbyterian and a former Southland Synod leader, said: "Over and above all things, as I try to think my way on this as a Christian, I feel we must have room in our hearts for forgiveness.

"Not to condone what they did," he continued, "or to downgrade in any way those who served in Vietnam, but somehow you just cannot close the country's door on those boys, who may have thought they were doing right. I myself believe in my country and support it, but I think we must always leave room in our hearts for forgiveness."

Rev. George O. Peek, veteran pastor of North Long Beach Brethren, which church sent 80 young men into the Armed Forces, two of whom were killed in Vietnam, said: "I don't believe in unconditional amnesty at all. As has already been said by many, including returning servicement, this would be a horrible way of demonstrating our appreciation of what our fighting men have done for us.

"I might add that in my travels, I have met some of the draft dodgers, and while I suppose some acted out of conscience, it was irritating to find them mostly brazen about the whole thing. They were not serious in discussing it. What type of punishment they should get is not for me to say, but certainly there should be some form of punishment, some type of service to the country, as a minimum. Let me add that Brethren are not warmongers, but not draftdodgers either. We do recognize conscientious objection, but like noncombatant roles for them."

REV. GEORGE MANN, who preached a sermon on amnesty recently at California Heights United Methodist, said he would like to suggest three thoughts. "The first principle, I think, is that if one is going to take a stand, to break a civil law on the basis of conscience, then he should be prepared to pay the penalty the law requires, otherwise you do not make a witness by simply evading the penalty. It is not a question of history judging you right or wrong, but of confronting the issue.

"I believe these fellows had other options than to flee. True, some local draft boards may have been capricious, but they could have appealed. I think of Bonhoeffer going back to Germany, facing the music.

"As Reinhold Niebuhr once said, the state is not equipped to act out of love. Turning the cheek is an individual ethic. The state operates on laws. Laws can be and should be changed, but the state has no recourse but to follow the law with consistency. There should be no unconditional amnesty. I myself thought our foreign policy in Southeast Asia mistaken, but this is not the issue.

"The church, however, can and must be the reconciler, the refuge, the historic sanctuary. What the state cannot do, the church must. There is a difference between Christian grace and amnesty. Grace is living with the conflicts and the differences. We must reach out and reconcile."

At St. Matthew's Catholic Church, Rev. William L. Diamond said, "Yes, there has to be some form of amnesty, but there has to be something on their parts too. I cannot see an outright dropping of the consequences. I have talked to some of these young men. Some are truly conscientious objectors, but others did not impress me as such, they just ran. This is not a black and white issue. It is difficult to cover as such.

"I would say," Father Diamond added, "that we must bear in mind two words —justice and mercy. Both."

Rev. Paul Brooks Leath, pastor of Truett Memorial Southern Baptist, was brief. "I would not favor amnesty for them," he said.

TERMING AMERICAN involvement in Vietnam "a tragedy," Rev. Rexford J. Styzens of The Unitarian Church said "Only amnesty can finally end the tragedy. I have counseled young men who have chosen all the different alternatives to the draft. Some accepted active duty. Some became conscientious objectors. Some went to prison, and some went to Canada.

"I have counseled with their parents," he went on. "In each case, the choice of the boy was painful. In the cases where the judge reduced prison terms to a few weeks, the choice to flee proved more of a sacrifice than the choice of prison. Our nation needs to be healed. Bringing all our sons home is our only hope. I urge the President to request, and the Congress to order a general amnesty for all draft evaders."

Rev. Frank M. Kepner of First Baptist said "The boys should be permitted to come home, but they should be obligated to give the country the amount of time they would have served. Whether in the Peace Corps or any other way that was set up. It is not right to keep them away. Of course, desertion is a criminal thing. As for men who acted in conscience, they could have been used in the Medical Corps.

"I would like to see the President set up some means by which they could come home and serve the country," Kepner concluded.

Along the same general lines, Rev. James S. Flora of First Church of the Brethren said: "I favor some form of amnesty. I would include with it some possible type of service to the government, to show their sincerity."

Putting the same thought in a more negative form, Rev. James A. Borror of Lakewood First Baptist said "I'm against amnesty without some form of service for the nation. There must be restoration in terms of work."

REV. MURRAY T. McNeil Jr. of Los Altos United Church of Christ put it this way: "I am thoroughly in favor of a kind of amnesty, under certain conditions. The young men who have made this decision have separated themselves from the community to which they belong and in which all have responsibilities. They have the right to follow their conscience, but if they want to rejoin the community they should serve in some non-military capacity.

"Let me add," continued McNeil, "that these are our boys, and if we can forgive our enemies, like the Germans and Japanese, we can forgive our own boys. We should make some move. We have had amnesties after past wars. I can't conceive of anyone with a Christian background taking an adamant stand for good reason or less than good reason, against American boys who made a decision with which we disagree."

Rev. Frank E. Vessels of First Seventh-day Adventist said: "My heart goes out to them. As a minister, I can't see how we can hold grudges. They did what they thought best, others after all did violent things in opposition to the war, they were not violent. These young people in other countries, it meant an uprooted life to them. It took a certain amount of courage. As a Christian minister, I can't see how I could take another position."

Rabbi Wolli Kaelter of Temple Israel offered the view that full and unconditional reinstatement is in order "for those who on moral grounds could not participate in the Vietnam war. I don't like the very word amnesty because it implies wrongdoing. Moral consciousness and an educated conscience are qualities that make men singularly human and truly a child of God. To place them on trial would be akin to medieval practice when men were tried for their religious convictions.

"The law provides exemption as conscientious objectors only for total pacifists," the rabbi continued, "and does not protect those who cannot fight in a particular war. We tried, convicted and punished those of our enemies in World War II who followed orders rather than moral and ethical imperatives. How can we then but salute men of conviction who accepted life in exile rather than dishonestly claiming general conscientious objector status, or yielding to government pressure to do what ran contrary to their conscience? The moral crisis which engulfs America today, as evidenced by crime on the streets and corruption in the highest places will not be resolved by stubborn vindictiveness but rather by honest confession of wrongdoing and an overabundance of conscience, which are the pre-requisities for a just society."

REV. DAVID L. Hocking of First Brethren went to the Good Book. "In the Old Testament, God never required military service for those recently engaged or married (Deut. 20:7, 24:5), built new homes or vineyards (Deut. 25, 26) or were afraid (Deut. 20:8). Perhaps these standards might help solve future desertion problems.

"The question of amnesty for those who have deserted and deliberately disobeyed the law involves the issue of subjection to the government (1st Peter, Chapt. 2, 13, 14, and Romans 13:1 through 5). These passages teach us that we should submit to the laws of government and that those who resist this authority will receive condemnation upon themselves. In the light of this, it appears that the government has a right to demand some kind of consequence for their actions. To ignore this would encourage more resistance to the law, and continue to break down the principle of government itself."

At First Christian, Rev. George H. McLain commented: "If a person does not wish to serve in a fighting capacity in behalf of his country, he should serve his country in a non-combatant capacity. I do not believe that turning his back on his country's need is a way to strengthen it, on any level. I believe completely in the recognition of a man's conscience, but there is no excuse for a man running out on his country."

Rev. Wilson H. Rinker of First Orthodox Presbyterian said: "Amnesty means an overlooking of disobedience to a government order. Romans tells us that God ordained government and we are to obey its orders, or else disobey God. The leaders are exercising God's command for wrath or blessing. Refusal to fight the battles of our nation means disobedience to a God-ordained government. Justice demands enforcement of the penalty for disobedience.

"The Bible," Rinker continued, "allows one refusal to a government order —if government, by law, attempts to keep us from worshipping God, we do not obey. Therefore, no amnesty for any defector who has dishonored his country by refusing to stand firm for its defense. He has dishonored God, who put us under government rule. A country is free only under law, which must be obeyed."

Rev. George S. Johnson, pastor of Christ Lutheran, an American Lutheran Church affiliate thinks that perhaps "it is too early for us to settle the amnesty issue with any degree of objectivity. We are," he noted, "too close to the emotion-packed return of our POWs and MIAs.

"I am very concerned," he said, "that we try to arrive at a decision that is based on wisdom and love rather than revenge or militant patriotism. By that I mean that we dare not conclude that all who resisted the draft during the Vietnam war were being unpatriotic. It could be that some of them were more concerned about America the Beautiful than those of us who stand in judgment over them. So many of the arguments I've heard against amnesty of any kind seem rather selfish or shortsighted. The issue is far more complex than most of us realize. For example, we still aren't united on whether this was a just war.

"A quote from Martin Luther comes to my mind, where he said 'I dare not go against my conscience, which is guided by the word of God. To do so is neither right nor safe.' We Lutherans are still reminded of the atrocities that happened by a blind obedience to the state such as took place in Germany in World War II. And I know for a fact that many who went to Canada rather than be drafted to kill in this war tried to file for conscientious objector status but were denied that status.

"At present," Johnson said, "I lean toward some kind of amnesty in most cases. What type I don't know. More study needs to be made. But whatever decision we make, let's not suspect those who disagree as being unpatriotic. Let's use both our heads and our hearts in coming to a fair, just and wise decision."

Charismatic influence explored at Auditorium

The growth of the charismatic movement will be among the topics explored at the first Greater Los Angeles Bible Teaching Conference to be held Wednesday through Saturday, April 4th through 7th in the Municipal Auditorium.

Says Harold W. Ezell, conference chairman: "The theme of this conference is the coming together of the Body of Christ, without any banners or organizations or any special interest groups trying to capitalize."

Rev. Derek Prince, English evangelist and author of seven books on Christian doctrine, regarded as an authoritative interpreter of the phenomenon of charismatic renewal, will open the conference Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited free for all evening sessions. Registration for the morning and afternoon teaching sessions may be made at the door, on a family basis, and pro rated in amount.

Rev. Bob Mumford will speak Thursday and Saturday nights, and Rev. Don Basham, author of "Deliver Us From Evil," on Friday night.

Music will be on the agenda each night, climaxed on Saturday night with "Come Together," featuring Jimmy and Carol Owens, the same presentation being used by Key 73 as national Easter television program.

Presbytery ousts seceding minister

Rev. Ralph H. Didier, who led some 600 followers out of First United Presbyterian Church of Anaheim with charges that the denomination had "sold its soul to left wing enemies of Christ," was ousted as a minister of the denomination this week.

In a letter addressed "Dear Ralph," the Presbytery of Los Ranchos of the Synod of Southern California, which includes Orange County and Long Beach, said:

"We are deeply sorry that your recent words and actions left the Presbytery no other alternative than to depose you from the ministry of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and to erase your name from the Roll of Presbytery. . . . The action was very reluctantly taken after a great deal of prayer and discussion."

United Presbyterian action was very reluctantly taken after a great deal of prayer and discussion."

The Presbytery cited the denomination's Book of Discipline, which states: "When a minister renounces the jurisdiction of this Church by joining any other religious body deemed heretical or schismatic, he shall be deposed, or excommunicated." The letter told Didier "The Presbytery did not excommunicate you, but had no other alternative but to depose you."

The letter was signed by Ralph M. Grove, stated clerk of the Los Ranchos Presbytery. Its only practical meaning is that Rev. Didier may not call himself a United Presbyterian minister and is prohibited "from exercising henceforth any of the powers and duties of that office."

Didier has established a new church, called Covenant Presbyterian, in Anaheim, and told this newspaper that he expects the emergence in 1974 of a new conservative religious group to which his church will affiliate.

Didier said he was not surprised by the action, and added that the defrocking had no effect on his pastorship of his new church, which he would continue. He said he holds an earlier ordination, from a community church in Michigan, that is still valid.

There is no action that the Presbytery can take against the use of the word "Presbyterian" by a splitoff church, providing it does not call itself a church of the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A.

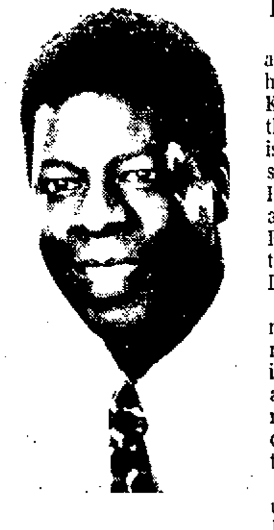
At First United of Anaheim, meanwhile, Sunday attendance was reported at 375, termed a little less than 200 shy of the average during the past several months. The "loyalist" congregation has already elected 16 elders to replace those who left with Didier. The session (ruling body) totals 33 members. Session clerk Dr. Kenneth Heuler says that all nominees "accepted readily" when first asked. Vacancies on the Board of Deacons have also been filled.

In a statement, the First Church Session affirmed its ordination vows and its continued loyalty and approval of "the government and discipline" of the United Presbyterian Church, and asked all members to respond to the charge given at the time they joined the church:

"Go forth into the world in peace; be of good courage; render to no man evil for evil; strengthen the fainthearted; support the weak; help the afflicted; honor all men; love and serve the Lord, rejoicing in the power of the Holy Spirit."

Easter seal

"Christ Is Risen," words of joy to Christians for nearly 2,000 years, will be carried on hundreds of thousands of cards and letters mailed this year by persons participating in the 27th annual Easter seal campaign of The Lutheran Hour.



GRAHAM AIDE IN COMPTON

Evangelist Ralph Bell, member of the Billy Graham team since 1965, will conduct a three-day campaign starting Friday in Compton College. Educated in Moody Bible Institute, Taylor University and Fuller Theological Seminary, he was a college Bible teacher, chaplain at Los Angeles County Jail, and recently held successful campaigns in New Guinea and Jamaica.

Churchman tells Indian priorities

Behind the headlines and the rhetoric which have brought Wounded Knee to the attention of the world, there are two issues for which the besieged group of American Indians are willing to die, according to Rev. Dr. Paul Boe, a staff executive of the American Lutheran Church.

1 — The U.S. Government at its highest level must pledge a thorough investigation of the way administration of the Bureau of Indian Affairs has dealt with existing treaties.

2 — The constitution under which the nearby Pine Ridge Reservation is governed must be suspended so that a new approach to self government may be developed.

Boe spent two periods of five days each in the Wounded Knee community at the invitation of leaders of the American Indian Movement (AIM).

While the policies and activities of the AIM organization have often been criticized as radical and irresponsible, he said that large numbers of Indians living in poverty regard the group as the only force which currently is effectively working for change.

'Mysticism' isn't what most folks think it is, says woman theologian

"MYSTICISM: Its Meaning & Message" by Georgia Harkness, Abingdon, $5.50.

The word mysticism has taken a beating in recent years, becoming associated with all sorts of weird and peripheral things, including drugs, and sometimes with charlatanism . . . fakery.

True mystical experience is something else again, and is available to all who truly seek it, is the message of Methodism's noted woman theologian, Georgia Harkness.

In this new book, she says the current upsurge of popular interest in Mysticism can be a great thing — provided people understand what genuine mysticism is, and what it is not.

"Mysticism is not astrology, fortune-telling, clairvoyance, or spiritualism in any of the forms usually connected by this term. It is not mental telepathy or anything which commonly goes by the name of extra-sensory perception. It is not visions, auditions, locations, or raptures. In short, it is not something superstitious or supernatural in the sense of occult."

Her own definition of mysticism is "communion of the human spirit with God," saying that this communion with God is "the very life of religion."

"Without such communion, religion may still exist as ritualistic folkways, or injunctions to morality, or as the social imperatives of human behavior including many sturdy efforts to remake the world. These pursuits are by no means to be disparaged. Given the right goals, they are vitally important. Yet without communion with God, in which mysticism centers, religion fades out and secularism reigns."

Dr. Harkness repudiates the common notion that mystical experience is a rare state "in which one is lifted out of himself and his world and into a state of ecstasy in which he sees visions and hears supernatural voices."

While some mystics have such experiences, she says, mystical experience also occurs with equal validity in the lives of ordinary persons as they engage in "personal prayer and worship" and as they learn through constant practice to recognize the presence of God in all events and activities of their everyday lives.

Mystical experience, in this sense of direct and intimate awareness of living in the presence of God, is open to anyone who is willing to pay the price, she says, but it "costs more of us than we are usually willing to give."

"Full communion with God involves a self-giving that claims the entire person, thinking, feeling, willing and doing," Dr. Harkness asserts. The first requirement is simple "purity of heart and life" — a sincere striving for "human goodness" in daily life and personal relationships.

There also must be readiness to surrender one's own will, ambitions and desires completely to the will of God. This does not necessarily mean renouncing all worldly pleasures. It just means putting God — and the desire for communion with him — above all else in our scale of values.

Some mystical experiences may occur spontaneously and unexpectedly. But most are the result of careful preparation which involves an earnest endeavor "to quiet one's mind and conflicting emotions so that one can hear the voice and feel the presence of God," says Dr. Harkness.

"So difficult is this to do with any thoroughness that most of us do not make the effort, whatever our so-called devotions," she says but adds that the effort is well worth making, for its fruit "can be the assurance that one does not have to carry his burdens alone."

Briefly . . .

Abortion not Catholic issue; Marjoe, that plane again

Is abortion a "Catholic" issue? No, says the U.S. Catholic Conference, it is a "catholic" issue.

In support of which point its communications department sends along a voluminous sheaf of negative comments from both Catholic and non-Catholic sources on the Supreme Court decision of January.

They range from the National Observer (conservative) to the New Republic (liberal), from the Rabbinical Council of America (the Orthodox Jewish group) to conservative evangelical Protestant magazine Christianity Today and Christian Century (ecumenical), as well as articles in the Washington Post, Evening Star, and New York Times.

SUNDAY IS the day for the annual "One Great Hour of Sharing," in which Church World Service, a program of the National Council of Churches which works on projects of relief, reconstruction and reconciliation, seeks a goal of $20 million.

Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia have moved high on the agenda in the Christian healing agenda, with self-help projects to be continued in Managua, and in Sudan, where 17 years of bitter warfare came to an end through the good offices of the churchmen—as acknowledged by all on the scene.

A KEY 73 Bible study class has been organized in Lakewood, and invites all those interested into its fellowship. The class meets each Sunday morning for breakfast at 8 in Fiddlers Three Restaurant, 5233 Clark Ave., followed by a lesson period from 8:30 to 9:30. Key 73, of course, is the nationwide interdenominational Christian evangelistic effort to reach everyone on the continent with the "Good News."

THE HOLY ROLLER is what some of its members smilingly call their little church in Frankfort, Ky. these days. They fully intend to comply with the scriptural admonition to build their church on a rock, but right now it's built around a mobile home superstructure. Containing a sanctuary, pulpit and Sunday School classroom, the Church of God right now is perched alongside a busy highway west of the city.

THE MOVIE "Marjoe," starring the former little boy preacher from these parts in a documentary in which he says it was mostly make believe, won an Oscar in the documentary class at the Academy Awards this week. The movie never came through the regular neighborhood theaters after its run in Westwood.

THE FOLLOWING letter has been received from Mrs. Evelyn E. Weinberg of Long Beach concerning our exchange of views with Rabbi Sidney S. Guthman over the Israeli downing of the Libyan passenger plane.

"Dear Mr. Rodney:

"I'm appalled at the tone of your reply to Rabbi Guthman. He explained about the '727 silently slipping into Israeli territory.' You had the gall to ridicule his statement by saying it was not Israeli territory but the Egyptian Sinai desert.

"Mr. Rodney, just what do you name captured land? It was territory won by blood and lives. It's too bad Israel won the war, as far as you are concerned. Did Russia relinquish domination over Hungary or Czechoslovakia or any other country, or did she maneuver her own people into power?

"What about the eleven Israelis who were murdered in cold blood at the Munich Olympics?

"The plane incident was not deliberate, but because of the threats, Israel had to protect herself. Perhaps this might have been a war plane in the guise of civilian. There is an odor of anti feeling on your part, there is no denying it. I have to express myself in this manner as I feel you were unjust in your opinion. Please think about this. Perhaps, if you examine your statement, you will find that you are really biased in your attitude.

"Yours truly,

"P.S. Israel offered reparation to the families of the victims as well as publicly expressing great sorrow over the happening."

(This is going around in circles. Like Rabbi Guthman, Mrs. Weinberg ignores the question that cannot be answered—Why was it necessary to force down a passenger plane which had corrected its course and was headed for Egypt, just a few minutes away? And, we must sorrowfully add, why is it necessary to defend anything that Israel does, and, in the case of the reader, to suspect the motivation of those who are critical? As a friend of Israel, I cannot join Mrs. Weinberg in equating Israel's morality and intentions with those of Russia.)

Pope reversal on woman's roles

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI formally ruled this week that women may administer communion in Roman Catholic churches and to the sick at home or in hospitals.

The decree marked a sudden reversal in the Vatican policy of restricting the role of women.

THE FAT IS IN YOUR HEAD
HOW TO DEVELOP A LIFESTYLE TO TAKE IT OFF AND KEEP IT OFF
by Charlie W. Shedd author of bestsellers: PROMISES TO PETER; THE STORK IS DEAD; IS YOUR FAMILY TURNED ON?; LETTERS TO KAREN; and LETTERS TO PHILIP.
The man who wrote this book lost 120 pounds . . . has kept it off for more than 15 years. His dynamic new book helps you accept the fact that you're overweight. That you are overeating.
The answer? The fat is in your head. The cure is in your soul. Through a special relationship with God. By developing a lifestyle that makes thinness an inspired state of mind.
Charlie Shedd proved it. The fat is in your head. He found his answer. So can you.

People say, "I don't need to go to church to be a Christian." True. Romans 10:9, 10 tells us we become a Christian by trusting Jesus who died for us and rose again. I Cor. 12:3 says, "No man can call Jesus Lord, except by the Holy Spirit." If you love Jesus, you will keep His commandments. Luke 4:16 says His habit was to go to church. He set the example. We are to follow Him. Come to church this Lord's Day.

EX-POWs RECALL TERROR

Air Force Maj. Russell Temperly of North Falmouth, Mass., and Goffstown, . N.H., said there were ups and downs in the prisoners' life. As a result, he said, "We became completely dead inside. The day of the actual release, if the airplanes had just turned around and taken off, I probably would have just dropped my head . . ."

Temperly was shot down in October 1967.

Charles E. Willis, a civilian worker captured during the 1968 Tet offensive in South Vietnam, said the "pulse of the war" determined his treatment.

"If the Communists were winning at a certain time, things went fine," Willis said in Honolulu en route from Clark to Kelley Air Force Base in Texas with 17 other newly released POWs. "But if things were going bad for them, it went bad for us."

WILLIS, of Pocatello, Idaho, was the manager of the Voice of America station in Hue, when he was captured by the Viet Cong on Jan. 31, 1968. He said he was held by both the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese, but usually didn't know which they were and couldn't say who treated him more severely. "One thing is for sure," he said. "there are kind and humane people all over the world, and I experienced both types."

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Friday the Pentagon knew U.S. prisoners of war in Vietnam were being tortured, but chose not to publicize it.

Six POWs freed while he was with the Nixon administration disclosed tales of torture, he said.

He said the decision to remain silent was designed to avoid causing anguish for relatives of POWs.

Air Force Lt. Col. George Robert Hall of Hattiesburg, Miss., who was captured Sept. 27 1965, said he learned one thing: "If you have will power and determination a human being can go on and on and on, living a day at a time, a meal at a time just one thing at a time."

He said a typical day in prison for the first four years of his captivity had six main events: two meals, three cigarettes, one bath.

"We lived pretty much at the whim of the turnkey. Sometimes he'd place our food outside the cell door and it would be 5 minutes before he gave it to us," Hall said

"WHEN YOU are truly hungry, this is a frustrating thing. I mean, you could look through the vent in the door and see the food out there.

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines, Saturday (AP) An American civilian prisoner of war said today that during years of beatings and maltreatment from North Vietnamese soldiers he had his hands, feet and neck tied so that he could neither sit up nor lie down. Ernest C. Brace, 41, told how he had three times tried to escape from his captors. His punishment for this included being buried up to his neck in a hole for a week and being slapped into unconsciousness.

Brace, a rugged ex-Marine, spoke to newsmen at Clark Air Base before boarding a flight to the United States in the next to last major arirlift of POWs returning home after years of imprisonment in Indochina.

"In October 1969 things changed for us. I feel it was a result of world opinion . . . the change was sudden. Almost like day and night. The torture ceased . . . the food increased. The attitude of the guards changed . . . The treatment still wasn't good, but to us it was great relief."

Another Air Force officer, Lt. Col. Bobby R. Bagley of Sumter, S.C., said some of his worst moments came after his capture and before he was taken to a prison camp in September 1967.

He said North Vietnamese peasants "were going to hang me, but an old man talked them out of it."

Bagley told newsmen that President Nixon's nationwide television address Thursday night "brought tears to my eyes" because Nixon "brought us back with our heads held high."

AIR FORCE Lt. Col. Richard P. Keirn of Tampa, Fla., who was shot down July 24, 1965, said that American prisoners who failed to bow to their North Vietnamese guards were thrashed with sharp, jagged pieces of rubber tire "They broke me many times," he said. "I'm no hero.

"Guards would peer into your cell every five minutes. If you didn't bow, they'd come in and beat you 'til you did. They did everything they could to humiliate and break a man mentally and physically. They obviously enjoyed the degredation."

Keirn, 48, is a 30-year Air Force veteran who spent 10 months in a prison camp near Barth, Germany when his plane was shot down during World War II.

At Travis Air Force Base, Calif., two other former POWs Friday described one planned and one briefly successful escape from their North Vietnamese captors — the failure punished by days and nights of torments with ropes, steel bars and beatings

Capt. Charles D. Chambers, 32, of Yuba City said he and his pilot managed to elude recapture for 12 hours over rice fields and woods before they were grabbed near a beach on the Tonkin Gulf.

An "over the wall" escape from his prison compound failed before it got started, said Maj. David E. Ford,37, of Sacramento, Calif. But after the beatings, he said, the four who failed were ready to try again.

Ford, Capt. William W. Butler, 33, San Rafael, Calif. and Capt. James E. Sehorn, 32, of Forest Grove, Ore., described in a wide-ranging news conference their attempts to keep themselves alive during years in North Vietnamese prisons.

CHAMBERS, shot down with his fighter bomber in August, 1967, said that 2 1/2 weeks later he and his pilot, Capt. Glenn Wilson, found themselves in dugout prisons west of the city of Dang Hoi north of the demilitarized zone waiting to be shipped north.

While the guards were having a water fight with each other, Chambers said, he went by Wilson's dugout and they managed to escape over rice fields to a beach on the Tonkin Gulf.

They found two boats, he said, and stole a mast and sails which they rigged on one of the boats using their clothing.

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — The Rev. Carl McIntire, the Fundamentalist radio preacher who led the victory marches on Washington, said Friday his organization will conduct war crimes trials of the North Vietnamese.

"We attempted to launch the boats standing above the swells," but both sank, he said.

"We were captured the next morning trying to hide by burying ourselves in the sand."

Ford said he tried with four others to engineer an escape in January 1968, a year and a half after his reconnaissance plane was shot down.

"One afternoon," he said, "we were told to get our stuff and move for a shakedown." Ford said he and the others tried to make an "over the wall" escape but "they caught us."

"That evening we were taken in and tortured for information concerning the escape," he said. "We were kept without sleep for two nights and three days, living on a half a loaf of bread and water for a week, our legs shackled and our hands cuffed behind our backs."

THE FOUR said the stories of their personal ordeals, being beaten, hog-tied and levered into painful contortions were the same as those first told Thursday around the country.

Asked if he were broken, he said, "If you're asking me whether or not you remain broken — if you're able to pick up the pieces — then they didn't break me."

The men agreed they never in all their years in prison heard of willing collaboration of the POWs with their captors.

At Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio, air Force Maj. William J. Baugh said that during one two-week period of captivity he was beaten daily with a heavy rubber strip which made him "squirm around like a caterpillar trying to get away from it."

IN EVANSVILLE, Ind., Army S. Sgt. James F. Pfister of Evansville said he saw 10 fellow prisoners of war die of malnutrition.

United Press International

Three hospital jets took off from Clark Air Base in the Philippines today carrying 48 ex-prisoners of war to family reunions on "the shores of the United States, our great country."

The second day of a three-day airlift left 69 POWs still at the Air Force hospital at Clark undergoing medical tests and paperwork.

Officials said they hoped to have all 69 back home in a four-plane series of flights on Sunday, but medical problems could hold back several of the prisoners.

THE very last known POW, Army Capt. Robert Thomas White, 32, of Newport News, Va., remained in a Viet Cong prison camp somewhere in Vietnam's southern Mekong Delta. Officials said he is to be released Sunday about 70 miles south of Saigon and flown to the Philippines.

Maj Norbert A. Gotner, 37, whose wife Ida and a daughter live in Sacramento, led the last group of 18, and in an emotional speech, said:

"I think the first colors I saw as we were waiting in a bus outside the Hanoi airfield at Gia Lam, I saw between two buildings the rudder of an aircraft . . . "I saw three colors, red, white and blue (of the American flag painted on the freedom plane's tail).

"Any my heart jumped, because the North Vietnamese told us that the American public and military would not want us back.

"BUT WE had faith. We knew what to expect."

All but two of 50 men released last Wednesday at Hanoi by North Vietnam and the pathet Lao flew home today.

Two jets flew to the United States Friday with 32 newly released POWs.

The first of the three flights today from Clark took off with 12 men aboard, 10 of whom were held by the North Vietnamese and the other two by Communist Pathet Lao.

Air Force Maj. James Padgett, 40, whose wife lives at Liverpool, N.Y., was their spokesman. "With the help and efficiency of the people here at Clark, we are now preparing to embark upon the next leg of our flight, which will take us to the shores of the United States, our great country," he told a crowd of about 150 persons.

"God bless you all."

PADGETT'S flight was scheduled to land at Scott AFB, Ill., this afternoon, then continue on to Andrews AFB, M.C., near Washington, D.C.

The Friday flights went to Travis AFB, Fairfield, Calif., and Kelly AFB, San Antonio, Tex.

Clark personnel whisked the men through medical checks and paperwork so that they can be reunited with their families in record time.

The 32 who returned home Friday were released by the Viet Cong at Hanoi last Tuesday. Among them was Navy Lt. Cmdr. Phillip Kientzler of Poway, Calif., the last American captured by Communist forces in Vietnam.

Kientzler was shot down in northernmost Quang Tri Province in South Vietnam last Jan. 27, about 16 hours before the Vietnam cease-fire halted all American bombing. He told a small crowd on hand to see the POWs off at Clark, Thank God for people like you and that wonderful American spirit that has never died.

"Even in our darkest hours we knew you would never forget us and never let us down."

The khaki-clad Navy officer then walked to the crowd and somberly shook hands with men and hugged women. He posed for a picture with one girl, and was draped along with the other prisoners with leis of sampanguitas, the national flower of the Philippines.

Another ex-POW, Col. Benjamin Harrison Purcell, 45, of Columbus, Ga., clutched a small American flag in his left hand when he spoke to the crowd.

"The treatment we have received here has strengthened our faith in the goodness and brotherhood of man," he said. "You have earned our lasting gratitude."

CANDIDATE RESIDENCY

State University professor Ernest E. Leonard on the ballot for the special May 1 election to fill the 38th Assembly District seat formerly held by the late Carley V. Porter.

Leonard had stated voluntarily on the face of his declaration of candidacy that he had not lived in the district prior to January of this year.

Article 4, Section 20 of the constitution states that "a person is ineligible to be a member of the Legislature unless he....has been a resident of his district for one year....."

Iver E. Skjeie, assistant attorney general in the Justice Department's government law section, said he based his advice on previous court rulings and on a March 16 Supreme Court decision holding that a 30-day residency requirement for city council candidates was unconstitutional.

On numerous occasions in recent years, courts have declined to enforce Article 4, Section 2C, citing another section of the state constitution which gives the Legislature authority to judge the qualifications of its members.

Although neither Brown nor Skjeie were willing to state that the constitution's residency requirement had been made void, the practical result of Friday's action, combined with previous court action in the area, may have been to remove all residency restrictions from state and local candidates save that they be citizens of the United States.

And, until a ruling is made, it is not certain that that restriction remains.

Skjeie said a formal written opinion on the status of the residency requirement would be prepared within 90 days.

In another issue involving the Compton election, Brown was told he did have authority to prevent a candidate from using a nickname which might confuse him in voter's minds with another candidate.

As a result, Ephraim Valencia will appear on the ballot as "E. Valencia" instead of "E. Frank Valencia," as he had requested. He also will be prevented from using a job designation he is unable to justify.

Brown indicated earlier this week that he suspected Valencia had attempted to use a phony first name and ballot designation to create confusion with another candidate.

The other candidate, lobbyist Frank Vicencia, originally requested a ballot designation as "legislative advocate," the Sacramento euphemism for "lobbyist." He later requested that the designation be changed to "businessman-company president," based, he said, on the fact that he operated a public relations firm in the district.

Valencia, a draftsman for the city of Long Beach, assertedly told the Secretary of State's office that "Frank" was his nickname. And he also requested a ballot designation as "businessman-company president" because, he said, he owned income property.

But, Brown said, an investigation indicated that Valencia's nickname was "Val," not "Frank."

The secretary of state said Younger's office told him he did have authority to investigate the accuracy of a candidate's name and ballot designation. When Valencia could not substantiate his claim to the nickname or the ballot designation, Brown said, he requested that he appear as "E. Valencia" on the ballot without a job designation.

The request was granted, Brown said.

pave the way to Senate approval of his nomination. An ex-Marine and FBI agent, Petersen is a nonpolitical career employe of the Justice Department.

A Philadelphia native, he has worked full-time for the Justice Department since 1951, when he received his law degree. In 1952, he joined the department's criminal division and in 1966 was named chief of its organized crime and racketeering section.

In 1969, Petersen was named deputy assistant attorney general by Nixon and in January, 1972, was given a recess appointment as assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division.

Petersen is extremely well-liked by his associates and highly regarded for his work in directing the federal government's fight against organized crime.

Petersen's efforts were publicly noted in January when Kleindienst told a news conference that as a result of the criminal division's aggressive anti-crime drive, organized crime soon will become "a past chapter of American history."

Administration officials credit Petersen with the successful effort to jail many organized crime leaders, including such figures as Meyer Lansky, who was convicted of contempt of court after refusing to answer a federal subpoena. Lansky, who recently underwent heart surgery, has appealed the conviction.

Judiciary committee sources also noted that Petersen will be quizzed about his role in the department's investigation of the Watergate and related incidents, but they said the committee has been assured that Petersen has "clean hands" in regard to the Watergate issue.

dent with men employed by the Committee for the Re-election of the President who were convicted of breaking into and bugging the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee last year.

Ziegler delivered the long statement at midday, shortly before the President departed for San Clemente, where he is scheduled to remain about 10 days.

Ziegler, who usually never mentions the Watergate case unless asked, said he was speaking out because of concern over a "series of unsubstantial charges" that have been emerging from the special Senate committee headed by Sam Ervin, D-N.C., implicating White House staff members in the case.

He denied staff members were involved and said "the personal rights of individual members have been abused by procedures that are less than orderly and judicial."

"The public media and the White House news briefings are not the place to make an evaluation of these charges," Ziegler said.

James McCord Jr., one of those convicted, has testified under oath before the Ervin committee that his fellow conspirators in the case gave him the impression that they had cleared their clandestine operations with ranking officials in the administration, according to several sources.

Ziegler insisted that the White House position had always been one of cooperation concerning the Watergate matter. The President has said that in order to preserve the separation of powers he would not let Dean or other staff members appear before a formal meeting of congressional committees, and Ziegler said Friday that policy is unchanged. However, he went on to say:

"Any member of the White House staff called by the grand jury will be required by the President to testify. That is a restatement of policy in effect."

In the past, however, no such categorical statement of obedience to grand jury inquiry had been made publicly

'Freeway Farce:' Angels trim Dodgers

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

It wasn't baseball, it was slapstick.

In what appeared to be a parody on the national pastime, the Angels and Dodgers conspired to commit eight errors Friday night, turning the Freeway Feud into the Freeway Farce.

A crowd of 16,328 turned out to watch the comedians at the Big A.

The Angels out-erred the Dodgers, 5-3, but fortunately for the mental well-being of manager Bobby Winkles, they also outscored them, 5-4.

The winning run, naturally, was unearned.

It came courtesy Bill Russell throwing error in the home half of the eighth but only after three Angel muscues on three successive ground balls in the top of the inning had permitted the Dodgers to pull even at 4-4.

The victory was the Angels' ninth in 14 meetings with the Dodgers dating back to 1962 and it snapped a string of six consecutive spring setbacks.

"Five errors," mused Winkles aloud. "Well, that's an improvement over some of our games this spring."

He was obviously referring to one shabby showing in which his club made seven bobbles. But the five errors Friday boosted the Angel total to 35 in 17 games.

The Dodgers were hardly paragons of proficiency, either, but their ineptness didn't show on the scoreboard until Russell's untimely throw in the eighth.

It followed Vada Pinson's leadoff single and John Stephenson's sacrifice. Sandy Alomar then rammed a grounder to Russell at short but Russell hesistated and his throw pulled Tom Paciorek off the bag.

Pinson thus took third and was able to score on pinch-hitter Doug Howard's grounder that Russell almost turned into a double play.

"There were a lot of mistakes by both sides," understated Dodger manager Walt Alston, who claimed that "indecision" prompted Russell's costly misplay.

The Angels scored four times off former teammate Andy Messersmith in the third inning without benefit of a solid hit. They parlayed two walks, Ken Berry's bunt single, a squib hit by Jim Spencer on which Messersmith made a wild throw to the plate as he fell down scrambling off the mound, and Alomar's blooper to center.

"If Andy didn't fall down, he'd got the runner at home," Alston insisted.

Willie Davis' solo homer off Rudy May in the fourth started the Dodgers on the road back and they managed another run in the sixth on singles by Lee Lacy and Manny Mota and a pair of groundouts.

The Angel infield collapsed in shambles in the eighth. Billy Grabarkewitz threw low to first on Mota's leadoff grounder. Then Alomar permitted Davis' hopper to squirm between his legs as Mota sped to third and Davis alertly advanced to second.

'I quit, get yourself new man' — Martin

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — "As far as I am concerned Billy Martin is still my manager," said general manager Jim Campbell of the Detroit Tigers Friday night, some 10 hours after the Tiger field boss stormed out of a meeting, saying he was quitting.

Martin's whereabouts remained a mystery.

"I'm just at a loss to understand all this and I want to talk to Billy," Campbell said before leaving for a meeting with John Fetzer, owner of the American League baseball club.

The fiery Martin was quoted as telling Campbell, "I'm done. Get yourself a new manager," as he walked out of a meeting held to discuss an incident involving outfielder Willie Horton.

Campbell said Friday night that he was attempting to locate Martin.

Horton had also attended the meeting, held to discuss the outfielder's walkout from the ball park without notice during an exhibition game with the Boston Red Sox here Thursday night.

The Tigers, meanwhile, travelled to Clearwater, Fla. and defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 9-5 without Martin. Coaches Dick Tracewski and Charlie Silvera handled the team.

Martin imposed what Campbell termed a "moderate fine" on the temperamental Tiger outfielder. But Campbell, apparently not satisfied with his handling of the situation, called the pair into his office and increased the amount of the fine.

"I told Billy aand Willie they're going to have to act and deal man-to-man in situations like this," Campbell said. " 'If one of you has a problem with'" the other,' I said, 'talk about it.' "

Campbell said, "Billy jumped out of his chair and shouted, 'I'm done. Get yourself a new manager.' "

Martin left the office, stopped briefly in the clubhouse and returned to the motel where the team is staying. Campbell said he heard nothing more from him.

When asked if he thought Martin was serious about resigning, Campbell replied:

"I can't understand Billy Martin. Can you?"

Martin and Horton, at odds in the past, apparently were getting along satisfactorily this spring. Campbell said Horton did not appear upset when Campbell raised the fine. The size of the fine was not revealed.

Horton walked out of the park Thursday night after being pulled from the game after playing six innings.

"If this drags on for a couple of days we'll cross those bridges when we get to them," Campbell said of Martin's vanishing act. "For all I know he (Martin) may be back tomorrow."

Pro track meet runs better than its contestants

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jim Ryun won the mile and Kip Keino won the two-mile Friday night as Portland's first professional track and field meet went off without a hitch but also without spectacular performances.

Ryun was clocked in 4:06.5, pulling away from Jerome Howe in the final two laps. Howe was timed in 4:08.7.

Keino trailed Gerry Lindgren briefly at the start of the two-mile race but took the lead after two laps and was nearly a lap ahead at the finish, winning in 8:46.0.

Brian Oldfield continued his domination of the professional shot put, hitting a career best of 68 feet, 8½ inches for first place. Karl Salb was second at 67-½, also a personal best, and world record-holder Randy Matson was third at 65-7.

Another world record-holder, Bob Beamon, lost the long jump to Henry Hines, who leaped 26 feet, 6¾ inches. Beamon was second at 26-½.

The attendance was 7,435, compared with 11,500 last week in Los Angeles and 10,400 in a shakedown meet at Pocatello, Idaho, on March 3.

Unlike the Los Angeles meet, where many organizational bugs developed, Friday night's events progressed without problems.

One headliner, pole vaulter Bob Seagren, had to scratch, however, because of a leg injury.

Warren Edmonson won the 60-yard dash, just nipping Mel Pender at the tape. Jim Green was third and Jim Hines was fourth. All were timed in 6.1 seconds, a professional record.

Leon Coleman sped over the 60-yard high hurdles, beating Lance Babb, Richmond Flowers and Bill High, in that order. Coleman was clocked in 7.1 seconds, also a professional record.

Trojans, ASU move toward showdown

RIVERSIDE — University of Southern California picked up a pair of victories on heavy hitting, while Arizona State relied on its pitching Friday as the teams neared a showdown in the Riverside Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament.

Homers by Ed Puttman and Fred Lynn powered the Trojans to a smashing 16-4 afternoon victory over Massachusetts, and a three-hit performance by Ken Huizenga later in the day paved the way to a second SC win, this one over UC Riverside.

Ed Bane of Arizona State struck out 14 in a four-hit shutout over Washington State. In another afternoon game, Don Shaw struck out six and allowed only five hits as Stanford shut out Vanderbilt, 6-0.

Crawford pulls upset—goes 10 against Chacon

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

If survival was his goal, Frankie Crawford waged a successful battle against Bobby Chacon at the Anaheim Convention Center Friday night.

Crawford pulled off the upset of the evening by lasting the full 10 rounds with the 20-year-old slugger from Sylmar, who had knocked out 16 of his previous 17 opponents, but this time had to settle for a lopsided 10-round decision.

In a less thrilling 10-rounder, Huntington Beach middleweight Mike Nixon droped Jose Martin Flores twice en route to an easy decision.

If Crawford, six years older and 40 fights wiser, had any notions of standing and hitting with Chacon, they were quickly abandoned when Bobby's left to the belly and right to the jaw dropped Frankie late in the first round.

Frankie, now 38-16-5, and training at the Seaside Gym in Long Beach, got right up and onto his bicycle, peddling for the next five rounds until he suspected that Chacon might be getting tired from swinging and chasing him.

Chacon never had been beyond eight rounds in his life, while a half-pound lighter at 127 ½, had gone 15 twice in dropping controversial featherweight title decisions to Sho Saijyo in Japan.

In the fifth, Chacon gave Crawford an elbow when Frankie bearhugged him from behind.

In the seventh, he came at Chacon and started throwing a few punches although at that point he needed a knockout for a win.

The loquacious Crawford, finding it to talk through swollen lips, said, "Chacon's a helluva puncher. He has to be. I can hardly talk."

Chacon, the 10th rated featherweight contender, said, "I expected a tough fight. Everybody said he was a slouch, but I knew better than that. He hurt me in the ninth with his body punches, but I never felt I was in trouble.

"I think it was good for me to go the distance. I ran out of gas at the end."

Each fighter was puffy around the eye, and Chacon's right hand was swollen from landing hard overhand rights on Crawford's head.

Referee Rozadilla scored it 8-1, judges John Thomas and Dick Young 10-1 each. This newspaper had it 8-2.

Referee Thomas had to warn both for hitting low. Each weighed 159. The scoring was 6-3, 6-2, 8-3.

ALI 5-1 CHOICE TODAY

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Muhammad Ali is a 5-1 favorite to drub Ken Norton in a nationally televised elimination fight today in San Diego.

The fight is scheduled to start at 2:40 p.m., but will be shown on Wide World of Sports over ABC at 5 p.m. on the Pacific Coast.

In one breath, Ali said Friday that he would "annihilate" Norton, but in another he refused to name the round "because he's too good for that."

Ali stands 6-3, weighs 221, is 31, has a record of 41-1. Norton is 6-3, weighs 206, is 28 and has a 31-1 record.

"I am a little nervous, but I am a positive thinker," said Norton. "I have no doubts at all that I can win."

The scheduled 12-rounder at the San Diego Sports Arena will bring $210,000 to Ali and $50,000 to Norton, whose previous big payday was only $8,000.

West, Gail beat Bulls

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

An unusual net of circumstances transpired Friday night before the Lakers, who were lethargic most of the night, were able to outlast the Chicago Bulls in overtime, 107-104, to launch the NBA playoffs at the Forum.

It was the seventh consecutive playoff loss for the Bulls against the Lakers, but as usual the losers didn't go down without a fight. However, most of the Lakers were upset they let the Bulls carry them into overtime.

Jerry West, the overtime hero, did not play for the last nine minutes of the fourth quarter until there were only 38 seconds remaining and the Lakers had sqandered a "safe" lead.

Forward Jim McMillian also was on the bench for all but the last 10 seconds of the fourth period as his replacement, Mel Counts, did a creditable job.

Playing without two starters down the stretch was against coach Bill Sharman's better judgement, but he went against the percentages for this rare occasion and almost got away with it.

Earlier this month he was second-guessed for replacing hot-shooting subs with starters in the waning minutes. The starters failed to respond and the Lakers lost.

Sharman let it be known Friday he didn't appreciate such treatment based on his superior overall record.

The talented coach, embattled the last 48 hours over the pro-playoff game incident, said he asked West if he wanted to go in the game with 3½ minutes left and Jerry said no because he felt the subs were playing well.

They were, too, until the last two minutes. When they went cold, West said he expected to enter the game a littlie earlier.

Gail Goodrich's brilliant outside shooting pushed the Lakers on top 92-85 with 2:43 remaining. Normally such a lead would stand up, but this time it didn't.

The Lakers made a mistake at 0:36 when Keith Erickson threw an inbounds pass to Wilt Chamberlain. The Bulls fouled him immediately, knowing the odds were the big man would make only one of two, which is exactly what happened.

Chet Walker missed the game-tying attempt for Chicago, but Bob Love rebounded and was fouled. He made two of three attempts to give the Bulls their first tie in 12 minutes.

Goodrich, who finished with 28 points, hitting 12 of 23 shots, could have prevented the overtime but missed a jumper with five seconds to go. The ball came directly to McMillian, who had entered the game only five seconds earlier, and he failed on a short follow shot.

West took charge midway into the extra period. His three-point play at 2:19 broke the last tie and his two free throws at 1:41 seemingly put the game away as it put his team ahead 101-96.

But Chicago never quits, and this time was no exception. Twice the 49ers' search continues

Long Beach State was still without a basketball coach Friday, but indications are that school officials will have their man before Monday.

One candidate - the University of San Francisco's Bob Gaillard - took his hat from the ring Friday, and another - Long Beach City College's Lute Olsen - threw his in.

Gaillard phoned LBSU athletic director Dr. Lew Comer at 10 a.m. to report that he was staying at USF and did not wish to be considered a candidate for the position Jerry Tarkanian left last week to become head coach at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

A half hour earlier, Olson had phoned Comer and told him he wished to be considered an applicant for the job.

"I wasn't a candidate until then unless you can be a candidate without being an applicant," Olson said. "Now I'm an applicant, and I guess by saying that, it means I would take the job if it was offered to me.

"I really don't think I can lose," added Olson. "It would be fine if they had confidence enough in me to offer me the job, but I won't be disappointed if they don't. The last four years have been the happiest of my life, and I could spend the rest of my life at City and always be happy."

There were rumors Friday that one or two "mystery" candidates had entered the picture, but it is likely that the next 49er coach will come from among the three known contenders for the job - Olson, Compton College's Jim Newman and 49er - 3-30-73 sports.... Long Beach State basketball coach2222....jmc... assistant Dwight Jones

Shaw's triple leads Wilson to swim title

By RICK ARTHUR
Staff Writer

Wilson High sophomore Tim Shaw won two events and anchored the winning 400-yard freestyle relay squad to give the Bruins the deciding points for a 278-272 victory over Lakewood in the Moore League swimming finals at Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool Friday night.

The dramatic win gave the Bruins the league title, since they also accomplished a 5-0 mark in dual meets. If Lakewood had won the finals, there would have been co-champions.

Shaw led a parade of Wilson swimmers that took first place in seven of the 10 varsity events to overcome Lakewood's depth. Most importantly, the Bruin soph outraced Lancer John Ivins in the last leg of the final event that broke a 246-246 tie and decided the meet.

The winning foursome of John Dunster, Scott Hartley, John Lobdell and Shaw sped to a 3:20.3 mark in the freestyle relay, shattering the meet record by three seconds and beating the Lakewood team of Don Reeser, Frank Gordin, Scott Gordin and Ivins that clocked 3:22.6.

Shaw also captured the 200-yard freestyle in a record 1:43.7 and the 400-yard freestyle in 3:46.2.

Wilson's Bill Mosher was the only other athlete to win more than one event, taking the 100 free, the 100 backstroke and anchoring the victorious 200-medley relay quartet. Scott Shelton captured the individual medley for the Bruins in a record 1:43.7, and Pete DeGolia, Dunster, Hartley and Lobdell also added crucial points.

Lakewood's only first place was by Reeser in the 100 backstroke, tying his own record of 56.1. Millikan's Don Grant and Poly's Don Kuster were the other individual winners.

One-hit pitching gems carry Lancers, Rams

By KEN PIVERNETZ

Frank Hardy, who had four hits against Wilson Tuesday, singled and tripled Friday night for the Lancers and scored three of his team's six runs.

Gary Piper suffered his first loss of the year for Wilson after four victories as Millikan again played alert baseball, stretching infield hits into runs and maneuvering the bases well.

The only Bruin hit was a triple to right field by Kevin Warner in the fourth to score pinchrunner Bob Barthel and cut Millikan's margin to 2-1.

But Zogby came back in the bottom of the inning to sock a three-base blow of his own to score a run and give the Rams all the breathing room they needed. Fenoglio again finished up, pitching two hitless innings.

In the day's best game, Poly was sailing along behind Alan Rye who was only one out away from victory. The Tarbabes then pull their own Jackrabbit out of a hat as Sylvester Rodgers singled, Arthur Harold tripled and pinch hitter Bob Johnson legged out an infield hit as Harold streaked home to tie the game.

S.F. bounced again as Bucks' 'jinx' continues

United Press International

Nobody used the word "jinx" but it was on everybody's mind and they all talked around it after the Milwaukee Bucks beat the invading Golden State Warriors 110-90 Friday night to take a 1-0 lead in the first round of the Western Conference playoffs.

Milwaukee now has won its last 15 games in a row.

The win was the sixth in seven meetings for Milwaukee between the clubs this year and Golden State has been well out of all six Buck wins.

"I think maybe those guys have it in their minds that they don't really want to play us," Bucks' forward Bob Dandridge said after the game. "I know they sure seemed to be thinking about it and I just hope they keep on thinking that way."

Golden State's Rick Barry admitted that something special—and not very good—seemed to happen to the Warriors whenever they stepped on the court against Milwaukee.

"It's the strangest think I've ever seen," Barry said. "But whenever we play these guys, we just play stupid basketball."

Three years ago, the Knicks' bench captivated the imagination of young basketball stars as Mike Riordan, Cazzie Russell and Dave Stallworth helped New York win the NBA title.

The Knicks now have Phil Jackson and Jerry Lucas who helped the Knicks defeat Baltimore, 95-83, in their opening playoff game.

With Wes Unseld hamstringing Dave DeBusschere and holding him to five points for the game, Jackson came in and contributed six points. Lucas, filling in for Willis Reed at key moments, scored four points in the opening half and then shelled the Bullet defenses with long range field goals in the third period.

LAKERS-

Bulls closed to within one point, the last on Bob Weiss' jumper at 0:15 following two West free throws at 0:20.

Then came a controversial play. Weiss was called for fouling McMillian. The Laker swung out his elbow and floored Weiss, but the Bull guard was called for guarding too close. McMillian made the two free throws and the Chicagoans were finished.

Chicago coach Dick Motta was in a rage, caused mostly by the foul on Weiss.

"It was definitely an offensive foul on McMillian," said Motta. "I'm sick and tired of getting pushed around in this league like a bowling ball."

Then he stormed out. End of interview.

Sharman said he hoped not all the games would be this tough, but that he had respect for the Bulls even though they have lost to the Lakers 13 of the last 14 games.

"We shot poorly (35 per cent) in the first half and didn't run well," Sharman went on. "I've said a zillion times we can't beat good teams if we don't run."

Sharman must have told his players the same thing at halftime, because they came out running in the third quarter and turned a 50-41 deficit into a 71-69 lead.

Chamberlain took five shots, four more than his total in the last two games, and collected 11 points. His biggest contribution was 20 rebounds and 6 blocked shots.

Counts had 13 points to go with 15 rebounds and the 10-year veteran has been so sensational coming off the bench that Sharman says he wouldn't be afraid to start him.

West, averaging 30 points against the Bulls, settled for only 17, even in the overtime. McMillian was under his average with 12.

Goodrich scored 14 in the third period, six in the final quarter. He took only one shot in overtime.

The teams mix again at the Forum Sunday.

ANGELS WIN

smartly only to throw it into the Dodger dugout as two runs scored.

Rookie Dave Sells, who replaced May in the seventh and dampened a Dodger threat, refused to crack like his support and retired the next two hitters, keeping Ferguson anchored at second.

But a walk to Dave Lopes and Russell's infield hit loaded the bases and Winkles, who matched maneuvers with Alston all night, summoned lefty Steve Barber to deal with pinch-hitter Von Joshua.

Alston countered by sending up former Angel Ken McMullen. Winkles won the war of wits when McMullen struck out.

FREEWAY FACTS: Frank Robinson of the Angels, still treading lightly with a pulled hamstring in his left leg, ran in the outfield before Friday night's game and said, "If the season opened tomorrow I could play" ... However, Robinson said the leg is "not 100 per cent and admitted deep concern over the fact he has missed so much spring training time . . . He expects to return to the lineup Tuesday in Palm Springs against Milwaukee . . . Dodger Bill Buckner was a late scratch because of a mild touch of flu . . . Ken McMullen, who has missed 10 days with a bad back, went to Angel trainer Freddie Frederico and had it cracked ... "I feel good enough to play, if need be," McMullen said after Frederico's therapy ... Doug Howard, filling in for Robinson in left field, has responded with six hits in his last 14 at-bats and has apparently won a job with the Angels . . . The Angels caught Lee Lacy off guard with a deft maneuver in the third inning . . . Lacy bounced a single off May's shins and May then threw errantly past first base ... Sandy Alomar retrieved the ball and threw back to Jim Spencer at the bag who caught Lacy leaning the wrong way . . . Bill Singer throws against his former Dodger teammates tonight as the Feud resumes with a 7 o'clock start . . . Tommy John is the Dodger starter.

St. Anthony topples, 6-2

Dennis Sandoval held St. Anthony to three hits and two unearned runs as Servite tripped the visiting Saints 6-2 Friday.

Allan Pirrucello led the Friar hitting attack with a two run triple in the bottom of the fifth inning. Dave Petro added two singles and scored twice for the winners.

St. Anthony drew first blood in its initial at bat, when Mark Nichols got to second on a throwing error by winning pitcher Sandoval, and then scored one out later on John Crotty's single.

After Servite had tied the score at 1-1 in the third, the Saints took the lead for the last time in the fourth. Center fielder Scott Romo trippled to open the inning, and scored two outs later on a throwing error by the Friar third baseman.

Servite went ahead to stay in the bottom of the fourth when it slashed three hits and took advantage of one of four Saint errors to score three runs.

Player withdraws from Masters golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — South African Gary Player, the 1961 champion and a two-time runnerup, notified Augusta National Golf Club officials Friday night that he won't be able to play in next week's Masters Golf Tournament.

Player, who has played in 16 Masters, is at his home in Johannesburg recovering from surgery.

Griscom, noted U.S. golfer, dies

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Frances Griscom, known as the first lady of golf in the United States, died early Friday in her home here. She was 93.

Miss Griscom was the oldest living former national women's golf champion, having won the top trophy in 1900 during the fifth women's tournament held in the nation. She was 21 when she won the championship.

Lights go out for Kings

OAKLAND (Special) — For the Kings, Friday was the night the lights went out in Oakland.

The last-place California Seals eliminated the Kings from the NHL's Western Division playoffs by scoring a 3-1 triumph at the Oakland Coliseum.

The loss left the Kings three points behind fourth-place St. Louis with one game remaining. Coach Bob Pulford's down-trodden skaters end their 78-game season tonight when they engage Vancouver at the Forum in an 8 o'clock affair.

Defeating the Kings in two successive games after suffering four previous losses to Los Angeles, the Seals closed with their fourth consecutive victory. It was their longest win streak of a disappointing 16-46-16 season in which they finished last in the West.

It was a rough, hard-hitting game with Doug Vollmar of the Kings in the first period and Ivan Boldirev of the Seals in the second period being ejected for interfering in two-man fights on the ice.

Sharks third, face Houston in playoffs

The Sharks' scoreboard watching is finished. By virtue of Alberta's 5-3 triumph over Minnesota Friday night, the Sharks finished third in the WHA's Western Division with 80 points and will play Houston in the first round of the World Cup playoffs.

The Sharks open the best-of-seven series Thursday night at Houston. The second game also will be played in Texas on Saturday. The series resumes at the L.A. Sports Arena Wednesday, April 11. The fourth game will be played in L.A. on the 13th.

Tickets are now on sale at Ticketron, Liberty, Mutuel Agencies and the L.A. Sports Arena. Arena level seats are priced at $6.50, loge level at $5.50, upper center $4 and all remaining locations $3. Youngsters under 16 will be admitted for half price at all seat locations.

ABA highlights

AT GREENSBORO, N.C. — The Carolina Cougars took a 1-0 lead in the ABA Eastern Division playoffs with a 104-96 victory over New York behind the scoring and rebounding of Billy Cunningham. The Cougars moved ahead by five points on Mack Calvin's steal with 3:21 left and padded the margin on the way to the final buzzer. Cunningham scored 25 points and Steve Jones added 22 for the winners.

AT LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Dan Issel scored Kentucky's first 13 points and added 30 more to lead the Colonels to a 129-101 decision over Virginia in the opening game of the playoffs. Virginia's Julius Erving, the ABA's leading scorer, played for the first time since suffering a bruised rib March 25 and led his team with 21 points.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

JOHN McLEOD, saying he had reached his goal by bringing the basketball program at the University of Oklahoma to a "level of respectability," left the Big Eight school Friday and signed a contract, for three years at $42,000 per year, with the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Assn.

"Six years ago, when I took over as head coach at Oklahoma, it was my goal to bring the program to a level of respectability. I think we've accomplished that," McLeod said.

FRESNO'S CLIFTON PONDEXTER, younger brother of Long Beach State's all-PCAA forward ROSCOE PONDEXTER, has been chosen to Parade Magazine's high school all-America team, along with RICHARD WASHINGTON of Portland, Ore. and JIMMY SPILLANE, a guard from Palos Verdes High School.

WANTING "to set the story straight," the Harlem Globetrotters say they have not been in contact with CALVIN MURPHY of the Houston Rockets. Murphy, who is having a salary dispute, had said earlier he might sign with the Globetrotters.

UCLA center BILL WALTON has been chosen District 8 player of the year by the U.S. Basketball Writers' Assn. Joining Walton on the all-district team are Long Beach State's ED RATLEFF, Walton's teammate, KEITH WILKES, L.A. State's RAYMOND LEWIS, Washington's LOUIS NELSON, who is from Compton, Southern Cal's CLINT CHAPMAN, Pepperdine's WILLIAM AVERITT, Oregon's RON LEE, Santa Clara's MIKE STEWART and the University of San Francisco's KEVIN RESTANI.

USC's all-America tight end, CHARLES YOUNG, a first-round draft choice, has signed a lucrative contract with the Philadelphia Eagles. Terms were not disclosed, but Young's agent, HOWARD SLUSHER, said, "the contract contains very significant incentive clauses, and if Charles Young, and/or the Eagles are successful, Charley Young is going to be a very pleased man after three years."

ED RATLEFF and Illinois State's DOUG COLLINS, two stars on the 1972 U.S. Olympic basketball team, may wind up guarding each other today in the Coaches' East-West all-star game in Dayton, Ohio. The contest will be televised locally on Channel 9 at noon.

Teske throws one-hitter in Nitehawk win

The Long Beach Nitehawks got the 1973 Western Softball Congress season off on the right foot Friday with a 2-0 win over Carl's Shoes of Burbank at Joe Rodgers Field.

Rodger Teske had a perfect game going until the top of the seventh when with two out Toby Tyler singled halfway to the pitchers mound. It was the only hit the visitors got off Teske.

The Hawks' first run was unearned, coming on an overthrow in the first inning. A sacrifice fly by Max Mallett drove in the final talley in the seventh. Manager Red Meairs will probably send newcomer Gregg Halberg against the Lakewood Barons Sunday night at 7:30 p.m. at Mayfair Park in their next encounter.

WHA highlights

AT ST. PAUL—Ken Baird swatted in his second goal of the game with 2:13 remaining Friday night, lifting Alberta to a 5-3 win over Minnesota in a game that decided which team would advance to the Western Division playoffs. Minnesota and Alberta finished with identical 38-37-3 records for fourth place. They were 4-4 in games against each other but the Oilers earned the right for post-season play on the strength of more victories in the West Division—21 to 17.

AT CLEVELAND—Gary Jarrett scored two goals and goalie Gerry Cheevers kicked out 35 SHOTS TO SPARK Cleveland to a 4-2 triumph over Winnipeg

AT BOSTON—Terry Caffery's third goal of the game at 7:30 of overtime enabled New England to nudge New York, 5-4.

Flying Wheels stun Detroit, vie for title

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (Special)—Conrad Lopez hit a short set shot from the baseline with three seconds left Friday night to give the Long Beach Wheelchair basketball team a stunning 50-48 upset victory over Detroit.

Long Beach increased a 29-24 halftime lead to a 10-point margin early in the second half. Detroit took advantage of a sudden Long Beach cold streak by whittling away at the lead until the score was tied at 44-44. The teams exchanged baskets the final six minutes until Lopez' basket sealed the win for Long Beach.

Mel Lockett (19) and Joe Alexander (14) led the Long Beach attack.

Today at 1 p.m. (PST) Long Beach will oppose Indianapolis for the National Wheelchair Championship.

USC hands 49ers first VB defeat

USC rallied to defeat visiting Long Beach State, 15-8, 12-15, 8-15, 15-11, 15-10, Friday night to take over first place in the Southern California Intercollegiate Volleyball Assn.

The Trojans are 4-1 while the 49ers are 3-1. Long Beach hosts Pepperdine Wednesday.

Warren, Norwalk win

The Knight's pitching ace had to go nine innings before his teammates could support him with two runs, tossing a three-hitter, over La Mirada, 2-0 in San Gabriel Valley League play Friday.

McMullen, undefeated, has an unbelieveable ERA of .02, allowing only one run to score all year. That run was a home run last Friday against Downey.

In the top of the ninth Paul Desjarlais tripled home John Leone after Leone was safe on an error. Dejarlais later scored on a sacrifice fly, which resulted in a bad throw to the plate.

Lynwood had a chance to score in the first inning, loading the bases with one out, but La Mirada turned a double play to get out of the inning.

Warren jumped out in front in the first inning with two runs, scoring two more, one each in the fifth and seventh innings to down Excelsior in other SGVL action, 4-1.

Mel Olds went three-for-four for Warren, driving in two runs and scoring once.

Pitcher Gary Wilson absorbed his first loss of the season for Excelsior. Wilson drove in his team's only run in the second inning with a triple. He also had a double on the day.

Norwalk got two runs in the first inning, and pitcher John Franklin allowed only two hits, as the Lancers defeated Bellflower, 3-0.

Leftfielder Ron Norman and first basemen Tom Johnson went two-for-three in the win. Third baseman John Alvarez had two hits for Norwalk.

20 innings . . . no winner!

Long Beach State righthander Ruben Patron set a Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. endurance record Friday when he limited visiting San Jose State to one run in 20 innings.

Unfortunately, San Jose State's Jeff Gingrich tied Patron's standard three outs later, and darkness before the 49ers and Spartans to settle for a 1-1 tie.

Patron, who has three of LBSU's seven wins this season, surrendered a run in the fifth on singles by Rob Bressea, Jim Johnston and Chuck Behnke, but then set down the visitors with only one other threat in the final 15 frames.

San Jose had a chance to win it in the 17th when Mark Kettman and Johnston singled, but 49er outfielder Lou Persichina threw out Kettman at third and an ensuing ground ball hit Johnston, killing the rally.

Gingrich shut out Long Beach for the final 17 innings after the 49ers had scored on a single by Mike Crosby, a sacrifice by Patron and a single by Craig Kimber.

Gingrich, who struck out 21 and allowed only 10 hits, bailed himself out of a ninth-inning jam by throwing 49er Jim Gmur out at the plate on a squeeze play after Gmur had reached third on an infield single, a wild pitch and a ground out with one out.

Long Beach also made a modest threat in the 20th on singles by Persichina and Crosby, but pinch-hitter John Tindl lined out to end the threat.

The clubs meet today in a noon doubleheader at Blair Field. Friday's game will be replayed only if it has a bearing on the PCAA's final standings.

Neff tumbles Glenn, Artesia, Mayfair win

Neff High school scored five times in the fifth inning en route to a 7-3 victory over the Glenn Eagles Friday in Suburban League play.

The conquest enabled the Trojans to open up a two-game lead atop the Suburban League over Cerritos, a 2-1 loser to Artesia.

Glenn took a 2-0 lead into the fifth when Dan Carroll singled with one out. Keith Maycock tripled home the initial Trojan tally, then rode home on a single by Jeff Turner. A walk, single, error and a balk provided three additional runs fofrfor Neff.

The Trojans hitting star was Maycock who went 3-for-4 with two triples and upped ow has his batting average to .588

Cerritos lost ground as the Dons were upset by Artesia.

Steve Hansen was impressive for Artesia on the mound, striking out 11 Dons without yielding a walk. Hansen also tripled in the third inning but was left stranded.

Winning pitcher Pat Shay singled to open the fourth. An error and a walk loaded the bases with one out and set the stage for Ron Stevens.. Stevens hit a slow roller between third and the pitcher's mound. A throwing error enabled two runs to score to put the Monsoons in front.

With two outs, Mark Pedersen singled home two more runs and the rout was on. In all, there were three costly Gahr miscues in the disastrous fourth, all contributing to the Mayfair scoring.

Frank Speher led the Monsoons with two hits and two RBI. Eedersen added a pair of hits and scored three runs.

Los Alamitos rips S A Valley

Los Alamitos scored nine runs in their first three turns at bat as the Griffins dumped Santa Ana Valley 10-5 Friday in Irvine League play.

Santa Ana Valley pitchers were charitable with nine walks , five of them coming home.

Bob McKelvie drove in two runs with a double in the second for the Griffins. Mike King also had a pair of RBI for the Los Alamitos nine.

In Sunset League action, Western scored a run in the sixth to nip Newport Harbor 7-6.

Newport, trailing 6-1, exploded for five runs to catch the Pioneers only to see the game go out the window the next frame.

Western scored the decisive tally when Dennis Booze led off with a double. Jeff Evans singled him to third, and Booze came home on a squeeze play initiated by Steve Usrey. ta

Dan Wells walked to open the Saints ninth. Mike Durkee reached first on a fielders choice and then after an intentional walk, the Saints won on a walk to Curt Kyler.

Ken Bryant pitched a one-hitter to lead the Dominguez Dons to a 9-0 whitewashing of Pioneer. Bryant also hit two home runs to help win his own ball game.

Keith Calder hit a home run with two men on to provide La Quinta with a 3-1 victory over Rancho Alamitos.

Calder's blast in the fourth was all that Charlie Philips needed to to hold off Rancho. Philips allowed only four hits and the run scored against him came home in the final frame.

Bolsa Grande continued its troubles by dropping a 4-1 decision to the Mariners from Pacifica High.

Jim Glisson doubled for Pacifica in the third, and rode home as Ken Riff reached base on a Matador error. Bill Serr doubled advancing Riff to third. Rod Jett singled and that sealed the fate for Bolsa.

Hornets nudge Cerritos, 3-2

Dan Boone lost his bid for a two-hitter Friday afternoon, getting knocked out of the box in the bottom of the ninth inning, as Fullerton came from behind to nip South Coast Conference-leading Cerritos College, 3-2.

Tim Matz was called to relieve Boone after the Cerritos starter gave up two, hits to open the inning. But Matz was touched for a single, a sacrifice fly, an intentional walk and another single.

Cerritos' league record is 9-2. Fullerton is 8-2.

Ince logs two default wins

For the second time this season, Sue Ince won two matches without lifting her tennis racquet.

The Long Beach City College coed picked up victories in singles and doubles when El Camino's players defaulted. The Vikings went on to defeat the visiting Warriors, 7-2, Friday.

LBCC 7, El Camino 2
Headtke (L) d. Mull 6-3, 7-5; Charem (E) d. Stolland 2-6, 6-1, 8-6; Ince (L) d. Shoffner default; Allen (L) d. Schiller 6-1, 6-1; Bush (L) d. Fleming 6-1, 6-1; Deaver (L) d. Brown 6-1, 6-2. DOUBLES: Headtke-Ince (L) d. Mull-Charem default; Shoffner-Schiller (E) d. Stolland-Allen 2-6, 6-3, 7-5; Bush-Deaver (L) d. Fleming-Brown 6-1, 6-1.

Opener sold out

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds said Friday that every seat in Riverfront Stadium has been sold for the opening game Thursday, April 5, with the San Francisco Giants — 51,726.

Vikings swim winners

Doug Green won the 200 freestyle, the 200 butterfly, and contributed to a team victory in one relay as Long Beach City College outdistanced El Camino 61-42 in a Friday afternoon swim meet at El Camino College.

Absent from the LBCC varsity team were Ann Simmons and Susie Atwood, currently competing in South Africa in the African Games.

The Vikings, spread even thinner without divers, had to win both relays, and did, with Green leading the way in the medley.

Top finishers for Long Beach:
Medley relay: Long Beach 3:57.0.

Stanford golf titlist

Long Beach State third

Stanford, despite winds up to 45 mph, picked up 13 strokes on 36-hole leader USC and squeaked out a 3-stroke victory in the Pacific Coast Invitational golf tournament with a final team score of 911.

Long Beach State, which had been in fifth place trailing by 18 strokes, had the best team score of the day, a 290, and finished 4 strokes behind second place USC and 7 strokes back of the winner, Stanford.

The winds did not seem to bother Long Beach State's Bo Baugh as he tied the course record, firing a 69 to give him a four-day total of 229.

FIRE SPIRIT caught her full stride nearing the far turn while saving ground on the rail, rallied from the middle of the track into the stretch to wear out SISTER FLEET and won all out. The latter broke in stride to take a clear early lead under light coaxing then gave way in the final furlong. FADING IMAGE was unhurried early on the outside, saved ground into the stretch to loom a threat on the rail but was not good enough.
Scratched—Cinderella Slipper, Cotton Sweet and Sintu.

DAILY DOUBLE, 11-Que Bravo & 3-Fire Spirit, Paid $13.20

Mutuel pool—$206,600.
BOLD CLARION attended the pace along the outside around the turn, drew clear when settled into the stretch and won convincingly. SUCH A RUSH volleyed for the lead from between horses, took up while lugging inward about the furlong pole and hung. ROYAL GAME saved ground to force the pace into the stretch and lacked a closing kick.
Scratched—Prospect Park.

1616—FOURTH RACE. 1 1/16 Miles. 3 year old maiden fillies. Purse $7,000.

Arrowwood Lady rallied along the outside to outrace Big Hug for the lead in the stretch and drew out in the closing stages. Daring Baby forced the early pace, took up on the far turn while bearing out, settled in the drive and closed ground. The raider on Daring Baby claimed foul but the stewards noted the horse caused his own trouble.
No scratches.

BERNWOOD QUEST, slow to settle, rallied steadily on the final turn while saving as much ground, responded to left handed urging to wear down IRISH ARA and won while drifting outward. IRISH ARA raced unhurried early, rallied along the rail on the far turn, eased out to get the lead into the stretch then could not hold. TUDOR ROMAN lost ground while making his bid and became intimidated by BERNWOOD QUEST. The stewards posted the inquiry and disqualified BERNWOOD QUEST for interference in the stretch putting him back to third.
Scratched—Wish Us Luck.

MAINZIER BROKE alertly to get a clear early lead under light coaxing, responded to hand pressure in the drive to stretch her advantage and won in full stride. LADY DEBBIE broke poorly, moved into contention midway, raced in close quarters entering the stretch, got clear and improved her position. WESTERLY SONG forced the pace then drifted out when crossing the dirt track aand lost ground.
No scratches.

Alamitos feature draws 5

The fastest field of pacers assembled anywhere in America this year collides tonight at Los Alamitos in the second leg of the $80,000 Golden Bear series at one mile, a race that promises to produce the third 2:00 mile of the meeting.

Tonight's Golden Bear attracted a field of five, including co-track record holders Veri Special and Bye Bye Max, the speedy Sir Dalrae, Windy Way and El Patron. Between them, the five have earned $816,000 lifetime and record 28 2:00 miles.

Veri special startled more than 11,000 fans last Friday night when he went virtually wire-to-wire in a career record 1:58 2/5, equalling the Bye Max in 1972.

That mile was the fastest in the nation this year and quickly elevated the Hillside Farm speedster into the invitational class. The victory by Veri Special came on the heels of a 2:00 1/5 effort in his Los Alamitos debut.

Joe O'Brien who was recording his 3,170th lifetime win and increasing his world-record 2:00 mile total to 180, will drive Veri Special who drew post five for the most difficult assignment of his career.

Sir Dalrae probably will rate as a slim favorite in the Golden Bear. He drew post three following his impressive 2:00 1/5 victory over Bye Bye Max last weekend.

Jim Dennis will drive Sir Dalrae, who shows 12 wins in 19 career starts and earnings of $52,000.

Bye Bye Max race last weekend is somewhat of a mystery, since the week before he had gone wire-to-wire in 1:59 4/5 in defeating Sir Salrae by a neck.

Adios Rick, with the meeting's leading driver, Bobby Williams, at the controls, scored a speedy wire-to-wire win in 2:01 1/5 Friday night in the featured second leg of the $35,000 Orange County Pacing series.

Tanqueray was second and Overhaul third in the bulky 10-horse field.

Adios Rick became the second three-time winner of the meeting, winning by 1-3/4 lengths.

Sent away as the 4-5 favorite as part of the entry with stablemates W.P. Adios and Happy Heart, Adios Rick returned $3.60, $2.20 and $2.10.

SANTA ANITA DERBY LURES ONLY 6 TODAY

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Staff Writer

America's top jockey, Laffit Pincay, will find out late today whether he made a wise decision when he opted for Sham instead of Linda's Chief as the two finest 3-year-olds in the West clash again in the 36th $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby.

The field in the mile and one-eighth classic is a startingly trim six, but most of the action will be for Linda's Chief, the expected favorite, and Sham.

Pincay had his choice of either mount,but decided to cast his lot with Sham, figuring the son of Pretense, who had won four starts by a combined total of 30 lengths, was better at the classic long distances than Linda's Chief.

The Panamanian's logic wasn't necessarily sound, although tragic, a few weeks back when Linda's Chief trounced Sham by seven lengths in a mile and one-sixteenth stake. Today's Derby will be a sixteenth of a mile longer and Pincay hopefully believes the true Sham will stand up.

Today's classic precedes the Kentucky Derby by five weeks and as such is a significant prelude to the "Run for the Roses".

Linda's Chief deserves favoritism today.

The Florida-bred colt has won four of five starts this winter, including one in track record time and another in which he routed Sham while carrying high weight of 126 pounds.

The weight may be a factor for Sham today as each colt will tote similar 120- pound packages. Distance-running horses don't like to pack poundage.

Sham was inappropriately named. Sigmund Summer purchased him for $200,000 last November—a price exceeding Cougar II's purchase—and Sham proceeded to back his owner's faith by winning his West Coast debut by 15 lengths, then bristling to a mile and one-sixteenth triumph in the fastest time at that distance this winter.

Among other contenders in today's caper will be TV producer Quinn Martin's Groshawk, California's outstanding 2-year-old in 1972, who will have Bill Shoemaker on his back. Whether The Shoe, sidelined for weeks with a hand injury, will help his colt today, is something we'll know only later today.

The field rounds out with two sharp colts, who if anywheree else today probably would win whatever they were entered, and a fellow who should have remained in the barn.

The two sharp longshots are Out of the East, a stakes winner at Golden Gate Fields, where the racing is slightly below true Derby vintage, and Ancient Title, who did upset Linda's Chief once and everybody still is trying to figure the reason.

The one who shouldn't be in the chase is Knightly Dawn, Sham's stablemate. But that might be the clue to the race. The stablemate conceivably could set up the stretch run for Sham.

It will be interesting today to see if great ones err, too. Pincay, among others, has a rather deep concern in that department.

Exacta wagering will be held on the Derby for the first time.

After two months on the sidelines and seven unsuccessful rides, Shoemaker earned a trip to the winner's circle Friday.

Shoemaker did it the hard way, too, directing Regal Case to a narrow victory in the $12,000 Candy Spots Purse. Rega Case returned $5.80, $3.60 and $2.80 as the crowd of 17,537 saw six public choices come home in front.

HIALEAH FIRE KILLS 35 HORSES

MIAMI (AP) — Thirty-five thoroughbreds, including two big stakes winners valued in excess of $100,000 apiece, died writhing in agony Friday as a midnight fire swept through a Hialeah Race Track stable.

The best known horses killed by the flash fire that swept the stalls in the 350-by-50 foot barn were Honestous and Bendmar. Most of the thoroughbreds were untested 2-year-olds.

Honestous, a 4-year-old filly who won the Miss Florida Handicap at Calder last December, had career earnings of $109,443. Bendmar was a 3-year-old filly.

Ties course mark with 131

GREENSBORO. S.C. (UPI) — Two-time Greater Greensboro open winner Billy Casper, saying he was putting so well he was almost walking on air, converted a round of seven birdies into a one-stroke second round GGO lead Friday with a record-equalling total of 131.

He was followed by Lou Graham, who also carded a seven-under round for the day and had a two-day total of 132. Aging veteran Sam Snead, who has cashed eight winner's checks here, continued to come on strong and was tied with Doug Sanders for third place, another stroke back.

First-round leader Lee Elder, who had started with a 64, mushroomed to a one-over-par 72, all but erasing his last hope of becoming the first black golfer in next week's masters. He would have to take the $42,000 first place here to compete at Augusta.

Casper's two-day total of 131 tied a GGO two-round mark set by George Archer in 1967 and equalled by Arnold Palmer three years later.

"My feet were hardly touching the ground," Casper said after suggesting that he had just played his "best round in 200 years. I'm thinking well, driving well and putting well," he said.

Casper didn't have to worry about a Masters exemption, which he already has by virtue of winning at Augusta in 1970, but said he could use the GGO winner's money "to get out of town."

He said he wasn't worried about how he was going to play next week either. "I try to take each tournament as it comes along." Casper won her in 1963 and 1968, while Graham has never won here.

Graham complained about his driving but said, anything you'd throw at the greens would stop. The course was playing very easy."

Cullen copes with wind, leads tourney

SAN ANTONIO. Tex. (UPI) — Betsy Cullen, without a tour victory for the past year, battled Gusty winds Friday to fire a four-under-par 69 and take a three- stroke lead after one round of the $30,000 Alamo Ladies Open.

The only other golfer to break par over the windswept Woodlake Country Club course was Betty Burfeindt, who despite her agitation over slow play managed a one-under 72.

FREEWAY FLYER TIME FOR COLLEGE SPIKERS

By JOHN DIXON
Staff Writer

It's Freeway Week in track and field.

Long Beach State, USC and friends participate today in the Claremont Relays at Claremont Men's College, 11:30 a.m., while UCLA entertains Kansas and Tennessee, 1:15 p.m.

Long Beach has won seven team titles in succession at Claremont, but not this time. Handicapped by injuries, and pointing for the dual with San Diego next week, the 49ers will enter only two relays, while parading a full field event roster.

USC is an overwhelming favorite in the team race.

UCLA should dominate Tennessee, the Southeastern Conference champion, and Kansas, Big Eight titlist, but some of the events figure as close as (I).

UCLA has the nation's best high jump trio in Rick Fletcher (7-1¼), Jim Arnold (6-11½) and Rory Kotinek (6-10¾). But Kansas can counter with Barry Schur (7-3) and Randy Smith (6-10¼), while Tennessee stands tall with Tom West (6-11) and Mark Brunch (6-10½).

On the track, the sprints look best. Tennessee will lead with Trevor James (9.4, 20.8) and Darwin Bond (20.8). Kansas pushes for points with Mark Lutz (9.4, 20.7), Emmett Edwards (9.4) and Tom Scavuzzo (9.4, 21.3), while UCLA goes with Gordon Peppars (9.5, 20.8), Ronnie Welch (9.4), Steve Gibson (20.9).

Costello softens Laker rap

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Coach Larry Costello said Friday he hadn't meant to imply the Lakers were afraid to play his Milwaukee Bucks when he censured a coin flip to decide the NBA's Western Conference championship.

"I certainly never said the Lakers were chicken," he remarked before the Bucks playoff game against Golden State.

"After all, they are the world champions," he said.

Costello had said Thursday the Bucks and Lakers should have had a preliminary playoff to decide the conference title after they finished the regular season with identical records.

A coin flip was used instead when the NBA players Assn. said teams were not required to play more than 82 games in a title season.

Costello had said: "To me, if you don't have the guts to come in here and play a game for a conference championship, well, it is hard for me to visualize.

"There is supposed to be some pride," he said. "Our guys had the heart. They were willing to go to L.A. and play."

Laker coach Bill Sharman had reacted sharply to Costello's remarks.

"To answer the charge made by Costello that we were gutless, we highly resent any implication that our team would refuse to meet another team because we were afraid." Sharman said.

"If we are fortunate enough to meet Milwaukee in the second round of the playoffs, the players will be happy to handle Milwaukee's charges on the court," he added.

Loyola, LASU collide today in title game

Loyola defeated California 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles State beat UC Irvine 4-1 Friday to set the stage for today's championship game of the Anaheim baseball tournament.

The showdown is a rematch of an earlier contest won by Loyola, 4-2, now with a spotless 5-0 record.

In another game, Chapman scored three runs in the eighth inning on a bases-loaded walk and an attempted squeeze play to bump Fullerton State, 6-4.

Buc ace belts 3 homers

Combined News Services

Bob Robertson led Pittsburgh out of its deep batting slump with three home runs and a double Friday as the Pirates routed St. Louis, 11-1.

Robertson, whose performance virtually assured him of the Pirates' starting left field job, broke a string of 29 scoreless inning when he homered off Rick Wise in the fourth inning. It also ended a five-game losing skid by the Bucs.

Rookie shortstop Tom Veryzer drove in four runs with two home runs to lead Detroit to a 9-5 triumph over Philadelphia. Veryzer, 20, a non-roster player with the Tigers, hit a three-run homer in the fourth to put Detroit on top 4-2.

Ron Bryant pitched a one-hitter, allowing only a one-out single by John Vukovich in the ninth, and his San Francisco teammates backed him with 16 hits in a 6-0 decision over Milwaukee.

Roger Nelson and Tommy Hall teamed to stop Atlanta with five hits while hurling Cincinnati to a 3-1 win.

Fred Norman, Vicente Romo and rookie Rich Troedson combined to pitch a 10-hit shutout as San Diego beat Cleveland, 2-0.

Bill North's pinch single drove home Gene Tenace with the winning run in the eighth inning as Oakland came from behind to edge the Chicago Cubs, 4-3.

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

Nobody's perfect, but . . .

When this reporter gazed into his crystal ball last October for the purpose of selecting the order of finish in the four NBA division races, it was done with some skepticism. After all, fans have a way of reminding writers about their bum predictions.

You'll have to pardon the self-aggrandizement, but I would like to embellish those predictions at this time. Not 12 or even 15 teams finished in the exact order predicted. All 17 did!

The photographic reprint shown below is from last fall and it verifies the selections. Only the true basketball fan will bring luck into the picture. Who could possibly say it was lucky that third and fourth place in the Central Division between Houston and Cleveland was decided in overtime of the 82nd game of the year when the Cavs lost?

INSIDE PRO BASKETBALL

CENTRAL DIVISION
Predicted order of finish: Baltimore, Atlanta, Houston, Cleveland.
This should be a dandy race between Baltimore and Atlanta. The Bullets may lose it, however, if they can't get Archie Clark to end his holdout. Coach Gene Shue may have ...le handling Elvin Hayes, ...as acquired from Hous- ...t be... it. Shue

ATLANTIC DIVISION
Predicted order of finish: Boston, New York, Buffalo, Philadelphia.
Look for Boston to repeat for two reasons— Paul Silas and Willis Reed. The Celtics have a great rebounder and team player in Silas and the Knicks will be apprehensive all season ...ing about Reed's injured ... If Ree... does regain ...nicks con... Confe...

In fairness, the photo shows only the thumbnail analysis. The main story predicted the Lakers to defend their title, and that has yet to happen. I also qualified my choice in the East based on the health of Willis Reed. Reed isn't in top form, so the selection has to be Boston over New York in the conference finals.

Incidentally, if the Lakers don't go all the way, don't write me any letters. After all, nobody's perfect.

QUIZ TIME:

How well do you know the past achievements or personal traits of NBA players? Listed below are 24 pros, three from each club in the playoffs. Match a name with a pertinent fact in the second paragraph and rate yourself this way: 22-24 correct, All-Star; 19-21, solid performer; 16-18, does not play much; under 16, on waivers.

1. Nate Thurmond; 2. Pete Maravich; 3. Wilt Chamberlain; 4. Dave Cowens; 5. Jerry Lucas; 6. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar; 7. Bob Weiss; 8. John Havlicek; 9. Dave DeBusschere; 10. Elvin Hayes; 11. Bob Love; 12. Lucius Allen; 13. Mike Riordan; 14. Walt Bellamy; 15. Joe Ellis; 16. Rick Barry; 17. Lou Hudson; 18. Wes Unseld; 19. Jerry West; 20. Oscar Robertson; 21. Tom Sanders; 22. Travis Grant; 23. Bill Bradley; 24. Jerry Sloan.

a. pitched for Chicago White Sox; b. top-notch chess player; c. played on 8 NBA champions; d. played collegiately with Archie Clark; e. NBA Rookie of the Year in 1962; f. shoots free throws underhanded; g. went to same high school as Bill Russell; h. all-time leading scorer in playoffs; i. reputed to have best outlet pass in NBA; j. college basketball's all-time top scorer; k. had at least 1,000 points/rebounds 8 times; l. member of bank board of directors; m. an only original player still with expansion team; n. three-time MVP in All-Star game; o. Knicks' 12th-round draft pick in 1967; p. Celtics' all-time leading scorer; q. helped end UCLA's 47-game win streak; r. played in Eastern League, later was NBA All-Star; s. current NBA leader in consecutive games played; t. studied criminology in college; u. still wears floppy socks; v. only 3-time NCAA tournament MVP; w. had TV magic show for children; x-great volleyball player.

Answers appear later in this column.

HIGH FINANCE:

According to Leonard Koppett in the Sporting News, NBA players are the best-paid professional athletes. Because of the manner in which he researched the subject, and the tables he uses to prove his point, it is worth repeating here.

One way to compare salaries, says Koppett, is to take them at fixed points: the minimum, the median, and the average at the top. It means half the players are making more than that figure, and halx are making less.

Management looks at the average because its proper concern is with how much money it must pay out. The player group, composed of separate individuals, looks at the median because that's what affects a majority of its members. A general manager, with complete logic, says if he gives one player more he must give another less to say within his budget. It's harder for an individual to accept the idea that he must take less because someone else is getting more. The table:

	Year	NFL	Baseball	ABA	NHL	NBA
Minimum	1973	$12,000	$15,000	$17,500	$15,000	$17,500
Minimum	1974	same	$16,000	same	same	$20,000
Median	1973	$26,000	$31,000	$31,000	$25,000	$65,000
Average	1973	$27,500	$37,000	$37,000	$40,000	$90,000
Top Bracket		$250,000	$225,000	$200,000	$200,000	$400,000

But the above deserves another table to qualify it. The salary levels, per player, must be related to the number of players. The old rule applies: it is natural to expect a lower average when more people are involved. Here goes.

	NFL	Baseball	ABA	NHL	NBA
Teams	26	24	10	16	17
Roster limit	40	25	12	19	12
Players	1,040	600	120	304	204
At $100,000 or higher	10	30	15	45	50
Proportion at $100,000 or higher	1%	5%	12%	15%	25%

	NFL	Baseball	ABA	NHL	NBA
Gross income	$140	$130	$14	$50	$40
Player payroll	$28.5	$22	$4.5	$12	$18
Proportion of income paid to players	20%	17%	32%	24	45%

LONG BEACH MVP?

It's far too early, but Mack Calvin should be a leading candidate for Long Beach Century Club Athlete of the Year. The former Poly High and USC star has been a stellar performer for several years in the ABA but is in the midst of his finest season, averaging 18 points per game and shooting 50 per cent from the field and 86 from the foul line.

The Carolina Cougars' star has been the wheelhorse in the team's fast-break, considered the best in the ABA.

An All-Star selection and a second-team all-ABA choice, Calvin is only six feet tall but cuts bigger men down to size with his speed and shot-making skills.

AND NOW FOR THE quiz answers: a-9; b-12; c-21; d-17; e-14; f-16; g-15; h-19; i-18; j-22; k-1; l-23; m-24; n-20; o-13; p-8; q-10; r-11; s-7; t-4; u-2; v-6; w-5; x-3.

"THE DOGS ON TELEBISHION ALL EAT IT! MAYBE IF WE LET HIM WATCH THE COMMERCIAL...."

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Your sense of humor grows along with your native dignity thru this moderate year. Today's natives move restlessly; either in mental activity or physically, as athletes.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Take the time to imagine where you would like to be a year from now, a month from now, a week from now.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Young people unwillingly offer fresh insight. Give relationships of all sorts a chance to come to blanace, live and let live.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Don't be surprised that today has an austere and quiet quality. It's time you stopped for serious reflection and prayer.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your feelings tend toward personal isolation. Meditation promises guidance, relief from long-building tension.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Material concerns shouldn't intrude today, but there is an excellent chance to determine how they affect your life.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Gather about you those who share your interests in sports, games, hobbies; spend a placid day doing as little as possible.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It is still a matter of picking the more useful chores to do and staying quietly diligent in repairing whatever has gone awry.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be up and early in doing what your community expects in its regular Sunday observances. Following that make it a personal holiday.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): For once a still mood is due. Assess your basic needs, how you are fulfilling them, what is lacking.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Now the quieter form of leadership prevails, and there is great peace in store for you on living out the spirit of Sunday.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Being self-conscious can benefit you — a bit of advice volunteered from you precipitates a moment of truth.

Old Farmer's Riddle: What's the difference between here and there? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: Have you ever heard that porpoises slip under drowning sailors and carry them to land? It is said that sailors will not kill porpoises.
J.W.B., Philadelphia.

We know of nothing that might support that old superstition. Porpoises in their natural state would not be likely to remain in the vicinity of a swimming man. Merchant-seamen may at one time have objected to the killing of porpoises, but whalemen killed and ate them at every opportunity. In the absence of fresh meat, the flesh of the porpoise was a very welcome change of diet.

Home Hints: Hamburgers can be made more juicy by adding a grated, raw potato to the meat before cooking . . . Glycerin rubbed on a chocolate stain will remove it . . . Riddle answer: The letter "T"

GARDENING

Landscaping — some shrubs thrive in sun

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Many of the shrubs are planted fairly close to heat-réflecting walls. They must be selected carefully. Not all plants tolerate such exposure and grow well.

One shrub not only likes sunny exposure, but responds to it with a leafage that turns a reddish hue. The nadina domestica foliage stays green when grown in more shade than sun. It also is called "Heavenly Bamboo," but it isn't a bamboo at all. Its roots aren't invasive. The upright stems furnish fine lacy-like leafage that is green at first but later turns to red. The shrub is somewhat bare looking during the winter, yet is not considered a winter dormant plant. Mature plants are likely to sprout minute, whitish flowers in clusters when planted in a group. The tall oldest stalks can be cut back to the ground or anywhere along the stems to keep the plants to about four to five feet high.

ANOTHER sun-tolerant shrub is Indian Hawthorne the Raphiolepis. The attractive, small, bell-shape, pink flowers, in clusters during the spring, add their shade of floral beauty in a landscape planting. The variety "spring time" with pink blossoms is a hood husky grower. "Ballerina" has graceful inward arching branches which are different from the other varieties. "Pink Enchantress" is a lower grower and suited more for containers, or where lower shrubs are desired.

The nutritive value of "organically grown foods" is doubtful. There is no proven basis for claiming that plants grown with only organic fertilizer have a greater nutrient content than those grown by conventional methods. The type of fertilizer used is not a determining factor in the nutritive value of the plant, according to Ruth Leverton, science adviser, Agricultrual Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

THE NUTRIENT content of a plant is based on its genetic nature — the genes in a carrot cause it to develop a relatively large amount of vitamin A — just as the genes in an orange are responsible for its high vitamin C content. Climate, including the amount of light, and the kind and amount of nutrient material available to the plant for growth, as well as the stage of maturity when the plant is harvested are the other chief factors involved.

How is nutrient material absorbed by the plant? It must be in the inorganic from — this means that organic fertilizer must be broken down into its inorganic components before the elements are absorbed. Most of the nutrients present, except for the mineral elements, are synthesized (combined to form a whole) in the plant rather than being absorbed from the soil in that state.

SOUTHLAND CLUB NOTES

The Southland Rose Society is having its' regular meeting Monday at 8:00 in the Community room of Glendale Federal Savings and Loan, Stonewood Shopping center at Lakewood and Firestone Blvd. in Downey. Zelda Lloyd, an accredited judge of the American Rose Society will speak on "Color Classifications" of roses.

Visitors are welcome.

The Belmont Heights Garden Club has its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, at one P.M. in Wesley Hall, 3rd and Mira Mar. An attractive program is planned, featuring Margaret Birkit, who will speak on, "The World in Our Garden" with illustrative slides.

Visitors are welcome.

The Los Angeles Garden Club will meet at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday at the Women's University Clubhouse, 540 South Catalina St., Los Angeles.

Mrs. Edwin A. Berg a nationally credited flower show judge, a member of American Iris Society, will present a program. New officers for the coming year will be installed. A luncheon is planned to honor new members. For reservations, phone Mrs. Waldschmidt: 421-8645. The Orange County Bromeliad Society, an organization interested in plants belonging to the Bromeliad family, will meet at 7:30 p.m., Thursday at Mira Linda School, 8699 Holder Street (off Crescent Ave.) in Buena School, 8699 Holder Street (off Crescent Ave.) in Buena Park. Visitors are invited to attend and learn about the art of growing bromeliads. The program will be a demonstration on how to make Tillandsia trees and bromeliad plantmobiles. Stan Oleson, president of the South Bay Bromeliad Association, will be the speaker-demonstrator and show examples of creative ways with bromeliads. The Society is planning the second annual Bromeliad Show to be held April 27-29, at Valencia Park School, 3441 West Valencia Drive in Fullerton (close to Magnolia and Gilbert). The show will be judged and admission is free to the public. A plant table will offer a variety of bromeliads to be sold. Registration of entrants will be April 27, from 5 to 9 and will be open for public viewing April 28, from 11 to 5 and on April 29 from 11 A.M. to 3 P.M. Kathy Dorr of Lakewood is in charge of the Orange County Bromeliad plant show. The sixteenth annual flower arrangement and artistic design show will be presented by Las Artistas de Flores April 12, from 1 to 9 and April 13, from 10 A.M. to 5 at San Marino Masonic Temple, 3130 Huntington Drive, San Marino. The club membership is drawn from the whole of Southern California and in cludes both amateur and professional flower arrangers. Each member will compose four arrangements for this non-competitive exhibition. This different and unique art medium uses containers and accessories with plant material, combined with various other interesting materials from nature and art. Members participating from the local area are: Betty Boeger, Seal Beach; Sue Narr, Rolling Hills; and Mary Plank, Palos Verdes Estates. Tickets will be available on the days of the show at the San Marino Masonic Temple for a nominal donation. A percentage of the proceeds of the show will be donated to the Children's Hospital of Los Angeles. There is ample free parking.

PLANT CLINIC

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q — I'm 80 years old, retired and a backyard gardener. For years I've tried to lure wild birds to my garden of plants and shrubs. I have two feeders and bird houses filled with wild bird seed. The only visitors I have are sparrows and doves. How can I scare off the sparrows and lure our wild birds to my appetizing bird seed and bread crumbs? W.E.-S., Long Beach.

A — We too, feed our birds twice a day, we also have two water dishes for them, one for bathing and the other for drinking. Most of the birds are sparrows. In season there are juncos, towhees and mocking birds. I've foiled the doves and pigeons by using flattened coffee cans to make two strips of tin sheets on the sloping bird house feeder. The sheets jut out beyond the birdhouse roof and bigger birds can't get to the feeder. Some of the seeds drop and they only get the crumbs that spill over. I've checked with a friend who is an Audubon Society member about your problem, and she said there isn't a thing you can do to entice certain birds into your garden and keep out the others. I can tell you the "sparrows" flitting around the rose branches feed on aphids. Also, they eat weed seeds, so you see they "earn their feed". Most important of all they add the needed bird life and chatter to make a garden more complete. I enjoy watching the small birds take a bath in the dish, even the blue jays.

JOBS TO DO NOW

— Do not put tubs or pots on a cement, or flagstone floor, when treating them with one of the "irons" in liquid form. The iron stains the floor if you leave the containers there. The stain is difficult to remove.

— Visit your favorite garden shop, select the colors of Lady Washington pelargoniums you like to add to your patio or porch area.

— Gardenia buds that brown or blacken have thrips holding a convention and feast there. Get that bug spray out and get after those vicious damaging pests.

— Floribunda (abundance of small, short-stem flowers in one large flower head) roses' faded blossoms are cut differently from hybrid tea roses. Cut that whole cluster of faded flowers down to a node or just above a leaf of main cane. This forces a new branch to sprout which will develop another beautiful flower head of roses. This same pruning principle is applied should you wish to cut the fresh flowers for table decoration.

After the don Tangos, what?

MARLON BRANDO ... Oscar Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "If you're successful," Marlon Brando once said, "acting is about as soft a job as anybody could ever wish for, but if you're unsuccessful, it's worse than having a skin disease."

Brando, who in his early career earned as much acclaim and money as any star in Hollywood history, found his fortunes at a low ebb two years ago. His return to the heights was signaled this week with his Academy Award as the best actor of 1972, the second Oscar of his career. But in keeping with a life-style of defiance to the Establishment, Brando spurned the award to protest what he called the ill treatment of Indians in America.

SECOND OF TWO PARTS

The Oscar came for his performance in "The Godfather," a film for which he had to audition.

"Brando was my first choice to play Don Corleone," says Mario Puzo, who wrote the novel about a Mafia family. "But nobody else seemed to think it was a good idea."

THE PARAMOUNT executives recoiled from the suggestion that Brando, with 10 years of flop films and a reputation for being difficult with directors, might play the Mafia don in "The Godfather." But Francis Ford Coppola agreed with Puzo's idea.

Coppola was assigned to coauther the script and direct the film. Both he and producer Albert Ruddy agreed that Don Corleone had to be played by an actor with great presence.

"The Don was to appear in only 40 per cent of the picture," said Coppola, but his presence had to dominate everything. We agreed that only two actors had that kind of charisma — Laurence Olivier and Marlon Brando."

Olivier was unavailable, so Coppola and Ruddy focused on Brando. With the Paramount brass still firmly against Brando's casting, Coppola convinced the actor to tape a brief test in his home. Brando stuffed tissue in his cheeks and, with his acting skill, wordlessly assumed the role of a 65-year-old man.

Paramount capitulated, but the company exacted rigid terms. Brando was paid little more than his expenses for the six-week role. His percentage of the profits was limited to a $1.5-million ceiling.

The immense success of "The Godfather" again established Marlon Brando as the premier American film actor. Other stars might have played it safe and selected surefire box-office movies. Brando, ever the rebel, picked a film that once more plunged him into controversy.

It was "Last Tango in Paris," a story of a middle-aged American and a French girl who meet for sex without disclosing their identities. The film has the most explicit language and the kinkiest sex of any major movie within memory.

Says director Bernardo Bertolucci: "I think for him this film represents a few more steps in the seeking of man's liberation."

Both Brando and the Italian-born director have undergone psychoanalysis, and they viewed "Last Tango in Paris" as a study in human nature — "a man's testing of himself as a kind of catharsis, to find innocence even in perversion," says Bertolucci.

WHATEVER the film maker's intentions, the film brought obscenity charges in Italy and denunciations in every country it has been shown. But some film critics have proclaimed it a masterpiece.

How can Brando follow "Last Tango in Paris."

Some of his friends wonder if he will make another film. "Last Tango," of which he receives 10 per cent of the gross receipts, should earn him millions, enough to support himself and his various families for a long time.

"Marlon has never liked acting," says an intimate. "He fell into it quite by chance, and he only stayed with it because of his big expenses. I wouldn't be surprised to see him quit altogether."

Yet Brando began talking about retirement from acting after he had been in Hollywood five years. He never did it.

THERE can be no doubt that his great interests lie beyond movie sound stages. His consuming project now is the island he owns in Tahiti. It is called Tetiaroa, and his design is to use the island as a laboratory for survival in the human and animal world.

Brando is building a settlement where waste will be recycled and solar enery will provide power. He is sponsoring a project to develop plankton as a human food to feed the world's hungry.

"Tahiti is a snowflake civilization," he once said: "when it hits the ground it will melt. Maybe I can do something to help save it."

Has Oscar winner really gone camping

TRONA UPI — Marlon Brando may have gone camping in the wilds of Death Valley instead of heading for Indian-occupied Wounded Knee, S.D.

When he turned his back on an Oscar for best actor Tuesday night, Brando indicated he was planning to join the militant Indians in Wounded Knee. He sent a young part-Indian woman to the Academy awards in Los Angeles to protest treatment of Indians in movies and television.

BUT SEVERAL residents of this little town on the edge of Death Valley said Friday he spent Wednesday night at a motel here and shopped for camping and prospecting equipment on Thursday.

The motel restaurant cook, Margaret Reed, said she recognized the actor.

"He was wearing a long leather coat and a big 10-gallon hat," she said. "He looked like a man ready to go to the hills."

Pat McGlothlin, owner of a hardware store, said a man who spent more than an hour in her store Thursday morning used a credit card bearing the name Marlon Brando to buy more than $100 worth of camping equipment.

SHE SAID he "talked about mining in the desert."

Jerry Lough, owner of the Pioneer Point Motel, said the man recognized by his employes as Brando was one of two men who registered Wednesday night under the names of Christian and Marquara. Brando played the role of Fletcher Christian in the movie "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Naked interview OK with Cheri

NEW YORK — I'm asking you. Should I interview a beautiful (and shapely) movie star in the nude?

Striking a bold blow for freedom of the press, I challenged lovely Cheri Caffaro to sit naked for an interview since she'd been nude for magazine photographers. She refused. Now, changing her mind, she's said, "Yes" — and scared the pants off of me.

MY TEETH are chattering like my typewriter. "Do I have the guts? Will I have to do it blindfolded? What'll people say?"

"You're discriminating against newspapers and reporters." I thundered. "UNFAIR, UNFAIR!"

I fought the good fight for a free press alone, unencouraged. Never any help from crusader columnists. No pat on the back from editors. How courageous I was, goading Cheri (who's getting known as a film sleuth called "Ginger").

When Cheri said yes, I blubbered, "You sure she wants to? . . . Won't her husband object? . . . Won't people think she's being too forward? . . . Has she thought it over carefully?"

Maybe my Beautiful Wife'd veto it.

"You got into it, now get out of it! What are you scared of?"

"We'll be in a hotel room — all alone!" I almost whimpered. "I'm gonna ask my readers."

"They're going to enjoy seeing you get your bluff called!"

We've set the date, Cheri and I have: April 11. "It'll be a journalistic first," I keep telling myself. "And maybe a journalistic last."

If it starts a trend, who would be next? Angel Tomkins? Stella Stevens? Raquel Welch? Mama Cass Elliot?

WHO WILL be next? Angel Tomkins? Mama Cass Elliot?

DO YOU think Marlon Brando did right? Couldn't he have appealed for the Indians in person, accepted the Oscar and made it the symbol of a movement? Julie Newmar said (at the opening of Rex Harrison's "Emperor Henry IV") that just to meet Brando would be life's great experience . . . It struck me that Marlon is not an Indian-giver but an Indian-receiver. Bob Taplinger says Marlon wants to be the Great White Godfather.

Comedian Jack E. Leonard's at Mt. Sinai Hospital after collapsing from exhaustion at the Rainbow Grill, but is expected back soon. Phil Foster stepped in, joining singer Carolyn Daye . . . Dinah Shore wore an Indian turquoise necklace that Burt Reynolds gave her last week at a party here for her tennis tournament . . . Security wouldn't let photogs get close to Veep Agnew at the Dooley foundation dinner: had to shoot from the balcony.

U.S. fete also Bolshoi ballet's

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — By coincidence, 1976 marks not only the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution, but also the 200th anniversary of the Soviet Union's Bolshoi Theater.

It has become clear that American impresarios are going to make a major effort to add a strong Russian flavor to the American bicentennial festivities, possibly bringing the entire Bolshoi opera and ballet ensemble here.

The public signal for this effort was sounded by Ronald A. Wilford, president of Columbia Artists Management, Inc. Wilford cited the historical coincidence at a lunch he gave here this week for Yekaterina A. Furtseva, Soviet minister of culture, who has arrived for the opening by the National Gallery of Art of an exhibition of impressionist and post-impressionist art lent by the Soviet Union.

Wilford said it would be a significant step forward in Soviet-American relations if the Bolshoi companies would come here, either through his auspices or those of his major competitor, Sol Hurok, who up to now has had a monopoly on the Bolshoi in this country.

Philharmonic fascinates with 'Eonta' — Xenakis and IBM

By DAVID LEVINSON
Staff Writer

After a slow start Thursday with the Brahms Third, the Los Angeles Philharmonic moved on to a crackling presentation by Roger Woodward of keyboard works by Yannis Xenakis, Bach and Liszt.

Conductor Zubin Mehta was just back from a tour of London, Madrid, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Tel Aviv. He seemed tired, and the Brahms in consequence suffered from a narrow emotional and dynamic range.

WOODWARD'S energy alone would have justified the price of admission, however, and it would have done that even if he had quit and gone home to London after the Xenakis.

This fascinating piece — "Eonta" or "Beings" — is written for piano, trumpets and trombones. Since I had never heard it before, I have no idea if Woodward hit the right notes, which Xenakis arrived at in part with the aid of a computer. In the best of circumstances, my ideas on the subject would be shaky. If Mozart had been alive, well and equipped with score at the Music Center Thursday, I doubt if even his legendary ear would have known if all those notes were the ones Xenakis and his IBM 7090 decided on.

This music is complex beyond other musical experience, and indeed beyond the possibility of faithful performance. A computer can be more precise than a human being.

A COMPUTER can calculate for the composer sequences of pitch, dynamics, types of sound, speed, instruments, silence and other elements of his work. Xenakis even used the computer to determine with what force the pianist should press down each finger in playing a chord. A great pianist might be able to exert such control in Debussy — it is alleged that Walter Gieseking could — but it is doubtful that anybody could perform the feat in the faster passages of "Eonta." Nor is it likely that any human performer could duplicate other subtleties that govern the computer as it applies the mathematical law of probabilities to the material of music.

This is all irrelevant to the music as perceived by those who have not studied it. As one of those, I can say that I perceived it as great fun to watch and listen to — perhaps in that order.

Because the pace would not allow for normal page turning, Woodward used a score in which one sheet comprised three or four pages. As he finished with each sheet, he threw it to the floor. When he had a moment's pause, he took a towel, wiped off the keyboard, mopped his face and prepared for the next onslaught.

THE VISUAL pleasure of all this — it remained surprising and therefore amusing — was enhanced by the trumpeters and trombonists. On cue from Mehta they marched about the stage, sat in strategically arranged chairs and occasionally crossed paths.

The sound was exhilarating, although I am not certain how central that is to the aesthetic pleasure the composer presumably means us to derive from observing the laws of nature at work with the aid of a data-processing system.

Woodward followed this exhausting job with a stint as harpsichordist and leader of a small band of strings in Bach's D-minor concerto. The performance was fast but clean and sensitive.

Then Mehta returned to the podium, and Woodward returned to the piano, for Liszt's "Totentanz." Woodward gave this seldom-played set of variations on "Dies Irae" a generally percussive virtuoso performance.

CBS drops ax on 4 series

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

In one of the most surprising actions taken by a television network in years, CBS has canceled "Bridget Loves Bernie" for next season.

The Saturday night situation comedy series, which made its bow last September and is now in reruns, has been high in the ratings all season. For many weeks it was in the top five and for most of the season has been in the top ten.

Recently, its popularity has faded a bit — it placed No. 20 in the Nielsen ratings for the week ending March 11 and No. 15 for the week ending March 18. Most shows, however, which regularly make the top 40 are considered safe from axing.

Why, then, the cancellation? CBS gave no explanation in announcing its new fall lineup of shows. Protests by some Catholic and Jewish groups over the show's apparent advocacy of mixed marriages must have been a major factor, however.

I have been critical of "Bridget Loves Bernie" from the beginning, despite attractive co-stars in Meredith Baxter and David Birney, because its humor always seemed sophomoric and repetitious to me. But networks usually give the viewers what they want.

And, even though "Bridget" had the best time slot in television — following No. 1 rated "All in the Family" — it's hard to argue against the show's success.

CBS also has axed three other series — "The New Bill Cosby Show," after a one-year run; "Mission: Impossible," after a seven-year run, and "The Doris Day Show," after a five-year stint.

The network — first to announce its 1973-74 prime-time programming schedule — will offer five new series starting next fall, three of them dramas and two situation comedies.

James Stewart will return to TV in "Hawkins," a 90-minute drama series about a country lawyer, the pilot for which aired recently. The Stewart series will alternate on Tuesdays from 9:30 to 11 p.m. with "Tuesday Night Movies."

"Cojack," starring Telly Savalas as a tough but compassionate veteran police officer, will air from 10 to 11 p.m. each Wednesday. It's a spinoff from the recent "The Marcus-Nelson Murders" movie.

"The New Adventures of Perry Mason," with a cast yet to be announced, will air from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Mondays. It's a new series based on the famous cases of Erle Stanley Gardner's fictional attorney. (The old Perry Mason was, of course, Raymond Burr.)

The two new situation comedies on CBS, each a half-hour, will be "Calucci's Dept." starring James Coco, and "Roll Out!," starring Stu Gilliam and Billy Hicks. Both will air on Friday nights, "Calucci's Dept." at 8 and "Roll Out!" at 8:30.

Created and developed by Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna, "Calucci's Dept." is set in a state unemployment office which is headed by Coco and staffed by a number of bureaucratic eccentrics.

"Roll Out!" is based on World War II's famous Red Ball Express which drove a thousand miles of one-way road to supply troops of Gens. Patton and Hodges.

Four returning CBS series will be shifted to new time periods next fall. Inheriting the coveted 8:30 p.m. Saturday time slot of "Bridget Loves Bernie" will be "MASH." "The New Dick Van Dyke Show" will move to 9:30 p.m. Monday, "Medical Center" to 10 p.m. Monday and "Cannon" to 9 p.m. Wednesday (it's now at 10).

"NORMAN ROCKWELL'S World . . .An American Dream," which won an Academy Award this week as "best live action short subject," will air from 6:30 to 7 p.m. Sunday on KNBC (Channel 4).

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency said Friday a video tape recorder on its ERTS-1 earth resources technology satellite has been turned off after developing faulty operation.

Unless the difficulty is remedied, the satellite — which already has photographed all major land masses around the world at least once — hereafter will be restricted to photo coverage of the North and South American continents, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

NASA said the tape recorder developed sporadic bursts of noise which resulted in degradation of the recorded photographic images.

TOP VIEWING TODAY

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS, 5 p.m., Ch. 7. Coverage includes today's scheduled 12-round bout between Muhammad Ali and Kenny Norton in San Diego.

HITCHED, 8 p.m., Ch. 4. Sally Field and Tim Matheson star in 90-minute pilot as a pair of newlyweds whose marriage gets off to a rocky start.

JULIE ANDREWS HOUR, 9 p.m., Ch. 7. Henry Mancini is guest on Julie's final first-run show of season.

SAVAGE, 9:30 p.m., Ch. 4. Martin Landau and Barbara Bain portray a TV news team trying to learn whether a Supreme Court nominee is worthy of the post in this 90-minute pilot for a possible new series.

Coast panel to rule Monday on building, oil applications

The South Coast Regional Zone Conservation Commission will hold a double-session Monday in the Long Beach Harbor Department Administration Building to consider claims of exemption and permit applications.

One session, starting at 9 a.m., will consider applications for exemptions, including six from the Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor area.

The session will adjourn at noon and be recessed until 3 p.m. when the 12-member commission will reconvene to consider permit applications.

One exemption claim to be voted on during the morning is for a three-story apartment building over a parking garage at 1140 E. Ocean Blvd., Long Beach. The commission also will consider the following exemption:

—Completion and construction of flow lines, gathering lines, and other utility lines to serve an oil collection satellite now under construction in Wilmington by the Exxon Co.

—Construction of a four-story, 30-unit apartment building at First and Junipero streets, Long Beach. —Construction of a townhouse consisting of 365 units and recreational facilities in the vicinity of Palm Avenue in Huntington Beach.

—Development of an area to maintain all production of oil wells, water-injection wells, source wells, disposal wells, and surface facilities within Long Beach Harbor.

—Continued repressurization of a 6,479-acre oil field to prevent subsidence and a loss of oil and gas quality. The claim was filed by the Long Beach Department of Oil Properties.

During the afternoon session the commission will hold public hearings to consider:

—A tourist oriented complex consisting of two hotels, restaurants and shops to serve the Queen Mary complex.

—A 20-acre shopping center located at Westminster Avenue and Pacific Coast Highway and a 300-unit apartment complex at Seventh Street and Laynes Drive, both to be constructed by the Los Alamitos Corporation.

—A six-lane divided highway to provide access to the proposed waterfront development of the City of Long Beach.

—A 98-foot high office building with parking, bikeway and landscaping at Golden Shore and Shoreline Drive, Long Beach, to serve as the headquarters for California Universities and Colleges.

An 18-unit, two-story apartment at 535 W. 37th St., San Pedro.

Addition of a 69-room, four-story building to an existing 106-unit motel and completion of an existing banquet room and coffee shop at the Golden Sails Inn, 6385 E. Pacific Coast Highway, Long Beach.

PETER ASTORINO ADMIRES BANNING PARK WISTERIA

'Prettiest in years'

Wisterias blooming

By DICK EMERY
Staff Writer

"The prettiest blossoming in years!"

That's what the rains, the sun and a careful pruning last winter have done for Wilmington's famed wisteria vines.

The century-old vines in Banning Park have covered their arbors with purple and white flowers for the annual Wisteria Festival April 8.

Peter Astorino, who tends the vines as gardener for the Los Angeles City Department of Recreation and Parks, said Friday the thousands of pendant flower clusters should bloom at least until next week-end.

"We have two big original vines," he said, "and several smaller vines planted much later. The old vines grew from seeds brought from China.

"Each wisteria flower cluster, 12 to 18 inches long, may have 100 little flowers on its stem. The fragrance is light, sweet and very delicate."

Visitors to the city park's annual festival will find many flowering plants and shrubs near the wisteria arbor.

"Red, pink and white camellias will be blooming, and red and pink azalias.

"There are two large beds of snapdragons, of mixed colors — purple, red, yellow, orange, white and pink.

"Between the arbor and Pacific Coast Highway, in a garden plot 15 feet wide and 70 feet long, more than 100 rose bushes will be in bloom. all the same kind — a deep pink, almost a red.

The Wisteria Festival got its start in horse-n-buggy days as an occasion for political speeches. Several generations later, by public demand, the speechmakers gave way somewhat to musical entertainers and dancing groups from the Wilmington community.

The program, to start at 1:30 p.m., will have a princess-crowning and entertainment of Spanish-American flavor. The park's Phineas Banning mansion, a historical monument, will hold open house.

Eliminates costly surgery

New scope told in L.B.

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A new diagnostic scope that can explore the entire length of the digestive tract has been developed and will be reported to the medical profession in May, a medical specialist said in Long Beach Friday.

The new scope, to be known as the total gastrointestinal endoscope, has been used in eight humans so far to search for the site of unexplained internal bleeding.

Development of the new scope was disclosed by Dr. Hiromi Shinya, chief of the surgical endoscopy unit of Beth Israel Medical Center, New York City.

In an interview at the hospital, Shinya said the new scope is about 10 feet long and not quite one-fourth of an inch wide. At its tip is a tiny balloon filled with mercury, to give it weight.

The scope starts its trip through the digestive tract by way of the mouth. It requires about 12 hours for a total exploration of the food-passage canal.

The most difficult part of the procedure is moving the scope through the pylorus, the lower opening of the stomach. It takes several hours for the scope to pass through the stomach exit, Shinya said.

The new scope is another product of the relatively new science of fiberoptics. Highly flexible optical fibers act as light pipes which can transmit light around corners.

As a consequence, an examining physician can visualize the inside of the digestive tract as the scope moves down the food tube into and through the stomach, small intestine, large intestine and finally the rectum. Such a scope must move through a number of twists and turns.

Shinya said the main indication for use of a total scope will be an attempt to find mysterious bleeding that can't be detected by usual means including the standard scopes that examine only certain segments of the digestive tract.

Shinya is best known for his work with the flexible colonoscope, which not only can cover the entire length of the colon but also can enable a doctor to remove polyps without resorting to abdominal surgery.

It was this topic that he discussed in detail in the Davis memorial lecture.

DR. HIRONI SHINYA

In the past 3½ years, Shinya has removed about 750 polyps from nearly 500 patients. All told, he has performed more than 4,000 colon examinations.

The polyps are small growths in the large bowel. Most aren't malignant but may become so.

Most polyps occur within reach of the relatively short proctoscope and thus can be removed by cauterizing or snaring them with that instrument. But since the colon is about six feet long, polyps beyond the proctoscope's reach must customarily be removed by abdominal surgery after their detection by barium enema and X-rays.

It shortens or eliminates his hospital stay. In some instances the scope procedure is performed in the doctor's office.

Not only does the scope procedure save the patient hundreds of dollars but it also cuts down on illness and possible death.

The mortality rate from abdominal surgery may run 1 to 2 per cent, and the infection rate is more than 10 per cent.

With the colonoscope there have been only minor bleeding problems on occasion.

The biggest hazard posed by the new scope is the possibility of perforation of the intestinal wall, but this risk is reduced when the scope is manipulated by a trained physician.

A leading medical journal recently reported that removal of polyps by abdominal surgery may cost more than $3,200, but the total cost of polyp removal by the new technique averages $1,075.

Shinya says his department's fee for the procedure is $750.

The colonoscope can move all the way to the small intestine in an average of 25 minutes.

A snare-loop device encircles the base or stalk of the polyp, and a cautery then burns or cuts the polyp.

In some persons, as many as five or six polyps may be removed at one time.

He said his record to date is removal of 47 polyps from one patient, but four procedures were required.

This particular patient, he said, suffered from a disorder known as Peutz-Jeghers syndrome, an ailment characterized by multiple polyps in the intestinal tract.

Shinya said that patients say the colonoscope is much less uncomfortable than the standard proctoscope. Even so, he sedates his patients prior to the procedure with Demerol and Valium, administered intravenously.

His plans for future research will include an attempt to treat gastrointestinal cancer by passing a laser-beam emitter to the cancer site by a special scope.

Such an approach, he said, would be especially beneficial in the treatment of elderly persons with too great a risk to be treated by surgery.

The laser emitter would be jockeyed into position, and the tumor would then be destroyed by a powerful beam of light.

Belmont Shore parking placed on Council agenda

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Initial steps toward creating the first of several proposed parking districts in the Belmont Shore business area are scheduled to be taken Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. by the Long Beach City Council.

Councilmen will hear a report from the city clerk on whether signatures on petitions calling for the district represent at least 60 per cent of the assessed valuation and 50 per cent of the area within the proposed district.

The district is bounded by La Verne and Claremont avenues between Second Street and the east-west alley immediately south of Second Street.

If there are sufficient valid signatures on the petition, councilmen will ask the city engineer to prepare a debt-limit report. Under provisions of the Parking District Act of 1943, a proposed parking facility cannot exceed 50 per cent of the assessed value of land and improvements within the district.

It is expected the city engineer's report will take about two or three weeks to prepare. Councilmen then would schedule a public hearing to hear protests against formation of the district.

Creation of parking districts in the Shore was proposed to the city by the Belmont Shore Business Association to help finance off-street parking lots.

The lot for the proposed district now before the council would be immediately south of the east-west alley south of Second Street, and between Glendora and Pomona avenues. It would provide 34 spaces.

Following a survey last fall, the city manager's office recommended that two parking districts be created at this time. To date, however, petitions have been filed for only one — which is designated Parking District No. 2.

Parking District No. 1 would be between St. Joseph and Nieto avenues, from Second Street south to the east-west alley.

Lease renewal urged

From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisors Friday were urged to renew for a six-year term a lease under which the county occupies space for its public library in the 12000 block of Centralia Street in Lakewood.

In a report to the board, officials said they had negotiated a monthly rental rate of $700 for the 4,080 square feet of space and off-street parking for 169 cars.

They said this was $10 more than the county had been paying since the lease first was entered into in 1968, but said the added cost was warranted because of general increases in the lessor's costs.

Under the renewed lease, the county would have the right to cancel after the third year on six months notice.

Officials said the county conducted a survey of the Lakewood area and found four other possible locations for the library. However, all carried a higher rental rate per square foot and, officials pointed out, in any event there would be extra expense and disruptionn of services if the library were to be relocated.

Masked bandit gets 10 years

Michael Ray Morrow, 29, known as the "ski mask" bandit, was sentenced to 10 years to life in state prison Friday in Long Beach Superior Court for three armed robberies last September.

The prison terms were imposed by Judge Elsworth M. Beam.

Beam rejected a motion by Dep. Dist. Atty. Joseph Siler to impose six separate consecutive terms for the three robberies and three findings that the defendant used a firearm.

Morrow's attorney, Dep. Public Defender Malcolm S. MacMillan, filed a notice of appeal against the convictions.

Anemia, diabetes tests set

Free public screening clinics to detect diabetes and sickle cell anemia will be held Monday and April 16 at the Long Beach City Health Department from 9 to 11 a.m.

The clinics at the department, 2655 Pine Ave., are regularly scheduled on the first and third Mondays of each month.

Sickle cell anemia tests are given to all persons more than one year old, with a parent or guardian required to accompany anyone under 18. Families are encouraged to attend as a unit.

Diabetes screening clinics are for those persons who have had no previous diagnosis of diabetes.

Stabbing victim unidentified

The body of a stabbing victim found in a field near Creston Avenue and Legion Drive in Signal Hill about 6 a.m. Friday was still unidentified late in the day, police reported.

They said the man was stabbed repeatedly in the chest and back. They said he was Caucasian and appeared to be about 25 years of age. He had only been dead a few hours, they added.

VA to staff St. Mary's

Emergency dentistry slated

St. Mary's Hospital of Long Beach has arranged with Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital to provide resident dentists in oral surgery for the St. Mary's emergency department.

The program, which begins Sunday, is an effort to expand the oral surgeon's training experience in the management of oral and facial trauma in emergency situations.

On rotating on-call duty at the outset of the program will be the following VA Hospital oral surgery residents: Terrence McCarthy, D. D. S., a third-year resident; Albern Spoolstra, D. D. S., a second-year resident; and Donald Testa, D. D. S., a first-year resident.

They will work under the direction of Jerry Hughes, M.D., director of the emergency department, and the on-call oral surgeon of the hospital's dental staff.

Dr. Sam J. Poidmore, chief of the oral surgery section at the VA Hospital, explains:

"Oral surgery residents at the VA usually see only corrective surgery cases and elective procedures. Because of the great variety of trauma cases channeled to St. Mary's, it will make for a very well-rounded training program.

"With St. Mary's also being the base station for the city's mobile emergency care system, our residents should get added experience in trauma of the jaws and associated structures of the mouth."

Each resident will spend a one-week orientation period at St. Mary's and then will rotate on call every third week. On weekends they will spend at least 12 hours in the emergency department.

5 jailed in drug sales

Sheriff's detectives arrested four Compton men and a juvenile Friday on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs for sale, ending a six-month investigation into drug trafficking near a local high school, Firestone deputies reported.

They said the investigation began last fall, after teachers and administrators at Centennial High School, 2606 N. Central Ave., complained of seeing "open" drug sales across the street.

Booked on charges of possessing the drugs following a 4:50 p.m. raid on a Compton residence by deputies were Bryant C. Lee, 51, and Garvin Zenon, 24, both of 12829 S. Central Ave.; Louis Z. Taylor, 21, of 191 W. 133rd St.; Billy K. Shaw, 19, of 12831 S. Central Ave.; and a 17-year-old boy.

Deputies said all the suspects were arrested in the raid on the home of Shaw. An unknown quantity of unspecified drugs also was confiscated in the raid, deputies added.

Thieves get gems

Long Beach police said Friday that burglars who entered the unlocked home of Alfred Ferrand, 869 Stevely Ave., took cameras and jewelry valued at $1,049.

Oil firms label crisis 'dilemma;' ask conservation

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Financial Editor

As the public becomes ever more aware of the so-called "energy crisis", it becomes evident that the situation might be described more aptly as the "energy dilemma."

Actually, the U.S. still has vast reserves of energy—including almost one-fourth of world's total of economically recoverable fossil fuel (coal, petroleum and gas) and about one-tenth of the earth's nuclear fuel.

But energy production is not keeping pace with energy demand. The dilemma arises from the urgent need to increase our energy output, on the one hand, and to reduce energy-related environmental polution problems on the other.

The U.S. has only about 6 per cent of the world's population but it consumes more than one-third of the world's energy. During the 1960's, U.S. energy production showed a growth rate of 4.25 per cent per year, which is equivalent to doubling production over a period of 16.3 years.

FINANCIAL BUSINESS
Independent Press-Telegram

For comparison, annual growth for the previous 50 years averaged only about 1.77 per cent with a doubling period of 39 years.

Of all available energy sources, the most severe shortage of immediate concern is that of our natural gas supply. Known natural gas reserves are being depleted at an increasing rate, while curtailed exploration and production activities offer no hope that new discoveries will enable producers to catch up with soaring demands.

For the past five years at least, according to Wellman-Power Gas, Inc., gas pipeline companies, gas distributors and major gas consumers have been studying the alternatives and have launched technical research and development programs to tap other available energy sources.

The dimensions of this undertaking are difficult to grasp.

To the average consumer, whose household energy requirements are measured in hundreds of cubic feet of gas and kilowatt-hours of electric power, annual U.S. consumption of natural gas—in excess of 22 trillion cubic feet in 1970, for example—is an incomprehensibly huge quantity.

Yet this is the magnitude of the nation's insatiable energy appetite, which industry must now feed from such alternate sources as dwindling domestic petroleum reserves, large coal fields and gradually emerging atomic energy reserves.

Considering the variety of energy sources available to us, authorities generally agree that the U.S. is in no immediate danger of "running out of energy"

New oil and gas reserves can still be found, as evidenced by the recent discoveries in Alaska's North Slope region. And developing technologies will undoubtedly enable our coal and nuclear fuel reserves to be utilized to a much greater degree than was economically feasible in the face of competition from lower-cost natural gas.

Wellman-Power Gas spokesmen say imports of natural gas and petroleum will continue to supplement domestic production in the foreseeable future—at least for the next 20 to 30 years—while supply exceeds demand in the less industrialized energy-rich countries in the Middle East, North Africa and the Caribbean.

Since their own energy requirements are relatively low, these countries place a higher value on gas and oil as profitable commodities for export rather than for domestic consumption.

Key factor

Atlantic Richfield Company said this week conservation of energy, not abstinence from its use, is a key factor in meeting the challenge of the energy shortage in the United States.

In its annual report being mailed to shareholders, the company said: "To abstain is to impact our national security and our economy and to turn our backs on the material needs of disadvantaged Americans whose aspirations for a better life rest on an economy nurtured by energy. To abstain is to abdicate our responsibility to improve the environment."

Commenting on the dual problems of an energy crisis and excessive pollution, Atlantic Richfield refuted proponents of a proposition that advocates "Let's not use energy and we can solve both the energy problem and end pollution."

Response of the company commentary said: "It's all right to tell an individual not to sleep under an electric blanket with his air conditioner running, but to tell a destitute father in Appalachia to use less energy is irrelevant.

"His future depends on his ability to work: ON THE AVAILABILITY OF A JOB. Jobs are produced by a sound economy, and more jobs to satisfy the demands of a growing work force depend on a growing economy. It takes more energy to run a growing economy.

"Programs to save our deteriorating environment likewise depend on energy. New automobiles, with a plethora of antipollution devices, burn more fuel. Recycling of used materials requires more energy; and new hardware to remove pollutants from streams and prevent emissions into the atmosphere as industrial plants need more energy.

"Fortunately," the company said, "we still have abundant resources crying to be developed: more oil and gas to be found, vast quantities of coal and a whole generation of nuclear, solar and geothermal energy waiting to be harnessed.

"In the meantime . . . there are measures . . . consumers can take to mitigate the shortage . . . — support of mass transit, properly tuned automobiles, maintenance of oil burners in optimum service condition, judicious use of electrical appliances and lights."

Park-A-Matic

How would you like to take your car to the busiest, most congested area and practically before you can say "Good Morning" your automobile is parked.

And, it doesn't make any difference what you're driving, from the smallest economy car to those big, expensive jobs.

The system is one of the major ways that Americans, and other nations around the world, could be solving the continuously worsening parking problem from now until at least the next decade, according to the developers, of Orange.

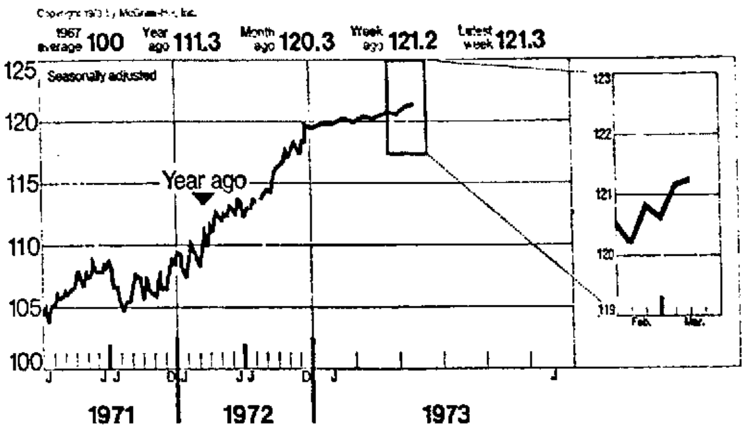
The company president, Dale McCreary, says his firm has developed and patented the fully automatic computerized auto parking system, through the use of space age technology, that more than meets the challenge of how to park millions of cars in congested urban areas.

When a motorist enters a Park-A-Matic system, a computer selects an empty stall and issues a coded parking stub. Time of entry license number, car make, year and color are also entered in the memory bank.

The customer sets his brake and leaves his car in park position, locks the vehicle and takes the keys with him.

McCreary says the first time a customer retrieves his car from this system he will be pleasantly amazed. Within seconds after his stub is inserted in the computer terminal, his car is presented to him, still locked and untouched.

The new system even looks kindly at the absent-minded motorist who loses his ticket. The license number, make, year and color recorded at the time of entry may be used for auto retrieval with little delay or inconvenience for either operator or customer.



The index edged up slightly in the latest week, following a substantial advance in the previous week. There were no significant changes in any of the components. Small gains occurred in steel, trucks, paper, paperboard, and intercity truck tonnage. Auto production continued at a high level. Minor declines were posted in lumber, crude oil, bituminous coal, electric power, and rail freight.

INDUSTRY WEEK

Customer demands up

Companies contacted by Industry Week magazine for managers report sales running well ahead of the level indicated by their own market forecasts prepared late in 1972. Firms which missed on the low side are — or expect to be — scrambling to meet customers' demands.

In some cases, however, there is little they could — or would — have done any differently.

Among the production planners' problems are these: forecasts were off because needed data were unobtainable; expansion of capacity couldn't be justified on a short-term boom; and suppliers are unable to meet delivery schedules.

The business upturn took people by surprise, and some vendors were unable to reach quickly enough.

AN OBSTACLE SOME COMPANY forecasters faced was a reluctance by customers to supply accurate information about their plans; some of the withheld information is considered proprietary.

A producer of spring and wire forms has sent its customers letters asking for orders and commitments far in advance. The company is warning the customers that material deliveries are extending out to 22 weeks on some spring wire.

The boom in the automobile and appliance industries has fired a steel demand which is straining domestic capacity. Inventory buildups, as a hedge against possible shortages of steel sheets, and stepped-up auto production have prompted steelmakers to revise their projections.

Where forecasts last September estimated 1973 U.S. mill shipments of finished steel at 96 million net tons, the industry is now anticipating 100 million to 102 million tons. Sheet mills now require a four-month leadtime on orders.

Forecasts which indicate short-term capacity problems ahead generally don't spur crash capital spending programs. Many industries view their capacity requirements in a practical light.

PRODUCERS OF AGRICULTURAL chemicals, for example, still remember the economic sting of the mid-1960s when excess capacity sent prices nosediving.

The pendulum has since swung to the opposite extreme. Industry operating losses, which led to a shakeout of marginal firms, discouraged investment in new facilities, and now the industry is short on capacity.

One agricultural chemicals company is not accepting any further orders for certain fertilizer products for spring delivery, and the demand-supply crunch is expected to worsen as the spring rush season — the next two weeks — is upon them. The company predicts a shortage of phosphate fertilizers for the next two years because of a shortage of facilities to make phosphoric acid, an intermediate in the production of phosphate fertilizers.

Shortages of natural gas, used to produce ammonia and nitrogen fertilizers, are hampering the industry's ability to meet the demand for those products, Industry Week said.

AS GOLD PRICE RISES

Minirush in Yukon expected this spring

DAWSON CITY, Y.T. (AP) — This Yukon Territory town, now little more than a ghost of the days of the Gold Rush, gleefully is watching the international price of gold rise while quietly preparing for a second stampede into the Klondike this spring.

"We're going to have a ministampede this spring," predicted Mayor Mike Comadino, 64. "If I was 40 years younger, I'd get a pick and a pan — and a bulldozer — and hit the creeks myself."

The expected new-era gold rush would come on the 75th anniversary of the Klondike Gold Rush of 1898, during which more than 40,000 prospectors swarmed into the Yukon after the initial strike at nearby Bonanza Creek two years earlier.

More than $250 million worth of gold has been sluiced from the creek-beds since then, about $100 million worth in the five years following the Bonanza Creek strike. At today's prices, as much as $85 a fine ounce, that gold would be worth upwards of $1 billion.

The 750 residents of Dawson City are excited because a lot of gold remains in the diggings, much of it ignored because it was low grade or dredged over and spewed back into the water.

"FROM the comments I've heard this year around town, I'm going to be an extremely busy man," said Mining Recorder Pat Paton of the Dawson Mining District. "Some areas with low-grade gold were left untouched when the price was lower. Even these can be profitable now.

"Damn few creeks won't be touched this year, and I think we'll be able to sit back and say that we've regained our end of the mining activity in the Yukon Territory," he added.

He estimated that there are 800 staked gold claims in the district, of which about 100 are being worked on a part or full-time basis by about 75 miners.

"I have the feeling there's still plenty of gold left in the creeks, even right around Dawson," said Paton. "With today's equipment, you can go down 30 to 40 feet into the pay gravel by stripping off the overburden with a bulldozer. That's something you couldn't do in years gone by."

Jack Gould, 50, a Dawson resident, predicted the new gold rush would be "a stampede of the little man, people coming in with bulldozers, then going to the sluicebox."

"It will never be like it was in 1898, but we have the makings of a small gold rush, and it will help Dawson to beat the band."

Griffith firm in state contracts

Award of two contracts for reducing congestion and improving traffic safety on four Southland freeways was announced by James A. Moe, state director of public works.

The first calls for constructing an additional southbound lane on portions of the Golden State Freeway (Interstate 5) between the Pasadena Freeway (Route 11) and the Park Overcrossing; constructing a concrete barrier in the freeway median between the Elysian Viaduct and 0.2 mile north of the Park Overcrossing; and widening undercrossings at Duvall Street, Elmgrove Street, Fletcher Drive and Gilroy Street, and modifying the Riverside Drive Undercrossing and Elysian Viaduct, all in Los Angeles.

It also includes installing metering devices to limit access to the freeway during periods of congestion at the southbound on-ramps of Interstate 5 between the Pasadena and Ventura (Route 134) freeways, and the eastbound on-ramps of the Ventura Freeway between Vineland Avenue in Los Angeles and Central Avenue in Glendale.

The Griffith Company of Long Beach submitted a bid of $3,269,000, the lowest of five received, and was granted 360 working days to complete the project.

Unionamerica in reorganization

Unionamerica, Inc. (NYSE, PCSE), has announced its board of directors approved a plan of reorganization which will separate Union Bank, its principal subsidiary, from its other activities and will result in Unionamerica's shareholders owning stock in two new companies.

It is anticipated the stock of both companies will be listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Under the plan, a new bank holding company will be created which will own Union Bank, 19th largest bank in the United States; its subsidiaries.

WEEK'S TRANSACTIONS

DAILY INVESTOR

No 'free lunches'

By DON CAMPBELL

"My son," the wise old man said in that patronizing voice that drives young people right up the wall, "there's no such thing as a free lunch."

Cynical as it may sound, that is, few "bargains" aren't without a catch of some sort. We accept this as a fact of life and, in most, cases, it's a fair trade-off . . . a cost that is reasonable.

Q: I have $4,000 in savings which I would like to invest wisely. I am 28 years old, have a family of four and have 10 years of service in the Air Force. I almost put my cash into a fund recently, but after reading your column I investigated and discovered that it was an 8 per cent load fund. I dropped that idea. The fund representative, of course, disputed your article and informed me that I would end up in the long run paying more in a "no-load" fund due to hidden "management fees." Could you tell me if this is true? Would you also know if a "no-load" fund generally charges a fee for redemptions?

A: That's a pretty enthusiastic fund salesman you've encountered. He makes a convincing argument but, unfortunately, it's full of more holes than a pair of 19-cent socks.

"Management fees?" Sure, there are management fees — in the case of both load and no-load funds — and there's nothing "hidden" about them. How — especially in the case of no-loads, which charge no sales commission — do you think they make any money in this very competitive business?

As a rule management fees average about ½ of one per cent (a year) of the fund's assets. Some charge a little less and some go up as high as ¾ of one per cent — but this is standard for both load and no-load funds. A few no-load funds DO charge a redemption fee, but there aren't very many of them, and those who do levy a charge in the one per cent to two per cent range.

Which, whether your fund salesman wants to admit it or not, is a lot less than the eight per cent sales charge that he wants to lay on you.

(Campbell will answer only representative questions of general interest.)

Local Loan in 65th year

Local Loan Company, with offices in Long Beach and in 11 states, begins its 65th year Monday.

Fred B. Snite, 89-year-old founder, is still involved in the business and last week sent a commendation to E. W. Sheeran, manager of the Long Beach office, for Sheeran's 41 years with the firm.

Sheeran has been manager here four decades.

New clean air rules affect 3 substances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday imposed new rules to cut down the amount of three hazardous substances — asbestos, beryllium and mercury — that Americans breathe.

The rules from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) require that no asbestos mills give off visible emissions, unless an air cleaning device is used.

They also ban the use of asbestos tailings — the unused part of the ore — for road surfaces and permit no visible emission in plants which use asbestos.

THESE include plants making certain textiles as well as cement products, floor tile, paints, insulating material and a long list of other products.

The EPA prescribed certain procedures to follow when buildings containing asbestos, in insulation or around heating pipes, are demolished. The demolition crews must wet down the asbestos material and drop it to the ground in air-tight chutes from buildings of certain heights.

The EPA estimated that 28,000 buildings are demolished each year which will fall under these rules. The new procedures will add an estimated $145 million a year to the cost of building demolition.

Asbestos has been linked to bronchial cancer and identified as a possible cause of other chest cancers. Its effects sometimes do not show up for 30 years in persons exposed to heavy doses.

A spokesman said the ban on asbestos tailings applies primarily to roads in Vermont, where asbestos mines exist.

Beryllium can be lethal if inhaled in sufficient quantities and also has been linked to skin and eye problems. The new rules limit the amount of beryllium that may be expelled from plants and prohibit the burning of beryllium waste except in incinerators and under certain levels.

THE BERYLLIUM rule affects certain foundries, ceramic makers, machine shops and rocket testing facilities.

Breathing mercury vapors has been linked to nerve and kidney injuries, as well as potential brain damage. Under the new rules, plants which process mercury ore or use mercury material to produce chlorine gas are limited on the amount of emissions they can produce.

The substances are the first to be declared hazardous under the 1970 Clean Air Act. The rules were prompted in part by the pressure of a law suit brought by the Environmental Defense Fund.

Killers of baby get prison

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) — A couple convicted in the death of the woman's 15-month-old daughter who was severely beaten and forced to swallow tequila were sentenced Friday to prison terms.

Roland P. Dion, 24, was sentenced to five years to life for second-degree murder and one to 10 years for child beating. The sentences will be served consecutively. Susan R. Young, 27, the mother, was sentenced to one to 10 years for child beating.

The pair were found guilty earlier this month in the death of Rainbow Dawn Young, who died in a Santa Cruz hospital Oct. 18 with several broken bones and bruises over much of her body.

Testimony during the trial was that Dion was a heavy drinker who stuck his fingers in the baby's throat, threw her up against logs, sat on her and forced tequila down her throat.

Mrs. Young, who testified on her own behalf, said she had no idea the baby suffered broken bones several weeks before she took the child to the hospital from their tent home near the town of Soquel in the Santa Cruz mountains.

SMOG REPORT

OZONE—Maximum levels of .05 parts per million in all areas.

EYE IRRITATION—None.

VISIBILITIES—Generally minimum of four to six miles.

THE APCD said a moderately high, weak inversion layer would result in what were described as "no important smog effects."

DETROIT TRUMPET

LITTLE DETROIT COMES TO LONG BEACH

There is a new suburb in Long Beach it has been announced by Mr. Mel Burns, president of Mel Burns Ford.

Known as Little Detroit, the suburb takes in the area surrounding Mel Burns Ford. Little Detroit acquired its name, according to Mr. Burns because of the large number of new and used cars that come and go from Mel Burns Ford.

"We sell slightly fewer cars than Detroit itself," explained Mr. Burns, "so we thought it only fitting that we change the name of our location to Little Detroit."

Mel Burns Ford has sold 3385 new and used cars and trucks during the past calendar year and expects to increase sales by more than 25%. with Little Detroit as their address.

Mel Burns Ford was founded in 1947 and has sold and serviced many satisfied customers to date.

In addition to President Mel Burns, the dealership is managed by Earl Cline, with Cliff Young as new car sales manager, while Joel Almlie is in charge of service.

Little Detroit Offers Three-Way Guarantee On Used Cars

"Our volume new car business means that our used car department gets the pick of the trades that are taken in," explained Ralph Brown, Vice President of Mel Burns Ford.

"In fact, every used car goes through our used car assembly line and has to be approved by our service manager before it's put on our lot. "We back up what we say with a "Good as Gold" 760-day warranty that after the basic 50-50 period extends a 15% discount on parts & labor for two years.
